WRATH MOUNTS OVER ATTEMPTS TO SMEAR TEXAN

Legislators Lash at Red Conspiracy.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—The communist plot to smear Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] of the committee investigating un-American activities was laid bare on the floor of the house late today.

David Mayne. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

It was revealed that federal bureau of investigation experts had seized the typewriter of David Mayne, described as the Washington representative of the Fascist anti-Semitic Silver Shirts, and found it was used to write the forged letters on which the plot was based.

It was further disclosed that the notary public, whose signature was attached to an affidavit in which Mayne swore the letters were authentic, testified he had not administered an oath to Mayne and did not know him.

Launch Attack on Hook.

House members immediately plunged into excited debate on the case, with suggestions being made that a widespread investigation should follow. Representative Frank E Hook [D., Mich.], who placed the forged letters in the Congressional Record, was under severe attack from both Democratic and Republican members.

Amidst applause from both sides of the chamber Representative Frank B. Keefe [R., Wis.] excoriated Hook for attempting to besmirch the character of Dies from coast to coast on evidence of the flimsiest nature. Keefe declared the simplest child could have detected that the letters were bungling forgeries.

Indignation among the legislators was so high that Hook was denied the privilege of removing his charges from the record. He previously had declared he would not withdraw his remarks unless forced by the house to do so, but when he changed his mind and asked that permission his request was refused.

Letters Basis of Charges.

The letters placed in the record by Hook were purported to have been signed by William Dudley Pelley, leader of the Silver Shirts, quoting him as claiming he had a "gentleman's agreement" with Dies which would protect his organization from an investigation by the Dies committee. The letters were purported to have been received by Mayne.

On the basis of the letters, Hook inserted into the Congressional Record a long statement accusing Dies of friendship with Fascist and anti-Semitic groups. He charged that the Dies committee had dealt harshly only with the communist groups.

Summoned before the committee, Mayne admitted he had manufactured the letters and sold them to Harold Weisberg, former employé of the La Follette civil liberties committee. Weisberg, who is assisting in the preparation of a book on the Dies hearings, acknowledged before the committee that $105 was paid Mayne for producing the letters.

Weisberg's Dismissal Told.

Mayne said he learned that Weisberg was dismissed by the La Follette committee for supplying advance information to the Daily Worker, official publication of the communist party of America. He said Weisberg now is employed by Gardner Jackson, lobbyist for labor's Nonpartisan league, thru which John L. Lewis' C. I. O. has communist party connections. Jackson also testified before the Dies committee relative to the letters being bought from Mayne.

When Representative Hook took the floor this afternoon to ask permission to withdraw the letters and charges involving Dies, he asserted that because of Mayne's sworn affidavit he still had reason to believe that the letters might be genuine.

"The gentleman knows, if he knows anything, that those letters are forgeries!" interrupted Representative Eugene E. Cox [D., Ga.] heatedly.

Hook shouted a demand that this

Invades Home, Slugs Woman with Iron Bar

Mrs. Leona Conner.

Police, calling him an unusually vicious type, and warning that he is a potential killer, promised to make every effort to run him down.

Poses as a Decorator.

Mrs. Conner was in her apartment at 4536 North Wolcott avenue when the man rapped at the back door. He appeared to be between 25 and 30 years of age. He said he had been sent by decorators to estimate cleaning needs in the apartment. Mrs. Conner let him in. He took off his hat, an Oxford gray fedora, and laid it on the table.

Mrs. Conner turned to walk into another room. At that instant the intruder struck her on the back of the head with an iron bar, 10 inches long and one inch thick. It was taped on one end.

Mrs. Conner screamed and the slugger struck her again. He hit her six times. Mrs. Conner's screams were heard by her next door neighbor, Emil Heuerman, a retired police operator, 62 years old.

Heuerman ran to the back porch and met the thug as the latter was running from the Conner flat. Heuerman seized him but the man was too strong and broke away. Two other neighbors, N. Deroser, 4534½ North Wolcott avenue, and Fred Warren, 4609 North Wolcott avenue, heard the commotion and took up the chase on the street.

Draws Pistol and Escapes.

Warren, who is 60, cornered the criminal in a blind areaway. The trap failed to hold when the hoodlum drew his pistol and forced Warren to hold up his hands and step to one side.

Meantime, H. N. Logsdon, 4534 North Wolcott avenue, had found Mrs. Conner unconscious in her home, and carried her to the nearby Ravenswood hospital, 1917 Wilson avenue. In the Conner flat police found the attacker's hat and the metal bar used in the slugging. They also found an eight inch lever of the kind used to pry automobile tires from rims. These are being examined for fingerprints.

Police issued a warning to housewives not to admit strangers into their homes. They pointed not only to the Conner case but to the murder of Miss Rose Neary, west side spinster, who was hammered and strangled to death in her apartment at 3248 Franklin boulevard last June 2.

REPORT SWEDEN BUYS 150 WARPLANES IN U. S. FOR 8 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1 [Special].—Despite the rush of airplane orders for the United States army and navy and four European belligerents, the way has been cleared for neutral Sweden to obtain a fleet of airplanes in this country, it became known today.

Sweden has completed arrangements to get 150 Vultee attack planes in relatively quick time and will have no trouble in getting engines for them, it was reported. About $8,000,000 was said to be involved in the deal. While it is understood formal signing of the contract has not taken place, the purchase has been agreed upon and only technicalities remain.

It was reported in congressional circles tonight that while the planes would be shipped to Sweden and delivery made there, the fighters might be intended for Finland. However, Sweden is regarded as the next country likely to be attacked by soviet Russia should the Russian assault on Finland succeed.

Sweden, which has relatively large gold reserves and is enjoying prosperity despite her precarious situation, is understood to be paying cash for the planes.

Walking Against Red Light to Cause Evanston Arrests

Evanston, alarmed by four automobile traffic deaths in January, has ordered its policemen to enforce the laws against pedestrian carelessness. In the last week more than 200 first notices have been given violators who walked against red lights or otherwise disobeyed regulations. Persons who receive three such notices will be taken to court and tried.

King of Britain Confined to His Room with a Cold

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP).—King George VI. of Great Britain is suffering from a slight cold and is confined to his room, it was announced officially today.

2 Americans to View Nazis' War Prisoners

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Two members of the American embassy staff here will inspect British and French war prisoners this month to determine whether Germany is observing international law in the treatment of captured troops.

This mission will be undertaken as part of the duties of the embassy's foreign representation section which looks after the interests of British and French nationals in Germany. The inspections will be made by Jefferson Patterson, first secretary, and Capt. John Lovell of the military attaché's staff.

Treatment of prisoners is regulated by The Hague convention of 1929. The American inspection of the camps will be made about Feb. 15.

Report 700 Are Being Held.

While nothing has been revealed officially of the number of prisoners captured by the Nazis, it is reported that from 600 to 700 French and about 100 British soldiers are encamped in southern and western Germany. Most of the French prisoners were captured in patrol actions. The British captives largely are seamen and aviators.

The prisoners live in barracks within barbed wire inclosures. Separate buildings are provided for officers and men. They are not required to work, altho it is said several French captives volunteered to help erect additional barracks to keep from being idle.

Football is played when the weather permits and the Y. M. C. A. here is planning to conduct language and other classes to help the prisoners pass the time.

Eat Like German Civilians.

They are reported to be fed about what the average German civilian eats. Their meals usually consist of soup, potatoes, cabbage, bread and occasionally meat, of which civilians are allowed one pound weekly.

This is supplemented by shipments of food from Britain and France which are said to be coming in large quantities. These food parcels are cleared thru the Red Cross agency for prisoners of war at Geneva which also handles mail for the captives.

The American church here collected hundreds of books and magazines from the American colony for the prisoners and has taken other steps to make them more comfortable.

CHAMBERLAIN SPURNS BID FOR ECONOMIC CZAR

Commons Supports Him, 185 to 90.

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP).—The house of commons tonight backed up Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's expressed determination to run the war his own way by voting down, 185 to 90, an opposition demand that he put an economic dictator in the cabinet.

The vote was on the call of the prime minister for support of his contention that "this is no time for a change."

More Harm Than Good.

Introduction of a "high powered minister with a high powered staff may do a great deal more harm than good," the premier argued.

A Labor motion presented by Herbert Morrison called for inclusion in the war cabinet of a minister charged specifically with "planning to the best advantage the resources of the nation for successful prosecution of the war and for meeting the requirements of the civilian population."

Outside the nine man war cabinet are the minister of economic warfare, president of the board of trade, overseas trade minister, and minister of shipping.

Says People Are Worried.

Morrison, in proposing a change, said "people are worried and public morale is likely to weaken if they think that things are not working with the speed and precision they should."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, opposition Liberal leader, said the present war drain was approximately £7,000,000 [about $28,000,000] a day, compared with £2,000,000 in 1914.

The British war office announced that "certain overseas defense battalions," composed of men from 35 to 50 years of age, "will shortly be proceeding overseas" for guarding bases and ammunition dumps and other duties.

Children Back in London.

At the same time Minister of Health Walter E. Elliot informed commons that 36.8 per cent of the children removed from London to safer areas during the early days of the war had returned to their homes.

The list of casualties of the war at sea was swelled today by the addition of the 460 ton Norwegian vessel Fingal I., which went down off Scotland after an explosion; the 4,450 ton British steamer Bancrest, torpedoed and sunk last Saturday, and the 1,524 ton Swedish freighter Sylvia, bombed and sunk last Saturday. One member of the Bancrest crew was lost and 33 were saved.

Copenhagen dispatches said 15 of the crew of 23 lost their lives when the Danish steamer Vidar, 1,353 tons, struck a mine in the North sea.

A French vessel, the 1,782 ton Honfleuraise, was attacked, but reports did not say whether she was damaged or sunk.

Explosion in Ship's Hold.

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 1 (AP).—The British steamer Tintern Abbey, 2,471 tons, reported herself in a "precarious position" today as a result of an explosion in her hold while at Limni, port on the Greek island of Eubœa. The captain said he suspected a time bomb was responsible.

Find 4 Bodies in Plane Wreckage.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 1 (AP).—Four bodies were found today in the wreckage of a royal air force bomber which crashed into a mountain on the County Antrim coast yesterday.

Japs Refloat Submarine.

TOKIO, Feb. 1 (AP).—The Japanese navy disclosed today that after almost a year's work it had refloated the submarine I-63, which sank Feb. 3, 1939, carrying 81 men to their death.

BALKANS TO TALK PEACE—UNDER SHADOW OF WAR

Disclaims War Plans

BERLIN, Feb. 1 (AP).—Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop today disclaimed any intention on the part of Germany and Russia to draw the Balkans into the war. In an interview given to the correspondent of a Greek newspaper for publication tomorrow, Von Ribbentrop said both nations are making every effort to spare southeastern Europe the horrors of war and are working actively to establish a stable peace there. On the other hand, German informants charged the British hoped the possibilities for the spread of the war would arise and become acute at the Balkan Entente conference opening tomorrow.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 1.—Conscious of the pressure of great powers focused upon them, the delegates of the Balkan entente gathered here tonight for a conference opening tomorrow that will see them the object of intrigue from all sides.

Gen. John Metaxas, Greek premier.

The representatives of Greece, Turkey, Jugo-Slavia, and Rumania will find themselves under the shadow of war. Political observers feel it will be a fateful meeting. There are many rumors concerning the real reason for calling the conference other than that the entente's statutes require periodic gatherings. Some observers believe, however, the states will do little more than affirm their strict neutrality. But anything may happen.

Jugo-Slavian circles say their country will see that no positive action is taken because of the danger of offending Germany.

Troubles Faced by Rumania.

Rumania's problems are a damper on the conference's activities. The delegates fear German troops near the frontier and Germany's diplomatic pressure may force her to drop efforts toward Balkan coöperation and devote herself to feeding the German machine.

The Nazis are demanding more oil from Rumania. Great Britain and France threaten to withdraw their guarantees of Rumania's integrity if she forces their companies to produce more oil that might be sent to Germany.

Rumania faces pressure from three other sides. Russia has demanded the return of Bessarabia; Bulgaria wants the Dobruja region returned, and Hungary has called upon her to return Transylvania. All were given to Rumania after the world war. Rumania's control of the mouth of the Danube river also is eyed covetously by Russia.

Rumania wants to be really neutral, but Germany is very near and Britain and France are far away. Also, she remembers the empires' guarantees to Poland and Czecho-Slovakia.

Shy Away from Alliance.

Formation of a defensive alliance by the entente has been hinted, but it is feared German pressure may

HEAVILY ARMED SLEDS PUSHED AHEAD BY TANKS

130 Planes Support Russian Attack.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 2, Friday (AP).—The Russian army struck suddenly and violently at the Mannerheim line last night. It employed a new offensive technique with armored sledges pushed by tanks and supported by a swarm of 130 war planes. The drive opened as Finland's white haired President Kallio was issuing an appeal for an "honorable peace."

The Red army, which has been playing dead on the Karelian isthmus since mid-January while fierce battles were waged along the Arctic circle and north of Lake Ladoga, suddenly came to life with a violent onslaught aimed straight at Viipuri [Viborg], Finland's second largest city.

The attack was made at Summa, 20 miles south of Viipuri and 20 miles inland from the coastal fortress of Koivisto, which has withstood nine weeks of hammering from land and naval artillery and aerial bombardment.

Long Artillery Preparation.

The assault was preceded by six hours of artillery preparation. Then the infantry attack began, with the sledges and tanks as its spearhead. Instead of letting their tanks go forward by themselves, the soviet command equipped each one with an armored sledge which carried both machine gunners and riflemen. The tanks pushed the sledges into battle; the men on the sledges protected the tanks against Finnish hand grenade throwers.

Despite the new strategy and the heavy aerial strength, the Russians gained no ground, Finnish officers said, the intrenched Finns holding doggedly to their positions. The fighting was continuing early today.

While the main attack was at Summa, the Russians sought to concentrate troops for attacks at other points. Finnish artillery, however, scored direct hits on columns of field batteries, tanks, armored cars, and infantry units before they could be brought into position.

Finns Silence 15 Batteries.

The Finnish officers also said their guns silenced 15 soviet batteries. Two soviet observation balloons and one Russian plane were shot down.

The Karelian attack coincided with a Finnish army communique which indicated the Russians are attempting to resume the offensive all along the line, from the arctic to the isthmus.

The communique told of the repulse of Russian attacks in the reinforced arctic Petsamo area and Salla front, and on an island off the northeastern shore of Lake Ladoga, in which the Red army suffered "heavy losses."

New Bombing Raids.

The Russian land attacks were bolstered by increased bombing attacks on Hango, Kotka, and Turku in southern Finland, and Rovaniemi in the north.

Several buildings were set afire by incendiary bombs at Rovaniemi, but early reports indicated few persons were killed.

Dispatches from Tallinn, Estonia, meanwhile tended to support reports that soviet air bases in Estonia had been damaged by bombs dropped by a fleet of 34 Finnish planes. At Baltiski, one soviet air base, several planes and hangars were reported destroyed in a surprise raid. The coastal city of Kuiessar and the air base islands of Oesel and Dagoe now are blacked out at night on orders from Moscow.

Calls War Senseless.

President Kyosti Kallio's appeal to end this "barbaric, senseless attack" was firmly qualified by the assertion Finland would not cringe before "imperialistic aims."

The president used the final, solemn session of the war diet yesterday as a sounding board for his plea, but it really was addressed to the soviet government which does not recognize his government and which does not even admit it is "waging a war against Finland." Russia invaded Finland on Nov. 30.

Kallio reiterated in general the previous offer of peaceful negotiations made on Dec. 15 by Foreign Minister

Vaino Tanner, in a broadcast message to Soviet Premier Vyacheslav Molotov.

The only reply was an authorized Moscow statement dealing with Russia's expulsion from the league of nations which said the soviet-proclaimed "People's government" was the only one Moscow recognized in Finland and that Russia's relations with this so-called régime were "peaceful and friendly." Soviet statements usually refer to the Kallio government and its armies as "Finnish White guards."

"We sincerely hope the term 'humanitarian help' may be made to cover civilian air defense and anti-aircraft equipment, and that such help may be given us for the protection of the population behind the front from an aggressor who uses the air force in a most inhuman manner against civilians."

Sweden, he went on, "has shown her identity of fate with us. In addition to bountiful material help, well equipped volunteer forces have come from there to help us."

The president paid warm tribute to the unity of diet and government —"a more harmonious page," he said, "surely never has been written before in the history of the Finnish parliament."

Finally, he asserted, the Finnish leadership "has an unshakable inner conviction that the heart of the people in defense of our rights has beaten in time with ours."

The ministry of supply yesterday issued directions to local bureaus for recruiting labor to increase the area under cultivation in the campaign to develop food supplies. District leaders will organize labor and decide the areas to be cultivated. Some 500 volunteer workers from Denmark and Sweden and Norway were expected to join Finns.

The Finnish Communique.

LAND—On the [Karelian] isthmus nothing new. On the northeast side of Lake Ladoga the enemy launched several attacks on Jan. 31 on an island held by our troops but was compelled to withdraw after suffering heavy losses. In Lapland our troops repulsed enemy attacks in the direction of Salla and Petsamo.

AIR—In the home area enemy aircraft bombed the market towns of Rovaniemi on Jan. 31, and carried out a few other individual flights. According to information received so far about a score of civilians were killed in the raids and about 40 wounded. During the day two enemy planes were shot down.

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 1 (AP).—A vigorous soviet Russian infantry attack against Finnish positions at Hoyhenjarvi [on the Petsamo front] in the far north near the Norwegian frontier, was reported today by the newspapers Aftenposten.

The dispatch said 20 light Russian planes participated in the attack yesterday but that the Russians were repulsed and withdrew to their original positions.

The Russian Communique.

MOSCOW, Feb. 2, Friday (AP).—The Leningrad military communique today said:

"Feb. 1.—Nothing of importance took place at the front. Soviet aviation made reconnoitering flights and bombed military objectives. Three enemy airplanes were brought down."

REPORTS FRENCH SHIP IN DISTRESS IN MID-ATLANTIC

Thomaston, Me., Feb. 1 (AP).—A message reporting an unidentified French vessel in distress in mid-Atlantic, several hundred miles west of the Azores, was picked up today by the Mackay radio station. Cause of the vessel's plight was unknown. Several vessels in the vicinity turned to go to the aid of the ship.

The coast guard at Boston said it gave its call letters as "FPGY," but added the letters were unlisted, probably indicating the French had placed it in commission only recently. Coast guards said the distress call apparently had been relayed by the steamship President Van Buren.

The American steamship Tulsa sent out a message saying it was within 100 miles of the French ship and that it was proceeding to its assistance. Also going to the vessel's aid were the American freighter Exmoor, 300 miles distant, and several other ships which were not immediately identified.

Day's War News

Reports yesterday told of the repulse of Russian attacks on the Petsamo front and a new Red attack at Hoyhenjarvi (1). Soviet troops also were repulsed on the Salla front (2) and on an island in Lake Ladoga (3). The Russians launched a furious new attack on the Mannerheim line at Summa (4). At Baltiski (5) a Finn air raid damaged the soviet air base, while air bases on Oesel and Dagoe Islands (5) are now blacked out at night. The Reds made new air attacks on Hango and Turku (6).

33 MEN AGAINST THE SEA! 20 LIVE; THE REST FREEZE

Horror Voyage Starts with U-Boat Attack.

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP).—A nightmare voyage in open lifeboats on the icy Atlantic in which 13 seamen froze to death was described tonight by 20 survivors of the 5,625 ton Greek freighter Eleni Stathatos. The ship was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine Jan. 28.

The survivors reached the Irish shore today. They said they were in lifeboats for four days, during which they had to throw the frozen bodies of 13 companions overboard.

The crew originally consisted of 32 Greeks and one Irishman, Michael Ryan of Tullabrack, County Limerick. Ryan said the submarine came to the surface near the ship Sunday morning, fired a shell over the bows, and then rammed a torpedo home.

The crew escaped in two boats just as the big freighter capsized and sank.

"A heavy sea was running and the weather was bitter cold," Ryan said.

"Our hands and feet swelled up so much—we were so tired of rowing—it was awful!

"It was a bad dream. We were always cold, we were always tired, we were always hungry. Then the worst of all came Wednesday.

"There were the dead in the boat —13 Greeks. They had frozen to death. We threw them overboard.

"Later the second boat capsized. We had the larger boat and we got the men out of the water.

"Early today we saw the Irish coast, but we were so tired we couldn't row any more. A motorboat finally came out. And here I am."

PURSE SNATCHER JAILED.

Clarence Brown, 19 years old, 847 Lakeside place, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell and fined $100 by Judge Frank M. Padden yesterday on two charges of purse snatching.

ENGLAND GRABS FOR MARKETS IN ECONOMIC WAR

Special Council to Lead Drive for Exports.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—More disclosures were made today about Great Britain's efforts to harness all of its forces to pull neutral countries into its economic orbit and away from Germany. Emphasis is more and more being laid on economic rather than military aspects of this war, both in tieups with neutrals and with Britain's allied empire, France.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain emphasized this trend today when he predicted in the house of commons a "very considerable concerted drive" to increase export trade under an export council to be established under Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, the president of the board of trade, who is a member of the cabinet.

Include Union Officials.

Chamberlain said the export council would include trades union officials and officials of the treasury, the foreign office, and the ministries of supply and economic warfare. Lord Josiah Stamp, noted economist, will be one of the members.

It also was announced that more than 30 industries have been lined up under government leadership to launch a great drive to further British exports to neutral countries.

For months, the board of trade has been in consultation with leaders of industrial associations, inviting them to make suggestions for trade abroad and to give estimates of the quantities of raw materials which they require for carrying out export orders.

Arrangements Made.

Satisfactory arrangements have been made, it is stated, with the controlers of the raw materials.

The chief industries taking part in the drive are cotton and wool, textiles, automobiles, bicycles and motorcycles, linen, silk and rayon, chemicals, and electrical machinery.

The general public here has been warned that clothes soon may be rationed and also that it will not be possible for housewives even to buy pots and pans. All of these products will be diverted into exports.

In all this economic offensive it is hoped that under war conditions the competition with Germany for export markets will make greater strides than was possible under the régime of peace. Only a year ago both nations were proclaiming that they must either export or die, and until last March they believed that there was enough export business in the world for both.

Some Success Already.

Britain's export drive, which experts say must be successful if the war is to be paid for, already has met with some success, according to statistics given out here.

Sweden, for instance, used to buy less than half her coal from Britain and just more than half from Poland and Germany combined. By the end of last year Sweden was buying more than 80 per cent from this country, the British say.

One thing blocking coal exports so far has been the difficulty of getting shipping space. This difficulty, it is hoped, will be cleared up after today, when the government introduced a policy of requisitioning both liners and tramp steamers to carry cargoes of grain, sugar, iron ore, and other necessary supplies.

Needs of exporters for shipping space now will be taken into account on an equal basis with the needs of other departments, which are mainly interested in imports. Thus the economics of this country tend to become more and more totalitarian and under government direction.

The disclosure by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, that a million women also will be inducted into the nation's forces of production —that is, workshops and factories—also is likely to lead to important developments in economics and social organization of this country.

The project is being studied to see how labor unions react to it and whether they regard it as possibly the beginning of their dissolution. It is not consonant with their constant fight against dilution of labor to have women replace workers.

AIR CORPS TRIES OUT POWERFUL NEW PLANE; FINDS A MINOR FLAW

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1 [Special].—The air corps took one of its latest types of pursuit airplanes, the Bell Airacobra, officially designated the P-39, into the air at Bolling field today for an exhibition flight. The new machine, an unusual type armed with four machine guns and a 37 millimeter cannon, was flown for half an hour by Capt. George E. Price, test pilot from Wright field.

After landing Capt. Price reported that vibration in the engine and propeller had developed and he ordered that the plane should not be flown again until these were eradicated. The plane is unusual in that the motor, an Allison V-12 liquid cooled engine, is placed in the fuselage behind the pilot. A six foot extension shaft which passes between the pilot's legs turns the tractor propeller.

The air corps announced that the plane has a maximum speed of over 400 miles an hour, can attain more than 36,000 feet, and has a range of about 750 miles. It has a tricycle landing gear and lands at less than 70 miles an hour. These features make it one of the finest fighting planes in the world.

SEEK ROOSEVELT AID TO SAVE TWO IRISH BOMBERS

DUBLIN, Feb. 1 (AP).—The aid of President Roosevelt to save two Irishmen from death sentences for a bomb explosion which killed five persons at Coventry, England, on Aug. 25 was sought tonight at a protest meeting attended by some members of Ireland's parliament.

The meeting also voted to ask the intervention of prominent Irishmen in the United States. The Cork city council adopted a resolution asking the minister of external affairs to intervene to save the men's lives.

When the appeals of Peter Barnes, 32 years old, and James Richards, 29, were dismissed on Jan. 23, Scotland Yard posted more than 100 guards around London's law court to prevent possible violence by members of the outlawed Irish Republican army. The execution date has not been set, and it is possible for Britain's home secretary to grant commutation of the sentences.

MENACED ON ALL FRONTS, BALKANS TO TALK PEACE

Entente Conference Opens Today.

cause Rumania to break away if the other entente members try to get her to make concessions, tho she would like to see a protective alliance. Jugo-Slavia fears such an alliance would drag her into war. Turkey is rumored to be the strongest champion of such a defensive union, but the other entente members fear that is because of her British connections. She also has a mutual assistance pact with France. Therefore they shy away from the idea. Greece is said to be in the Turkish camp.

The members, too, are said to fear Germany might take offense if a defensive alliance aimed at her were formed by the group now constituted merely for keeping the peace.

Whatever is done will be done secretly among Foreign Ministers Sukru Saracoglu of Turkey, Dr. Aleksander Cincar-Markovic of Jugo-Slavia, Prime Minister-Foreign Minister Gen. John Metaxas of Greece, and the entente's president, Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu of Rumania.

In contrast to the gloomy view that nothing can be done politically without making matters worse, there is some hope that economic agreements to improve Balkan trade will be reached.

GERMANS REPORT DESTRUCTION OF ENEMY PATROL

BERLIN, Feb. 1 (AP).—Destruction of an enemy patrol on the western front was reported in the high command communique today. It said, "Minor artillery fire in the west. A German reconnaissance squad Jan. 30 destroyed an enemy patrol in the border region west of Saarlautern and returned without losses. The German air force continued its reconnaissance activity over Great Britain."

"Quiet Day" Reported.

PARIS, Feb. 1 (AP).—The empires communique tonight said, "A quiet day on the whole. Firing from casemates on either side of the Rhine." The morning's communique dismissed last night's activities as "nothing to report."

GERMANS KIDNAP POLISH WOMEN, REPORT CHARGES

Claims Raiders Force Them to Work on Farms.

ROME, Feb. 1 (AP).—The Polish envoys to the Vatican and to Italy added a new chapter on alleged persecution of Poles by Germans today, charging the Nazis with kidnaping Polish women for forced labor on farms in the reich.

In a second pamphlet, amplifying a first which alleged persecution of priests and Catholics, the Polish government charged 15,000 Polish leaders had been executed in German-annexed Poland in a mass "extermination aimed at the entire population" and that 500,000 had been deported.

Detailing many stories of alleged cruelty and starvation, the pamphlet said "the most frequent practice is to kidnap Poles and send them to forced labor on farms in Germany."

Organize Street Raids.

"For this purpose raids on the streets are organized, and all who cannot show working permits are arrested," it said.

"Sometimes the trucks stop in front of the queues outside stores, composed mostly of women. Those in the line are forced to get into the trucks and are taken to work in the fields."

Hostages taken by the Germans, it was declared, were in continual danger of execution on the least excuse, such as the tearing down of a Nazi flag by some person unknown to the hostages.

The document stated one man was imprisoned for five years at Poznan [Posen] because he owned a movie theater where the American film, "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" was shown last June—before the German occupation.

Treated As Inferiors.

The Germans were reported to be treating the Poles as an inferior people, making them take off their hats to German officials in the street, to wait in the stores until Germans have been served, and to stay off sidewalks reserved for Germans.

Concerning alleged execution of 15,000 Polish leaders, and citing other acts of terrorism, the document declared:

"These executions are continuing now thruout the territory of western Poland and have the character of an extermination, particularly brutal, aiming at the entire population."

The Polish pamphlet related that thousands had been imprisoned in concentration camps under terrible conditions and charged widespread looting of homes by raiders and confiscation by Germans of most Polish property.

Prisoners and deportees alike are dying of hunger, the pamphlet said.

"At Bydgoszcz [Bromberg] the German army put to death hundreds of Polish inhabitants," the document set forth. "Massacres of this kind, while smaller in number, took place in nearly all cities of Poznan, Pomerania, and Silesia."

It said that 50 persons were executed publicly at Koscian, 15 at Gniezno, 16 at Kornik. It was reported that 136 students, some aged from 12 to 13, were executed at Bydgoszcz.

A Vatican source said that the Vatican radio station, which made two broadcasts recently on conditions among the Poles under German rule, does not plan any more such broadcasts.

This source emphasized also that the Vatican has "nothing to do" with circulation of pamphlets by the Polish embassies but nevertheless keeps account of all such information coming from any source.

VALVES' FAILURE GETS BLAME FOR SQUALUS SINKING

All of Crew Absolved in Navy Board Report.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—The sinking of the submarine Squalus was due to mechanical failure, Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison announced tonight after approving the report of a naval board of inquiry.

Secretary Edison.

The secretary made public the long document, containing complete findings, opinions, and recommendations concerning the sinking of the Squalus. The craft went down last May 23 in approximately 240 feet of water, 15 miles off Portsmouth, N. H. Twenty-six men lost their lives, including one officer and two civilians.

Valve Failures Blamed.

The opinion of the court of inquiry was that the submarine sank primarily because of mechanical failure in the operating gear of the engine induction valve and also because of the nonclosure of four hull stop valves.

"This mechanical failure was not discovered in time," said the court, "due to either an electrical failure in the valve indicator or a mistake in reading this indicator by the operating personnel."

[Engine induction valves provide air for engines when the submarine is operating on the surface and are closed before a dive. Hull stop valves are a part of the induction system and back up the main valves.]

All Aboard Absolved.

The court absolved all officers and members of the crew, saying that no offenses were committed nor serious blame incurred. It declared that the officers and crew were well trained and efficient and cited Lieut. Oliver F. Naquin, commanding officer, for outstanding leadership during the sinking of the Squalus and rescue of her survivors.

The court found that the rescue of the 33 survivors was performed efficiently and expeditiously, and declared that the salvage of the submarine was an outstanding accomplishment.

The Squalus is now being reconditioned at Portsmouth at an estimated cost of $1,400,000. The navy estimates that the ship will be ready for recommissioning next June.

Recommendations Made.

As a result of its inquiry, the court, consisting of Rear Admiral William T. Tarrant, commandant of the 1st naval district, Capt. Thomas Withers, and Capt. William R. Munroe, made the following recommendations:

1. That no further proceedings be taken against any officer or member of the crew of the Squalus.

2. That engine induction valves and the ventilation induction valves be operated by separate hydraulic control levers.

3. That the hull opening indicator boards be rearranged to include only those hull openings which are closed at "rig for diving" and that the engine induction and ventilation induction indicators be together on a separate and distinct board.

4. That ventilation supply and exhaust hull valves and engine induction hull valves be quick closing.

5. That these valves be equipped with electrical indicators which indicate on a separate board in the control room.

6. That the latching arrangement for engine induction valves be redesigned to insure positive operation for locking and release for both open and closed positions.

7. That ventilation duct bulkhead flapper valve housings be constructed so as to be pressure proof.

8. That all deck hatches of all submarines be fitted to accommodate the rescue chamber.

Points to Be Studied.

Edison said that in view of all the circumstances he approved the recommendation that no further action be taken against any officer or member of the crew. The other recommendations, relating to design and material, will be the subject of separate consideration and action, he said. The board of awards is also considering separately recommendations for outstanding performance of duty.

There was a mild degree of censure, however, in Edison's remarks on the case.

"The record shows," he said, "that the closure of all hull stop valves was prescribed as routine procedure in the Squalus. The facts remain, however, that these four hull stop valves were open when the ship made her last dive and that evidence was adduced that it was not the practice always to close these valves.

Finds Explanation Lacking.

"Altho the failure to close the two hull stop valves in the main engine air induction system may have been the result of special circumstances known only to the personnel who died at their posts of duty in the forward and after engine rooms, there is no adequate explanation of the failure to close the two hull stop valves in the after battery compartment.

"This, together with the fact that a substantial doubt remains as to the habitual practice of closing the hull stop valves, indicates that the training, supervision, and indoctrination necessary to insure the timely closure of these important hull stop valves, while diving, was lacking in emphasis."

Recalls Diving Procedure.

Edison said that on the 19th and fatal dive of the Squalus after her commissioning, the diving signal was made, the main engines stopped, and the single operating lever was moved into the proper position for closing, by hydraulic apparatus, both the main engine air induction valve and the main hull ventilation valve.

These are large valves on the exterior, and separate red and green lights were installed in the control room to indicate when the valves are open or closed. The red lights indicated open valves and the green lights closed valves. Edison said that on this dive, according to the testimony of eye witnesses, the red lights went out and the green lights came on, indicating that both of the exterior valves were closed.

Suggests Instrument Fault.

"Entering water was the first sign that some exterior opening was not closed," said Edison. "Either these witnesses, however honest in their convictions, were mistaken in their observations, or the instruments upon which they relied were not in proper working order, for it is established that valve A, the main engine air induction valve, either did not close or, if closed, did not remain so closed."

The hull stop valves which Edison mentioned are located at the four points of entrance into the hull of two systems of piping. These entrances are located in the forward engine room, the after engine room, and two in the compartment above the after battery room. The piping systems are for engine air induction and hull ventilation and lead from the two main valves, previously mentioned.

A failure of either of the two main valves to close would flood the piping systems, Edison said. These four stop valves back up the two main valves by closing the air piping at points of entry into the pressure hull. The stop valves are hand operated and can be closed in 6 to 15 seconds.

Cites Hull Stop Valves.

"Had these hull stop valves been closed prior to submergence of the main engine air induction valve, which normally will occur in not less than 35 seconds after commencement of the dive, only the pipe lines, and not the compartments, would have been flooded," Edison held.

"There is no survivor to testify as to the failure to close the two hull stop valves in the main engine air induction system. The court found that an unsuccessful attempt was made to close one of the hull stop valves on the ventilation system in the after battery compartment. A survivor, whose duty it was to close these two hull stop ventilation induction valves, testified that he tried to close one of them but that it was jammed open.

"There is no evidence adduced that these two hull stop ventilation induction valves were tested when rigging for diving to see if they were free for closing as required by the ship's orders."

Asks Annulment

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—Ina Ray Hutton, blonde band leader, is seeking to undo a secret one day marriage to a traveling salesman. Her plight was discovered today in New City, N. Y., where Ina Ray appeared in a secret hearing a week ago to ask an annulment. She sought no alimony, apparently contented with the estimated $3,500 she's getting for swinging her baton in front of her all-girl swing band.

In the court papers it was revealed that Ina Ray and Charles O. Doerwald, a New York traveling salesman, whom she had met only two weeks previously, eloped to Warrenton, Va., last July 29. She said investigation showed Doerwald's divorce from his first wife had not become final when he married Ina Ray.

BRITAIN BOLSTERS DEFENSE AGAINST RAIDS FROM AIR

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP).—The men who direct Britain's air defenses are hurrying preparations for a German air onslaught which they expect to come with the improved weather and longer days of spring.

"There is evidence the Germans are pressing construction of fast, long range bombers," an informed British aviation source said. "This bomber is likely to be used in considerable numbers in any full scale air attacks the Nazis may attempt."

The new German plane is described as JU-88, a twin motored Junkers built primarily for speedy performance at high altitudes. It carries a crew of three or four and three guns—one in the nose and one above and one below the fuselage. To combat the new German bomber the royal air force has a new two seater fighter called the Defiant, equipped with a power driven gun turret overcoming the inability of fixed gun fighters like the Spitfire to make a broadside attack.

LEGAL TO LEND TO FINNS, HULL AIDS DECLARE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1 [Special.—The senate foreign relations committee today heard R. Walton Moore, counsellor and Green H. Hackworth, solicitor of the state department, in defense of the administration's bill to increase the lending limit of the Export-Import bank from 100 million to 200 million dollars to finance exports of nonmilitary supplies to Finland and other foreign countries.

Moore and Hackworth reaffirmed their arguments at a previous session of the banking and currency committee that a government loan to Finland, under existing circumstances, would not constitute a violation of international law.

The committee postponed action on the Finnish loan question until Monday. The committee also has before it the Japanese embargo issue.

SUPREME COURT CELEBRATES ITS 150TH BIRTHDAY

Guardian of Constitution, Hughes Asserts.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—The United States Supreme court observed the 150th anniversary of its first meeting today with a reminder from Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes that the continued existence of our constitutional system rests not with the court but with the people who created it.

While the Supreme court is essential to the survival of the constitutional system, the chief justice declared, its successful working depends upon its integrity and the confidence it inspires.

"By the method of selection, the tenure of office, the removal from the bias of political ambition, the people have sought to obtain as impartial a body as is humanly possible and to safeguard their basic interests from impairment by the partiality and the passions of politics," Mr. Hughes said.

Majority Roosevelt Appointees.

The remarks of the chief justice concerning the integrity and impartiality of the court's members and the method of their selection assumed a special significance because of the recent momentous crisis thru which the court has passed. Tho failing in his effort to gain control of the court in 1937 by packing it with a maximum of six additional members, President Roosevelt has succeeded as a result of death and retirements in effecting what Justice Felix Frankfurter calls a "reconstruction" of the court's membership.

The sesquicentennial ceremony was held in the ornate chamber of the court's $10,000,000 Greek temple, but with the 18th century ritual beginning with the crier's "Oyez, oyez, oyez!" It was attended by members of the Supreme court bar, members of the senate and house judiciary committees, and a special joint committee created for the celebration, and representatives of the executive branch of the government.

Place Wreaths on Graves.

Earlier the joint committee had laid wreaths on the graves of William Howard Taft, a former chief justice, at Arlington cemetery, and of eight other justices buried in this vicinity. Similar exercises were conducted at 58 graves in various parts of the country.

"The recognition of this anniversary," said Chief Justice Hughes, "implies the persistence, thru vicissitudes of 150 years, of the deep and abiding conviction that amid the clashes of political policies, the martial demands of crusaders, the appeals of sincere but conflicting voices, the outbursts of passion and of the prejudices growing out of particular interests, there must be somewhere the quiet, deliberate, and effective determination of an arbiter of the fundamental questions which inevitably grow out of our constitution system and must be determined in controversies as to individual rights.

Function to Maintain Balance.

"It is the unique function of this court, not to dictate policy, not to promote or oppose crusades, but to maintain the balance between states and nation thru the maintenance of the rights and duties of individuals."

It is only natural, Mr. Hughes declared, that there should be differences of opinion in the interpretation of constitutional questions and that the court's decisions should result in criticism.

"This is a token of vitality," he said. "It is fortunate and not regrettable that the avenues of criticism are open to all, whether they denounce or praise. The essential thing is that the independence, the fearlessness, the impartial thought and conscientious motive of those who decide should both exist and be recognized.

"The generations come and go, but the institutions of our government have survived. This institution survives as essential to the perpetuation of our constitutional form of government—a system responsive to the needs of a people who seek to maintain the advantages of local government over local concerns and at the same time the necessary national authority over national concerns, and to make sure that the fundamental guarantees with respect to life, liberty, and property, and of freedom of speech, press, assembly, and religion, shall be held inviolate.

"The fathers deemed that system of government well devised to secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity. Whether that system shall continue does not rest with this court but with the people who have created that system. As Chief Justice Marshall said: 'The people made the constitution, and the people can unmake it. It is the creature of their will, and lives only by their will.' It is our responsibility to see that their will as expressed in their constitution shall be faithfully executed in the determination of their controversies."

Attorney General Speaks.

Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, who represented the executive branch of the government, revived an old administration argument of the court packing controversy by attacking the doctrine of stare decisis, whereby the court in the past has been guided in its construction of the constitution by previous decisions. Jackson lauded the early days of the court, when, he said, "all questions were open ones, and neither the statesmanship of the justices nor the imagination of the advocate was confined by the ruling case."

"The passing of John Marshall," he said, "marked the passing of that phase of the court's experience. Thereafter the constitution became less a living and contemporary thing more and more a tradition."

Political Games Wrecked in Mails

(Story in adjoining column.)

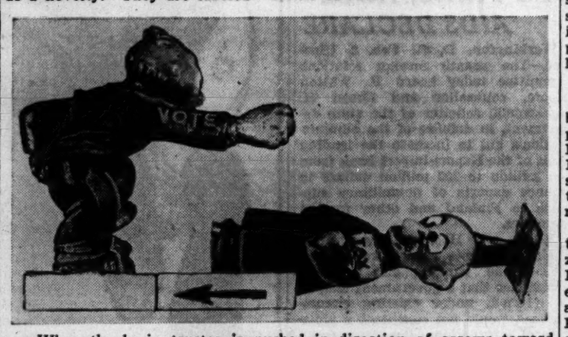
Magnetized figurines representing a citizen (left) and a New Deal brain truster bearing taxes (right) are being manufactured in Chicago as a novelty. They are labeled "Battle of 1940."



When the brain truster is pushed in direction of arrows toward the citizen, action of the magnet causes the citizen to whirl and knock the brain truster off his pedestal with an arm labeled vote.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Edward E. Parry, manufacturer of novelty, is disturbed because, he says, nearly 80 per cent of the carefully boxed figurines are being broken in the mails. This is a package that was started thru the mails and broken up.

THE MAILS PLAY TOO ROUGH WITH A POLITICAL TOY

Deliver Anti-New Deal Game in Bits, Says Owner

The United States post office is getting mighty careless about the way it handles "The Battle of 1940," a magnet game with a political flavor, according to Edward E. Parry, distributor of the device. Nearly 80 per cent of the packages mailed out from Parry's headquarters at 720 North Franklin street in recent weeks have been delivered badly shattered, he said yesterday.

In most instances, he reported, the carefully packed plastic figurines and the magnets that are parts of the game have been smashed as tho stamped under foot during their passage thru the mails. Parry says he is beginning to doubt that the repeated battering of his mail is entirely accidental.

Announces He'll Complain.

"I'd expect a certain number to be damaged," he said, "but not 80 per cent. I'm going to Postmaster Kruetgen with a complaint tomorrow. I feel that the political loyalties of some of the clerks are detracting from the care with which they handle mail."

Components of his game are two tiny figures, one labeled "John Citizen" and the other "A Newdeal Braintruster." John Citizen is moulded in a crouching position with right arm extended and the fist doubled. He is fixed on a small oblong block of metal that is highly magnetized.

Braintruster, a black frocked figure wearing a mortarboard, stands on a similar magnet but is not fastened.

In playing the game John Citizen is placed with his back to Braintruster. Then the magnet upon which Braintruster stands is pushed forward until it almost touches John's. If directions are followed this brings similar poles of the magnets into proximity. Since these poles repel each other John Citizen whirls around on his magnet, hits Braintruster on the jaw, and knocks Braintruster off his magnet.

Undamaged by Dropping.

"It's completely nonsensical but it tells a real political lesson," said Parry. "And there's nothing about it that should not go thru the mails. I sent one to Dr. Harold Moulton, president of Brookings institute at Washington, D. C., the other day and got it back from him later so battered and damaged that it was impossible to put the game together. Dr. Moulton said he thought the package had been deliberately damaged."

Each of the games is packed in a strong cardboard box. The figures are mounted in a cutout platform and protected above and below with pads of cotton and paper. The boxes are sealed with metal clamps. Dropping them on the floor caused no damage. He added that his name and the sticker identifying the game are on the outside of the box.

Parry said that he has arranged for the Republican state central committees in states where his games are sold to receive one-third of the gross receipts to defray campaign expenses.

Legislators Lash Into Smear Attempt.

statement be expunged from the record because it indicated he was a party to the conspiracy. Cox withdrew his words.

Representative Hook subsided from his insistence that the letters might still be genuine when he was confronted with the testimony of the notary public that he had not sworn Mayne.

In the ensuing attack on Hook, the only member to come to his support was Representative Vito Marcantonio, American-Labor party member from New York City, who was elected with communist party support.

Representative Keefe took the lead in castigating Hook for what he termed an attempt to discredit Dies before the entire country. He charged the existence of a conspiracy to defame the character of the investigating committee's chairman.

Wants Nation to Know.

"The nation must be told," Keefe said, "that a grievous wrong has been done to the Dies committee and its chairman. The details of the plot are clear. After the letters were inserted in the record, Gardner Jackson used them as the basis of an article in the Nation, radical magazine, asserting that Chairman Dies and Pelley were associates.

"I want the record to show that a conspiracy existed here."

Hook again protested that this was a charge that he was a member of the conspiracy in violation of the rules of the house. Keefe's words were ruled in order.

"I don't know whether this man Mayne was a forger or not!" Hook cried to the house. "I'll wait for the report of the department of justice, which I visited yesterday and asked to investigate."

"The gentleman seems to be spending a lot of time at the department of justice," remarked Keefe. "Perhaps he will be spending more time hereafter."

Again Hook complained that this was a personal reflection upon him, and Keefe withdrew his words.

Representative John J. Dempsey [D., N. M.] asked Hook whether he took the evidence of a notary public's affidavit, shown to be a forgery, against the confession of Mayne and the evidence of the typewriter. Hook insisted he must await the report of the justice department. He again asked permission, however, to withdraw the letter and his statement from the Congressional Record. This was refused when Keefe objected.

Hook Statements Read.

Keefe read to the house what he termed a sample of the statements Hook was putting out to the press. One such statement asserted that the Mayne affidavit was opposed to "a statement not under oath dragged out of him by the Dies committee in executive session."

"If there should be any question of forgery then the Dies committee is guilty of conspiracy to bribe a person to commit forgery to cover up their past nefarious acts," the statement read.

Southern members bristled as the last paragraph of Hook's statement was read.

"There was only one effort made to overthrow the government of the United States," it stated, "and that came from below the Mason-Dixon line. It looks as if another effort is coming from that source."

Original Letters Shown.

Keefe displayed the original letters from which photostatic copies had been made. The originals had a Silver Shirt letterhead clumsily placed upon them. When the photostatic copies were made, however, this pasting-in process was not visible.

"The simplest individual in the world could see that there was something phony about these letters," Keefe declared. "Even Pelley's signature was misspelled. As to the supporting affidavit, it seems a flimsy base upon which to besmirch the character of any man from coast to coast."

LEAGUE FOR PEACE, ASSAILED BY DIES AS RED FRONT, DISBANDS

New York, Feb. 1 (AP).—The American League for Peace and Democracy, described by the Dies committee as a front for the communist party, was disbanded today by its national board of directors.

. . board resolution said the league was extinguished because "the coming of the war has created a situation in which a different program and type of organization are needed to preserve democratic rights in wartime and thereby help keep the United States out of war."

The action was taken at a meeting honoring the Rev. Dr. Harry F. Ward, head of the league since 1934.

Orson Welles Is Divorced by Wife; Cruelty Charged

Reno, Nev., Feb. 1 (AP).—Orson Welles, star of stage and radio, was divorced today by Mrs. Virginia Welles at a brief private trial. The former Chicago society girl, an actress in her own right, charged cruelty. Details were not made public. Albert Hilliard, her attorney, said Mrs. Welles was given custody of a 22 month old daughter, Christopher. They were married at Palisades, N. J., Nov. 19, 1934. Mrs. Welles is known on the stage as Anna Stafford.

SENATOR TOBEY CALLS CENSUS QUIZ SNOOPING

Fears Political Abuses and Peril to Liberty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—The subject of snooping, both official and unofficial, engaged the attention of the United States senate today.

Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] denounced the questionnaires prepared by the census bureau for the 1940 census as a reprehensible form of snooping, susceptible of political abuse, and a dangerous threat to the liberties of citizens.

Senator Theodore Francis Green [D., R. I.], a member of the old snooping committee headed by former Senator [now Justice] Hugo L. Black, took the floor to protest against snooping. He demanded an investigation by the senate interstate commerce committee of charges that the telephone wires of federal and state officials in Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and other states are being tapped by a New York private detective agency.

Court Ruled It Illegal.

Mr. Green protested that wire tapping is illegal, as the Supreme court of the United States has ruled. The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia held that the Black committee snooped unlawfully in seizing thousands of telegrams during its inquisition against opponents of the Roosevelt administration a few years ago.

Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.], another graduate of the Black school of snooping, professed to be outraged by Senator Green's accusations and demanded to know whether any political organization was behind the alleged wire tapping and snooping into the affairs of Democratic public officials. Senator Green, grinning, said he would not be surprised, and Minton appeared content with the inference that Republicans were doing the snooping.

Asks 80 Questions.

In his speech assailing the census questionnaires, Senator Tobey said that private home owners will be compelled to reveal to their politically appointed neighbors [the enumerators] whether their homes are mortgaged, the amount of the mortgage, how regularly they are making payments, and whether the mortgage is held by an individual or a business concern. These questions, he declared, violated the restrictions imposed by the national census of housing act of 1939.

The general questionnaire, Senator Tobey said, includes more than 80 questions, and each individual will be required to tell what salary he is making and whether he has received $50 or more from other sources.

Senator Tobey said there could be no assurance that the politically appointed census takers would not divulge such information to their political bosses. As a basis for such apprehension he recalled the revelations of the Sheppard committee concerning the treatment of WPA relief records during the 1938 senatorial campaign in Kentucky.

JUSTICE FULLER IS MEMORIALIZED IN GRAVE SERVICE

Members of the bench and bar paid tribute to the memory of Melville W. Fuller, only Chicagoan to serve as chief justice of the United States, at ceremonies in the Graceland cemetery chapel yesterday. Justice Fuller, who died on July 4, 1910, is buried in the cemetery. A wreath was placed on his grave.

The observance coincided with the 150th anniversary of the opening of the Supreme court, which is being celebrated nationally. Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, and Tappan Gregory, president of the Chicago Bar association, are co-chairmen in charge of the local observance.

Gregory said that Justice Fuller was "a man small in stature but magnificent in mind." Hodes spoke briefly on the significance of the Supreme court for American democracy.

Among others who spoke were Chief Justice Francis S. Wilson of the Illinois Supreme court, Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Circuit court, Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court, Dean Wilbur Katz of the University of Chicago law school, Dean William F. Clarke of the De Paul law school, Dean John D. Fitzgerald of the Loyola law school, Charles O. Rundall, president of the Illinois Bar association, and Oscar G. Mayer, Association of Commerce president.

THREE ASSAULT GROCER.

Police were searching last night for three colored men who earlier in the day assaulted Cirill Sekerka in his grocery at 502 West 43d street. Sekerka, who was taken to the Evangelical hospital in a serious condition, said he was not robbed and that he apparently was assaulted for a fancied wrong.

New Milk Limits

(Story in adjoining column.)

Two of the largest dairies in Chicago today will extend the delivery of milk in two and four quart containers to areas shown in black. The new containers have been delivered in shaded areas for the last month.

BULLITT CALLED HOME TO REPORT EUROPEAN FACTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—William C. Bullitt, United States ambassador to France, has been summoned home to report on the European situation, Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced today.

Ambassador Bullitt.

Bullitt, who is the man behind the American foreign policy in Europe, will leave Paris Saturday and return to his post after a brief stay. It will be his first visit to this country since last June.

Bullitt enjoys the confidence of the President more than any other person in the foreign service and as a result has had more to do with the shaping of American foreign policy. He has many sources of information in Europe and keeps in close touch with developments. Hull said there is no special significance in Bullitt's return.

Oklahoma City Discovers It Can't Intimidate Starlings

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 1 (AP).—Thousands of twittering starlings enjoyed a downtown fireworks display tonight at the expense of police and merchants. Seventy-two Roman candles, each containing 15 fire balls, were set off in an effort to frighten the birds from their roosts on the eaves of a clothing store. Twice the black swarms retreated, only to return as soon as the shooting quieted. Fire truck floodlights were added to the third attack, and the starlings moved one block to another building.

MILK IN GALLONS AVAILABLE TODAY TO MORE OF CITY

Two Big Dairies Expand Area; Praise Plan.

Two of the city's largest dairies, which have been conducting an experimental sale of milk in 2 and 4 quart containers for the last month, today will expand the territory thus served to include much more of the city.

At the same time they will increase the price ½ cent a quart on milk delivered in the 4 quart containers, raising the price from 38 to 40 cents a gallon. Additional cost of sterilizing the larger bottles was given as the reason. Two quart containers will continue to sell at 22 cents.

Announce New Territory.

The new delivery territory, announced by the Bowman Dairy company and Borden-Wieland company, includes roughly the western part of the city. Beginning at the northern limits, the line runs southward along Clark street, west on Peterson avenue [6000 north] to Cicero avenue, south again to 31st street, then east to Western avenue and south to the city limits. All residents living west of the line to the city limits will get the new service.

"The experiment with 2 and 4 quart containers is proving very satisfactory," said an official of the Bowman dairy yesterday. "Expansion of our sales territory is going forward as fast as facilities can be arranged.

"The sales of milk and volume consumption in the area receiving the multiple containers have increased from 10 to 15 per cent in the last month. There is no seasonal precedent for such an increase, so it is being placed to the credit of the new distribution method.

"Cost studies made thus far show home delivery in gallon bottles necessitate an upward adjustment of ½ cent a quart, but apply to that size only."

Call Results Satisfactory.

Officials of Borden-Wieland said their sales studies have not yet been completed, but that preliminary figures are satisfactory enough to warrant an expansion in territory.

Previously the large containers have been available in only eight districts—Edison Park, Norwood Park, Dunning, Galewood, Mont Clare, Beverly Hills, Morgan Park, and west Rogers Park. In addition to the two major dairies, seven smaller ones also are supplying the larger containers.

Prices for all classes of milk delivered by farmers in the Chicago area during January were about 5½ cents a hundred pounds [46.5 quarts] higher than for December deliveries, N. J. Cladakis, federal market administrator, announced yesterday.

Sets Prices for Milk.

The price for class one, or fluid milk, was $1.991 and for class two, $1.721 a hundred. Class two is milk used in making cream, cottage cheese, milk flavored drinks, ice cream, and ice cream mix. The price for class three milk used for evaporating was $1.441 and that used for other purposes, $1.292 a hundred pounds. Milk for relief purposes was listed at $1.395 a hundred.

The blended price, or the price farmers actually will receive for milk delivered in January, will not be announced until Feb. 12. It will depend upon the uses the administrator finds has been made of the milk.

Groundhog Averages

(Story in adjoining column.)

According to tradition, if the groundhog comes out of his burrow on Feb. 2 and sees his shadow, there will be six more weeks of winter. If the day is cloudy there will be an early spring. This summary of weather bureau records on sunny and sunless Feb. 2s shows how often he has been right since 1911.

RUSSIAN ENVOY OBJECTS TO U. S. MORAL EMBARGO

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1 (AP).—Constantine A. Oumansky, Russian ambassador, was reported to have complained to Secretary of State Hull today against a moral embargo on American plane shipments to Russia and against a speech in which a high United States official branded soviet troops as serfs.

Under the moral embargo the state department discourages American manufacturers from selling Russia airplanes, airplane parts, and plants and plans for making aviation gasoline, because of the bombing of civilians.

The speech which Russia resents was made by Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, before the New York State Bankers association on Jan. 15. Speaking on the topic "Lessons from Finland," he said: "Again the world beholds the proof of the age-old axiom that a free man is worth at least a dozen serfs."

TO GROUNDHOG: READ FORECAST, GO BACK TO BED

No Shadow Likely Today; Expect Early Spring.

Today is ground hog day and all tradition-loving ground hogs will pop out of their homes long enough for a fast glance at possible shadows. If there are none, as every child knows, chances are pretty fair for an early spring.

Weather Forecaster Gordon E. Dunn said yesterday that he would be very surprised if any ground hogs around here cast a shadow. Mostly cloudy and somewhat colder weather is the forecast for today.

Has Good Batting Average.

Since 1911 the ground hog's batting average as a forecaster is pretty close to major league standards. He has seen his shadow 24 times in the last 29 years, and in 12 of those years winter lingered for the customary six weeks longer. On the five cloudy days spring obliged by coming early. Thus the ground hog scored 17 times out of a possible 29.

There are several ground hogs in town who are going to miss the observance of their own day. These unfortunates are sleeping in an icebox at the University of Chicago for the benefit of the department of pharmacology and the division of psychiatry of the department of medicine. They are expected to snooze right thru today.

Sound Asleep on Shelves.

Dr. David B. Slight and Prof. Eugene M. K. Gelling placed several ground hogs, ground squirrels, and other rodents on shelves of the icebox about a month ago. The temperature was set at about 35 degrees, and some dry food was provided. The animals ate the dry food, gradually became dehydrated, and went to sleep. Every ten days or so they awaken, eat, then resume their slumber. One awoke yesterday long enough to have its picture taken.

From the hibernation study the experts hope to learn facts of value in the so-called "freezing" treatment of cancer. They already have supplied Philadelphia physicians with information as to what drugs are best for returning persons to a normal state after undergoing the freeze treatment. They expect to learn a lot of other things.

JAPANESE-SOVIET CALM BROKEN BY PARLEY FAILURE

War Minister Charges "Illegal Red Acts."

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 2, Friday.—The comparative calm of soviet-Japanese relations since the signing of the Nomonhan truce in September was broken today by a rupture of negotiations to demarcate the frontier between Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia.

Gen. Shunroku Hata.

The breakdown of negotiations was laid to the inability of both sides to come to an agreement which would preclude all possibilities of the recurrence of border incidents such as that at Nomonhan.

[The vest pocket war along the Manchukuan-Outer Mongolian border ended on Sept. 16. There had been intermittent fighting along the frontier since May 11.]

War Minister Gen. Shunroku Hata warned of scores of "illegal soviet acts" recently on the Manchukuan border. Ultimate settlement of this question will be attended by grave difficulties and pending such a time the Japanese army in Manchukuo will not relax its vigilance, he said.

7 Year Arms Program.

TOKIO, Feb. 1 (AP).—A seven year arms program costing $671,000,000 was presented by Japan's army and navy leaders to parliament today.

The proposed military appropriation, for "replenishment and rehabilitation of arms," would be in addition to expenditures of $1,862,017,680 already approved for this purpose.

The seven year program would begin with the 1940-'41 fiscal year, the budget for which already contains $1,583,478,000 to carry on the war in China and for domestic military purposes. This is now before parliament.

Introduction of the arms fund measure shared the spotlight with debate on measures to combat the growing shortage of fuel, rice, and other necessities.

The government today arranged to rush almost 1,000,000 tons of coal to power plants in an effort to relieve an electricity famine which virtually has paralyzed Japan's industrial system.

Reliable sources said nonmilitary industries in the Tokio-Yokohama area are shut down every third day because of insufficient electric power, altho government regulations rationing power in this region are not effective until Feb. 10.

British Get Reply to Note.

British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie today was given Japan's reply to the British note of Jan. 27 answering the Japanese protest against seizure of 21 Germans from the Japanese liner Asama Maru.

The foreign office said both notes would be published when the British had had time to consider. Sir Robert received the Japanese note from Masayuki Tani, vice minister of foreign affairs, during a conference in which discussions of "political and legal" aspects of the case were continued until tomorrow.

Chinese Reported Encircled.

HONGKONG, Feb. 1 (AP).—Headquarters of the Japanese army in South China today reported its troops had completed encirclement of 24 Chinese divisions northeast of Nanning, in Kwangsi province.

Japanese headquarters said their forces had been strengthened by "a large corps of freshly landed crack troops" and that a Japanese detachment 50 miles east of Nanning had attacked the Chinese left flank.

Chinese dispatches from the north said they had defeated the Japanese on the south side of the Yellow river near Paotow, in Suiyan province, Inner Mongolia.

New York, Feb. 1 (AP).—A Supreme court jury today awarded Manfried Hauptmann, 6 year old son of the Lindbergh baby kidnaper, $23,500 for injuries he received when he was struck by the automobile of Cartoonist Frank Moser on May 5, 1938.

The jury also awarded $2,000 to the boy's mother, Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann. Mrs. Hauptmann had asked $100,000 damages, charging Moser with negligence and contending the boy was rendered epileptic and permanently injured.

Justice William F. Love, in his charge to the jury, cautioned the members not to be influenced by "the name this boy carries." Justice Love reserved decision on a request by Moser's lawyer that the verdict be set aside as contrary to the weight of evidence and excessive.

CHINA DECORATES CHICAGOAN FOR TRUCKING WORK

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 1 (AP).—Finance Minister Dr. H. H. Kung left a sickbed today to award the red and blue bordered white ribbon of the Order of Jade to Maurice E. Sheahan, American highway expert from Chicago, in recognition of his work in developing China's wartime transport system.

Sheahan, who plans to leave shortly for home, said he found the general Chinese position "more hopeful" now than at any time since his arrival last September. "The growing improvement and development of the Chinese southwest transportation system has resulted in heightened unity among all concerned with the central government," he said, "rendering impossible any Japanese attempt completely to isolate China from the outside world."

JAPS TO ALLOW FOOD TO PASS TIENTSIN BARRIER

TIENTSIN, China, Feb. 1 (AP).—British and Japanese authorities today were reported to have reached a tentative agreement for relieving the food shortage in the Japanese-blockaded British and French concessions. Japanese military authorities, these sources said, agreed to facilitate truck shipments of food thru the barriers which the Japanese recently re-electrified in renewal of the blockade which began on June 14. Details still are to be arranged, it was said.

TRADE EMBARGO AGAINST JAPAN HIT BY SENATOR

Long Step on Road to War, Vandenberg Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] declared in the senate today that a one sided embargo against Japan, such as is proposed by various administration senators, would be the "longest step on the road to war since 1915."

Senator Vandenberg expressed his views on the Japanese question after Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the foreign relations committee and a foremost advocate of embargo action, had charged in a statement that Japan was seeking to interfere with the American congress by protesting that an embargo would be a "serious affront." Pittman said the Japanese militarists were utterly "insensitive" to American rights in China.

Replies to Columnist.

Senator Vandenberg expounded his position on the Japanese embargo question by reading into the record his reply to a newspaper columnist who had accused him of precipitating a grave crisis in our relationship with Japan.

The columnist had called the Vandenberg resolution of last July, which preceded the administration's denunciation of the 1911 treaty of commerce and navigation with Japan, "the longest step on the road to war since 1915."

The denunciation of that treaty, which expired on Jan. 26, removed all legal obstacles to the imposition of unilateral embargoes or other discriminatory penalties against Japan.

Recalls Earlier Action.

Senator Vandenberg recalled that he advocated abrogation of the 1911 treaty at a time when administration senators were urging its violation by the imposition of one sided embargoes.

"The purpose of the resolution," Senator Vandenberg declared, "was not to precipitate an embargo; it was to avoid an embargo—to avoid it thru the realistic negotiation of a new commercial and political treaty with Japan which should amicably settle the question of American rights in Japan and China.

"I continue to believe this is possible if Japan takes adequate cognizance of our legitimate interests and if we recognize that the far east of 1940 is not the far east of 1911. I continue to believe that a rational agreement is possible unless statesmanship is bankrupt at one end of the line or the other. I continue to oppose—except as a last resort—any one sided embargo against Japan which in truth would be 'the longest step on the road to war since 1915.

Calls for Common Sense.

"This is not an expression of fear. It is an expression of prudence. It is not remotely a surrender to Japan. It is a surrender to common sense—but, of course, the surrender must be reciprocal. We may come to an embargo—and Japan is illy advised if it ignores this hazard. But we have not reached 'the last resort' until we have exhausted every reasonable effort to write a new treaty."

Senator Vandenberg put into the record a letter he wrote to Secretary of State Cordell Hull on Aug. 7, 1939, to prove that he was seeking to prevent any precipitate action against Japan.

"I do not need to tell you," he wrote, "that I would not be interested in a mere arbitrary prelude to a subsequent one sided embargo. If such an embargo ultimately becomes indispensable to the adequate protection of legitimate American interests and rights in the far east, and if the American people are ever deliberately and consciously ready to take what might thus be the first step toward war itself we can meet that situation when the issue is unavoidably precipitated.

States Own Conviction.

"I am writing this letter simply to state my own conviction that any such sinister step is not 'unavoidably necessary' unless and until we have exhausted every pacific recourse. Therefore, it is my prayerful hope that our own government may promptly indicate to the government of Japan that we are prepared and anxious to negotiate a new treaty of commerce and amity between the United States and Japan for the purpose of resolving—if possible—any controversy between us affecting American interests.

"It seems to me that Japan's response to a good faith effort of this character on the part of the United States will authentically determine whether Japan is prepared to deal justly with us in the perpetuation of mutually friendly and helpful relationships."

FOUR CHICAGOANS MISSING IN PLANE IN SOUTH AMERICA

Brazilian Army Flyers Hunt Lost Party.

Three women and two men who left Chicago in an airplane on Jan. 1 for a vacation tour of South America were reported missing yesterday. They left Montevideo, Uruguay, on Wednesday, and were long overdue at their next intended stop, Porto Alegre, Brazil.

Last night Brazilian military planes were ordered out to search the remote areas of the state of Rio Grande do Sul for the craft.

The pilot in charge of the party is James W. Allen, 5314 Blackstone avenue. Passengers who left Montevideo with him are Miss June Sprau, 1 North Stonegate road, Lake Forest; Mrs. Don Wallace, 1008 Rush street; Miss Frieda Zylstra, 5308 Kenwood avenue, and Seward H. Bowers, an attorney, of Benton Harbor, Mich.

Politician's Daughter in Party.

Miss Sprau is a governess in the home of James Douglas Jr. She formerly lived at Fremont, Mich. Miss Zylstra is the daughter of Charles Zylstra, who is prominent in Iowa Democratic politics. She and Mrs. Wallace are commercial photographers.

The ship, a single engined monoplane, had no radio sending apparatus, and American officials in Rio de Janeiro said Allen might have been forced by unfavorable weather to land at some interior port. He is an experienced flyer and is regularly employed on a United Air lines run between Chicago and Cheyenne, Wyo.

The party was formed by Allen thru a want ad in THE TRIBUNE, and the passengers agreed to share the expense of the tour. Allen is on a two month leave of absence from the air line.

In Buenos Aires Monday.

The first stop the plane made was at Brownsville, Tex. Without incident the party flew thru Mexico and Central America, and down the west coast of South America, then across the Andes from Santiago, Chile, to Buenos Aires, where they arrived last Monday.

It was Allen's intention to sell the plane in Rio de Janeiro and for the five to return by sea to the United States. The flight was to have been completed this week. At the Douglas home it was said Miss Sprau sent a letter from Ecuador to say she probably would be back about March 1.

VOTING REFORM PLAN REVIEWED BEFORE JUDGES

Proposed changes in the Illinois election laws to provide improved voting methods and effect economies were outlined yesterday at the opening session of the Illinois County and Probate Judges' association, meeting in the Hotel Sherman.

The suggested changes, which call for consolidating many elections and a new state-wide registration system, were reviewed by County Judge Harlington Wood of Sangamon county, a member of the commission appointed by Gov. Horner to study the election laws. The commission's report was presented to the general assembly last year. It was approved by the committee on elections, but the legislature failed to pass the necessary legislation.

Judge Wood told his associates that the plan for consolidation of all elections, as far as is constitutionally possible, not only would assure great reduction in election costs, but would have the effect of getting more voters out.

PICTURE FRAME MAKERS REJECT UNION, 45 TO 8

In a National Labor Relations board election the 53 employés of Anton Szumny & Sons, picture frame makers at 2130 Fulton street, voted 45 to 8 to reject unionization. Results of the election, held last Saturday, were announced yesterday.

The rejected union is the Furniture Woodworkers and Finishers, local 18 B. Last June the organization picketed the plant, but Szumny obtained an injunction from Judge John Prystalski, who held there was no employer-employé dispute. The Illinois Supreme court has held such "stranger picketing" illegal.

REVITALIZE G.O.P., WAYLAND BROOKS URGES ON W-G-N

Points to Evils of Control by Democrats.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Wayland Brooks' first appeal to the voters as a candidate for the United States senate, a radio speech last night over W-G-N, was a plea for support for the Republican party.

"If we are to have a government friendly both to labor and to management of business," he said, "so that we may release again the creative genius of a free people and stay at peace with the world, we must have a revitalized and strengthened Republican party now.

Blames Democrats at Home.

"We have been reaping the results of our own indifference and of the monopoly of government in the hands of the Democratic New Deal administration in office here at home.

"We have witnessed here in the last few months demonstration after demonstration of neglect and carelessness on the part of the Democratic party which is in complete control of the powers of our government.

"We have seen men who were proven criminals or had been adjudged insane riding our streets as officers of the law, wearing stars and armed with guns.

"We have had judges on the bench engaging in business with or coöperating with criminal elements.

"We have scandals in the taxing machinery of our county and criminal neglect of our unfortunate citizens in public institutions.

Charges Vote Stealing.

"We have had wholesale stealing of votes by members of a corrupt political machine.

"We have heard the Democratic county judge say recently that 'the only way to stop these election frauds in Illinois is to have a strong Republican party.'

"In fact, there is only one possible way for people who wish to correct all the evils, the mistakes, and curb the arrogance of the present administrations, and that is to work and help rebuild the Republican party in the coming election.

"I do not pretend to say that all of the present national administration programs or projects are bad. Many of them are here to stay and, with adjustments, they can be consolidated into a finer social order in America.

Urges Division of Powers.

"As a United States senator representing Illinois, I shall use my every effort to bring that about. But, with the world on fire, the first responsibility of the citizens to themselves and to their country is to keep divided the powers of government.

"Rebuild the Republican party and stop the centralization of the powers of government!

"To guarantee opportunity and peace, you must vote Republican this year.

"The Republican party needs you and the nation needs the Republican party."

On Dedication Program.

Three Republican women leaders will speak on the program with Brooks and his running mate, Richard J. Lyons, candidate for governor, when they formally dedicate their joint headquarters in the Hotel Sherman tonight. They are Mrs. Mabel B. Krutchkoff, who will manage the women's division of the Cook county campaign; Mrs. Ernest B. Griffin of Grant park, in Kankakee county, who will direct women's activities downstate, and State Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downer's Grove, who will assist Mrs. Griffin.

CALL DEMOCRAT SLATE MAKERS FOR NEXT WEEK

A meeting for Democratic state slate making in its final form was set tentatively yesterday for one week from today. Chairman Harry B. Hershey called the state central committee at Springfield to meet on that day.

Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly of Chicago have agreed informally that if the organization is to indorse a ticket that action should be taken by the committee. Before the meeting, however, it is planned that the two officials shall hold a conference, possibly with National Committeeman P. A. Nash present. The committee is expected to ratify any decisions that conference reaches.

Mayor Kelly and Committeeman Nash are expected to go from Florida, where they are vacationing, to Washington to attend the meeting of the Democratic national committee next Tuesday. The conference on state matters will follow their return to Chicago.

Civil Service Gain

Proportion of total employes of 12 Cook county offices in 1938 and 1939 who are under civil service.

An increase from 72.5 per cent to 74.6 per cent was reported yesterday in the proportion of civil service certifications among budgeted, full time employés of the assessor's office and 11 departments and institutions under the county commissioners.

Frank J. O'Malley, chief examiner of the county civil service commission said the total certified for 1939 was 2,992 as compared with 2,774 in 1938. The total number of employés in the 12 departments in 1938 was 3,828. In 1939 it was 4,013. Other county offices, such as sheriff, court clerks, treasurer, recorder, coroner and state's attorney do not come under civil service.

CAPITAL REPORTS F. LYNDEN SMITH IS LOSING POWER

Casey to Take Charge of Truck Regulation.

Word came from Springfield yesterday that F. Lynden Smith, Gov. Horner's director of public works, who has accepted responsibility for hiring an ex-convict, John Howe, as a state policeman, is gradually losing his authority.

In this connection it was reported that he is being superceded as the responsible administrator of the important new truck regulation act by John T. Casey, the governor's traveling secretary and superintendent of machinery in Smith's department.

The truck act becomes law on March 1, after which all trucks must carry public liability insurance and safety stickers from state-authorized inspection stations.

Under Smith's Department.

The legislature placed the act under the department of public works and Smith normally would have the principal power in its enforcement. F. W. Lewis of Robinson, a former state representative, has been made the nominal administrator, but reports from the statehouse had it that Lewis will be responsible to Casey, rather than to Smith.

Smith has been listed as head of The Illinoisans, the group of collectors who assess and take 2 per cent of pay rollers' salaries for the Democratic campaign fund. Formerly, it is understood, two of three signatures were required on checks issued from The Illinoisans' funds—those of Smith, S. L. Nudelman, director of finance, and William J. Walsh, who handles patronage matters for the governor.

Long Feud with Nudelman.

Smith's signature is said to be no longer necessary upon the checks. He and Nudelman have been feuding for many months, and altho frequent attempts at reconciliation are reported to have been made, none has been successful.

Smith has seen the governor much less frequently than others high in the administrative councils. The last occasion was said to have been on Monday, when he spent four hours in the executive mansion. On Wednesday Smith issued his statement accepting responsibility for hiring Howe, but failed to name Howe's sponsor.

IERC Disbursing Officer Quits to Enter Business

Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, yesterday announced the resignation of William R. Wells as disbursing officer for the IERC. Wells, who has held the job since 1934, becomes vice president of the National Wax company, 936 Chicago avenue.

HAPPILY EVER AFTER

By CALEB

WHEN MY BROTHER and I were around seven and nine, and for some years thereafter, we used to be joined, of a summer afternoon, by the other small fry of the neighborhood, to listen while our mother read aloud to us on the front porch.

Of the periodical literature of those days—solidly constructed affairs like St. Nicholas and The Youth's Companion—one affirmation could be made which was particularly to our liking. Always, no matter what the terribleness of the incidents intervening, every tale of conquest, adventure or exploration ended as its breathless listeners wanted it to. The characters, however scarred or marred in their arrival at Finis, found the gods benevolent, the villain eradicated—and "lived happily ever after."

The phrase typifies a yearning that is universal. Adults, after all, are but older, slightly more disciplined, slightly wiser, editions of their own childhood. And on narrowing such a consideration, for the moment, to the confines of buying and selling, we uncover this same insistence that endings be happy endings. Tritely referred to, I believe, as "customer satisfaction," on the one hand, or as "a good sale," on the other—according to the point of view—the daily enactments of business stand or fall on whether they possess this factor of happily ever after.

Like the magnetic compass-needle that, regardless of time, place or circumstance, points north—the smallest operations of storekeeping gravitate to this single conclusion. And the larger the organization, the more meticulously must its managers, trainers and supervisors emphasize the importance of The Detail.

Recent scrutiny of the reports on error that are kept in one of our divisions, has amazed me at the "Field score" for correct discharge of its assignments. Despite the many thousands of transactions dispatched here daily, the figure stands startlingly close to the 100-mark. It impresses me anew with the modern exactitude of organizational management. Particularly in view of the "factor of fallibility" inherent in a personnel numerically equal to a good-sized town!

Happily, we are not content with even such a showing; but are ever after a performance still more nearly ideal. For to the customer whom our rarest error involves, that one flaw can mean a "spoiled ending." . . . and to eliminate all such endings is our ultimate objective. The primary responsibility and endeavor of every member of our organization is to make sure Field service and merchandise are remembered happily ever after.

BEWARE OF C. I. O. BACKING, A. F. L. CHIEFTAIN WARNS

Green Tells Candidates It Means Defeat.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 1.—The American Federation of Labor, thru its executive council, declared today that any political candidate seeking and accepting the support of the Congress of Industrial Organizations and placing himself in bondage to its leader, John L. Lewis, has received the "kiss of death." The defeat of that candidate is a certainty, the council said.

The statement was regarded as of broad political significance and as particularly applicable to Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. Lewis is friendly to Wheeler's possible candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination as was evinced when Wheeler spoke at the United Mine Workers convention in Columbus, O. The mine workers' union is one of the main components of the C. I. O.

Avoid Third Term Issue.

The A. F. of L. council avoided a discussion of a third term for President Roosevelt, preferring to adopt a policy of watchful waiting until the President declares himself. Lewis last week denounced the New Deal and any possible Roosevelt aspirations for the third term.

Some of the council members doubt that Lewis is sincere in his repudiation of the administration. The implication in the council statement was that if Lewis should return to the Roosevelt fold and the President should seek a third term and woo for C. I. O. support, Roosevelt's defeat will be assured.

A further inference that might be drawn from the statement was that, altho the A. F. L. refrains from a blanket endorsement of any political party, it is not unfriendly toward Republican presidential candidates. District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who are already in the field for the Republican nomination, and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, who has not declared himself, would not be likely to seek C. I. O. indorsement.

Recall Blast at Garner.

Among the Democrats, Vice President John N. Garner, who has announced his presidential candidacy, also would be unlikely to ask or get C. I. O. backing. Lewis has been particularly vehement toward Garner, calling him a "whisky drinking, poker playing, evil old man."

The council asserted that no presidential candidate with a record or program hostile to organized labor could possibly be victorious. It also added that no individual could deliver the votes of labor, as was proved in the 1938 elections in Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio, and other states. This was regarded as a direct reference to Lewis, who has tried to make such "deliveries."

"I would'nt assume that I could deliver the labor vote," said William Green, president of the A. F. of L. "I couldn't be that egotistical. No man could keep such a promise."

Green said that the "kiss of death," which accompanies bestowal of C. I. O. favor, was evident in the 1938 congressional and gubernatorial elections.

Points to 1938 Defeats.

"Four candidates were particularly picked out by the C. I. O. and given its support," he said. "They were Thomas Kennedy, secretary treasurer of the United Mine Workers, who was seeking the governorship of Pensylvania, and Representatives John T. Bernard of Minnesota, Jerry O'Connell of Montana, and Maury Maverick of Texas, running for re-election. They were defeated."

In this connection the council warned members of the A. F. L. against being misled by endorsements of the so-called labor's non-partisan league.

"This league is a sham," the council statement said. "It is merely a paper organization, a puppet of the C. I. O. It has been entirely discredited and its political power is nil, as was convincingly demonstrated in the 1938 congressional campaign when all but one of forty candidates blacklisted by the league were renominated and triumphantly re-elected."

The statement reaffirmed the traditional policy of the A. F. L. not to give "blank check" endorsements to any political party.

Crown Point Gains

Five thousand nine hundred and twenty-five couples took advantage of the hospitality of Crown Point, Ind., during 1939 to obtain marriage licenses. This compares with the 4,999 total for 1938 and the all time high of 11,410 licenses issued in 1937 after the Illinois Saltiel bill became a law.

In the 10 years ending with last Dec. 31 a total of 63,480 licenses were issued, according to Walter Mybeck, clerk of the Lake county Circuit court. Since Mybeck took office Jan. 1 the office is closed on Sundays and holidays for the first time in eight years.

Monthly figures for licenses granted during 1939 follow: January, 376; February, 327; March, 324; April, 402; May, 447; June, 535; July, 454; August, 590; September, 545; October, 602; November, 598; December, 625.

An Indiana law, effective March 1, is expected to cut into the Crown Point business. The law will demand a blood test made by a state approved laboratory before a license is granted. It also will make licenses invalid 60 days after issuance.

CHIEF OF NLRB ASSAILS ONE OF HIS ASSOCIATES

Madden Calls Leiserson Charges Untrue.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1 (AP).—J. Warren Madden, chairman of the Labor Relations board, told house investigators today that a fellow board member, who had demanded dismissal of one of the board's key employés was guilty of "reckless and intemperate statements."

Altho saying he was considerably disturbed by some of the evidence which the investigating committee had received concerning board employés, Madden declared there was not "one scrap of evidence" to support charges made by William Leiserson, the board's newest member, against Nathan Witt, secretary, and Fred G. Krivonos, special examiner. Leiserson has accused Witt of "irregularities" in certain cases, and has called Krivonos an "amateur detective."

Called for Evidence.

The chairman said he had worked with Witt and other employés of the secretary's office for four years, with satisfaction, until Leiserson, a former member of the national mediation board, was appointed last year to succeed Donald Wakefield Smith on the labor board.

"Almost from the first day," Madden testified, "he began to make these intemperate statements and characterizations of their work. I asked for evidence to support his insinuations. I got no response then or since."

Madden said that when Leiserson, in a memorandum to him, made charges against Witt and demanded that he be dismissed, he had Charles Fahy, the board's general counsel, investigate the cases mentioned. No irregularities were found, Madden added, and a majority of the board twice refused Leiserson's demand that Witt be dismissed.

Madden placed in the record letters from former board members, praising Witt's ability and his work. These were from Lloyd K. Garrison, former chairman; Francis Biddle, whom President Roosevelt appointed recently to be solicitor general; H. A. Millis, John M. Carmody, now federal works administrator, and Donald Wakefield Smith.

DEWEY TO LIMIT SELF TO 5 MORE CAMPAIGN TALKS

New York, Feb. 1 [Special].—Faced with a growing list of requests for speeches by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey in his quest for the Republican presidential nomination, his managers today were determined that Dewey shall not take on the appearance of making a barnstorming trip in his campaign.

It was virtually decided that after his scheduled speeches at Portland, Ore., on Feb. 12; at Albany, N. Y., on Feb. 27, and in Nebraska in March Dewey will address audiences in only Chicago and Indianapolis, rejecting other invitations.

Difficulties are foreseen in Mr. Dewey's strategy in the New Jersey situation where the old guard, headed by former Senator Walter E. Edge, is endeavoring to prevent sending an instructed delegation to the national convention.

Former Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, who announced his candidacy today against Robert C. Hendrickson for the nomination for governor in New Jersey, has stolen a march on his opponents by filing a list of delegates pledged to Dewey, indicating he intends to turn the Dewey candidacy to his own advantage. Dewey supporters suspect the old guard is working in behalf of Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.].

SLUSH FUND QUIZ GOES TO JOLIET JURY ON MONDAY

State's Attorney James E. Burke of Will county said yesterday that on Monday he will start calling witnesses before the grand jury in Joliet as a result of investigations into the activities of the Illinoisans. This is the campaign fund raising agency of the Horner Democratic state administration.

Former guards at the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries, who held civil service ratings, but contend they were told to contribute to the fund despite this status, have been telling their stories to Burke's investigators for several weeks. It is believed they will be the first witnesses.

Solicitation of classified employés, for any purpose, is banned by the civil service law. Until the civil service commission issued orders to the contrary, the Illinoisan collectors worked openly in state institutions. They ignored the legal exemption of the classified workers and solicited from all pay rollers.

JUDGE LA BUY URGES MERGER OF SUPERIOR AND CIRCUIT COURTS

Judge LaBuy.

Judge Walter J. La Buy, head of the law division of the Circuit court, urged again yesterday that the Circuit and Superior courts be consolidated to prevent congestion and speed up the handling of cases.

Judge LaBuy's arguments for a merger of the two courts, which he has long advocated, were outlined in an article in the Chicago Bar association Record.

He said that during 1937 a total of 7,623 law cases were filed in the Circuit court as compared to 2,922 cases filed in the Superior court, and that in 1938 7,932 law cases were filed in Circuit court as compared to 3,122 cases filed in the Superior court.

In order to merge the two courts completely a constitutional amendment would be necessary, Judge La Buy said. He asserted, however, that distribution of cases between the two courts could be equalized by executive order of the two courts providing for interchange of judges.

During the day Judge La Buy appeared before the courthouse committee of the county board to ask for four additional courtrooms for the Circuit court.

"I NOTICE A BIG DIFFERENCE at work," says Mr. Smith. "Used to get tired on the job very easily; feel all dragged out by 5 o'clock. The Vitality Boost has sure helped there. I get through lots fresher these days."

"PLAYING BASKETBALL, working, and doing free-lance writing is a pretty strenuous program. That nightly glass of milk has done wonders to make me feel more alert, energetic and enthusiastic all the time."

Even though you are in good health you may tire easily on the job. You may not sleep soundly and steadily. You may get up in the morning still feeling the need of rest. Lots of people are that way . . . and a great many of them are finding great results in a simple, yet sound suggestion of the Bowman Dairy Company. TRY THE VITALITY BOOST! Drink a glass of Bowman Milk, hot or cold, every night at bedtime.

1) You take the milk when your stomach is empty. Preventing hunger pangs, it helps you get more restful sleep.

2) It reduces the tax on your energy store that even sleeping takes. (Your body's need of fuel each sleeping hour is actually 40% of the average for all your waking, working hours! That's because your heart keeps pumping, breathing continues, "relaxed" muscles are always under tension.)

"I SLEEP SO WELL now that it doesn't bother me to get out and have some fun in the evening once in a while, in spite of my heavy schedule. Yes sir, I'm plenty strong for the VITALITY BOOST. Do you wonder?"

3) It gives your body, in easily digestible form, *a greater variety of nutritional essentials than any other food can provide!

Tomorrow night, start getting the Vitality Boost. Drink a full glass of fresh, pure milk at bedtime. You'll enjoy it particularly if the milk is Bowman's. More people in Chicago and vicinity drink Bowman Milk than any other kind. Produced with extra care, it has a specially delicious flavor.

THE VITALITY BOOST:

BOWMAN Grade "A" MILK

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

CASE HISTORY OF A STATE JOB.

John Howe was caught lobbing chain stores in 1930. He escaped trial thru commitment to an insane asylum. He boasted there that he had evaded punishment by a trick; the doctors noted on his record their belief that he was sane; he escaped and no attempt was made either to return him to the asylum or try him for his crimes.

He next appears as a house detective in the Congress hotel. That hotel, in 1936, was headquarters for Gov. Horner and members of his political machine. Howe had the opportunity to ingratiate himself with one or more of these politicos. Whether he did so is not proved, but he got a political job as a state highway policeman.

Howe's record came to light with his recent arrest on the charge of jury bribing. Clumsy processes of deception immediately started at Springfield.

It was first alleged that Howe's political sponsor was a south side real estate man, who died in 1938. The dead man's son disputes this. Not only, he says, was his father unacquainted with Howe but he could not get a state job for himself, let alone for some one else.

The son's challenge that the state administration produce his father's signature on the sponsorship record, or any other document concerning Howe, has been ignored. It is axiomatic, when a political employé's sponsor dies, that he must find a new sponsor if he is to hold his job. No such action appears to have been taken with Howe when his alleged sponsor died—a further indication that that man was never his sponsor.

After this bit of fakery had been brought forth and exploded, a letter showed that F. Lynden Smith, Gov. Horner's 1936 campaign manager, put Howe to work. But normal political procedure also required the approval of the appointment by the governor's patronage boss in Cook county. The Hon. James [Strongbox] Slattery, who then held that position and is now Illinois' junior senator, denies that he ever heard of Howe.

If he is telling the truth, another deviation from political routine was made in Howe's favor. Indeed, the whole procedure indicates that Howe must have known where some particularly redolent body was buried. But whatever Howe had on the administration, the administration had plenty on him.

Both Smith and Walter Williams, chief of the state police, maintained when the scandal broke that Howe had a clean record. The Federal Bureau of Investigation made liars of them. Its files showed that the bureau had checked Howe's fingerprints for Williams in 1936 and had informed the chief of Howe's 1930 arrest for robbery with a gun. Confronted by this, Smith has made an explanation that doesn't explain. He confesses that he also knew of Howe's record, but he still refuses to disclose who was Howe's real sponsor.

Smith and Williams thus knew for three years that they had a man with a criminal record riding the highways with a gun on his hip. Howe, it has since been learned, was not the only state policeman with a record. That Smith and Williams have not been fired indicates that, if what they did in the Howe case was not done on orders from above, at least nothing they did was displeasing. Howe, the accused robber, was a menace to the public, but Howe, the accused jury briber, was obviously a handy man to have under obligation when it was deemed advisable to prevent the punishment of vote thieves.

The Howe case presents one angle of the use of patronage for political purposes in the government of Illinois. The 2 per cent shakedowns are merely another phase of this same drive to use public funds for the benefit of a private political ring. The administration that gave a gun and a star to a criminal is the same that has been extorting money from civil service employés by threatening them with loss of their jobs if they fail to pay.

F. Lynden Smith's name appears in connection with both activities. This is neither a coincidence nor an indication of particular political obliquity on Smith's part. It merely shows what his job consists of as patronage boss for the administration. He does the dirty work, but Gov. Horner and his whole machine benefit by it.

There are still unanswered questions in the Howe case. Why the shabby attempt, in the face of strong evidence of its falsity, to attribute Howe's sponsorship to a dead man? Who was his real sponsor? Why did Smith and Williams, knowing that the federal files contained the facts to prove them liars, still lie? Why have these supposedly smart politicians taken such desperate chances? For whose benefit are they raising their clumsy smoke screen?

These are questions to which a grand jury might well, in the public interest, seek the answers.

WAITING FOR THE SHOE TO DROP.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, as chairman of the Democratic national committee, had lunch with Mr. Roosevelt Wednesday, and afterwards said that the committee will meet Monday to select the place and the date of the party convention. Mr. Hamilton, the Republican national chairman, has been delaying the call for his committee to decide on time and place, waiting for a move by the Democrats.

Ordinarily the Republicans, whether they are in or out of office, nominate before the Democrats meet. This year the party is again in opposition and the challenger. The party chiefs feel that they are entitled to have a look at the Democratic ticket and the Democratic platform, if they can get it. It may be difficult to maneuver Mr. Farley into that position if he wishes to avoid it. Mr. Roosevelt already has expressed a preference for a sweet and short campaign, saying that it would save some money and wouldn't be a tax on the public attention.

If the ticket proposes the third term, the shorter the campaign the better for it. Mr. Roosevelt figures that he doesn't need any warming up. The campaign will not make him a better known figure in the public eye. If the nominations were made a week before the election, it would be an advantage rather than a disadvantage to him. A great deal of the debate would be avoided with pleasure by the Democratic managers. They will have two terms to defend, no matter who their candidate is, and it will be all the worse for them if they have a third term to condone in advance.

If Mr. Farley's committee chooses a very late date, virtually forcing the Republicans to nominate before the New Dealers, it would then appear as a better than 50-50 prospect that the candidate will be Mr. Roosevelt. The later the date, the more that probability increases. The Democratic party isn't bristling with other vote getting personalities. The last seven years have rather dwarfed than enhanced the political stature of the Democrats who have been subservient to the New Deal and are therefore in line to continue it.

Any other candidate than Mr. Roosevelt will need a longish period to demonstrate his graces and his virtues to the people. And if Jim Farley delays the meeting of the convention very long, there may be a number of Democratic casualties caused by internal explosions of temperaments unable to bear the strain of wondering whether they have a chance at the nomination, and among these casualties might even be Jim himself, altho he is well fortified by nature against emotional breakdowns.

COVERING UP.

Mr. Frank J. Taylor, as president of the American Merchant Marine institute, can be regarded as the official spokesman for the operators and owners of ships in this country. In an interview the other day he was discussing the difficulties which beset the American merchant marine and telling how he thought they were being surmounted. The interviewer, Mr. William Fulton of this newspaper, asked Mr. Taylor whether the communists in the maritime unions have not been a cause of serious trouble. Mr. Taylor professed not to know of the inroads which the bolsheviks and their fellow travelers have made in these organizations.

This declaration is as distressing as it is astonishing. Mr. Taylor can hardly fail to know what every newspaper reader knows of the communist influence in the maritime unions. It can only be assumed that for one reason or another he is reluctant to talk publicly about it. If the representative of the employers takes such an attitude, what chance can there be of eradicating an influence which is seriously threatening the usefulness in peace and war of the American merchant marine?

HORE-BELISHA AND THE GENERALS.

A. B. Baxter, a journalistic member of parliament, in a dispatch to the Canadian weekly magazine MacLean's, puts in Hore-Belisha's own words the reason for his dismissal from the war ministry. Mr. Baxter, M. P., relates that Hore-Belisha, who had just been dismissed, sent for him. They had once been together on the Daily Express, Belisha as editorial writer and Baxter as the editor.

"When I took over the war office," Belisha said as Baxter reports him, "I cleaned out nearly all the generals at the top. Next day one of the survivors said to me, 'You have affronted a caste and you will never be forgiven, even by the men you have promoted. You may last six months or a year, but eventually they will get you.' 'O, well,' I said, 'I shall have got a lot done by that time.'"

Baxter relates that it was Belisha who forced the doubling of the territorial army months before the war. When the generals said it was impossible, Belisha replied: "You are always admiring German methods. Hitler would simply order this thing to be done and it would be done. Now I urge you to go ahead and do it." Belisha in cleaning out the generals at the top had put Gort and Ironsides where they are today, but apparently that did not win him even their support when the army decided it would not be hustled by a hard driving civilian.

Editorial of the Day

A PIECE OF VANDALISM.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

A small item in Sunday's paper told of the fact that 116 new poles for a rural electrification line east of Edwardsville, Ill., had been sawed almost entirely thru. Federal Judge Briggle issued an order directing the United States marshal to protect the project from further sabotage. To replace the poles already cut will cost $4,500. The item further said that the construction of the line has been accompanied by frequent disputes with labor unions, and last month representatives of the AFL Laborers' union were enjoined from interfering with the work.

Could this kind of thing have happened anywhere else in the world? Here is a project, financed by public money, designed to bring the blessings of electricity to rural regions. And, after a labor dispute, whatever its merits, vandals saw the poles almost in two. Call out the G-men!

TALES THAT LINCOLN TOLD?

The tradition that Lincoln was a chronic storyteller, often in a ribald vein, stimulates the curiosity of the experts. Just what stories did he tell? Before 1860 they are as unknown as the songs the sirens sang.

Franklin J. Meine, specialist in early American humor, has discovered certain anecdotes that may have been written by Lincoln. They were printed in the Spirit of the Times, a periodical published in New York and circulated to some extent in the middle west, on Dec. 10, 1853, under the caption "Sporting [!] Epistle from Illinois." The Spirit of the Times called itself a magazine of the turf, agriculture, the field, literature, and the stage, and its various numbers contain anonymous contributions from Springfield, Belleville, Wilmington, and Waukegan, Ill.

Lincoln might easily have written and contributed the following lawyer's tale:

> Last winter two young men were arrested and tried for a riot, before J. K. M., Esq., a Justice of the Peace for this County. The facts of the riot were clearly proved; there was not a show of a doubt but that the prisoners were guilty of what they were charged. After the arguments by the attornies, the Justice [who had some ideas peculiar to himself] decided that the prisoners should be acquitted. The attorney for the prosecution, with dismay depicted on his face, jumped up, exclaiming, "Acquitted, sir?"
>
> "Yes, sir," responds the Justice, "honorably acquitted by ——!!"
>
> Of course the decision was final.

There are two other courtroom anecdotes in this article. One of them, dealing with a rape case, mentions a certain C. C. as a justice of the peace and the Hon. J. B. W. as a former candidate for congress. Mr. Meine believes that J. B. W. was Joseph B. Wells, who ran for congress in northwestern Illinois in 1848 and was defeated by Edward D. Baker, then a close friend of Lincoln's.

Carl Sandburg and Oliver Barrett, both high-degree experts, agree with Mr. Meine that Lincoln may have been the author.

BEDTIME CONTRITION.

He had been very naughty, Lord,
And I was tired and cross.
He had not really meant to be
Yet I was at a loss.

He watched me wipe spots off the floor;
My hands were sore from scrubbing.
He saw the ink stains in his clothes
In spite of fervid rubbing.

I sat upon his bed to hear
His evening prayers to You,
His "God bless every one and make Me good in all I do."

Then he spoke gently to me, "Mother,
Sit still and close your eyes.
Please, please don't open them because It's . . . it's a surprise!"

It took a lot of patience, Lord,
When so much was amiss.
I closed my eyes. He took my hand
And put in it . . . a kiss.

Maxine Brinkley.

Tightening Up the Loose Nuts.

The question of the most important nut on a locomotive [Jan. 30] may have stumped many an engineer, but a conductor, never.

If the question were put to any group of railroad conductors they would instantly shout in unison, with gleeful spirit and ribald abandon, "the engineer."

On the old Corn Beef and Cabbage out of Bluffton, Ind., they used to say that all the nuts on the one locomotive were loose except the engineer, who was always tight.

This typifies the spirit of an age-old rivalry between the Brass-Buttoned Messenger Boys [the conductors] and the Hairy-Eared Eagle-Eyes [the engineers], heaven bless 'em both.

GRANDMA SITS AND SEWS.

She sits beside the fire, when snowflakes whirl,
And sews her quilt blocks deftly, while she dreams
Of olden days when she was but a girl,
A novice in the art of sewing seams.
She must recall a score of girlhood joys:
The spelling bee, the bobsled ride that night
With Martha Davis and the Riley boys,
When youth was running high, and hearts were light;
Those rides to town with Father at the reins,
And Mother sitting proudly on his right;
The nights when she helped Mother wind her skeins
Into red plumpy balls, rotund and tight.
Tho Grandma sits here quietly and sews,

As We Grow Older.

I have been prodigal with time. "I wish it were 5 o'clock; I wish it were Christmas; I wish it were summer; I wish I were 16; I wish I were 21." And I, once so lavish, now clutch each moment and am reluctant to let it go. A moment—hold it against the sun and see it sparkle with a thousand glittering facets. Take it close in your palm; it is warm, and round, and dear. View it objectively; it is important, individual. Take it apart; it is composed of so many tiny parts of beauty and living. Out of all time I am content with this moment—now.

FOOD POISONING IN WINTER.

We are all dependent upon food handlers. Every one who eats in a restaurant or hotel is obliged to place implicit confidence not only in the quality of the raw materials used, but in the health of those who cook the meal. We all know how dangerous is the malady caused by entameba histolytica. Not only may these parasites flourish in the intestinal tract but they may invade the liver and occasion distressing symptoms.

Unfortunately, some people become carriers. Not ill themselves, they harbor the animalcuil within their bodies and may spread them to others. In the preparation of salads with raw vegetables or fruits, if their hands are not washed with sufficient frequency, they may plant these "wee beasties" for others to swallow.

Another mischief maker is the staphylococcus and, curiously enough, this microbe may live for hours, even days, in custards and the fillings of pastry. Sometimes an employé will have a nasal or throat infection for which this type is responsible. A recent epidemic in a bakery hitherto considered a model of sanitation carries an important lesson.

It appears that over a period of three weeks a large number of the customers of this shop suffered marked upsets. High temperatures characterized the attacks—with sharp outbreaks of diarrhea, vomiting, and abdominal cramps. Water, milk, and other possibilities were exonerated, whereupon cultures of the nasal passages and throats of the staff disclosed staphylococci in large numbers.

The chances are that a single member of the group conveyed the infection to others. In consequence, the organisms could hardly fail to find their way into custards, eclairs, etc. Altho adequate refrigeration was provided, many of the articles were left exposed to room temperature in kitchens subsequent to purchase. It was then that the bacteria began to disport themselves and multiply. Careful attention to the hygiene of the workers abated the trouble completely.

Another outbreak in a neighboring state involved members of 47 households. Here again the staphylococcus was found to be the culprit. Symptoms included abdominal pain, vomiting, and diarrhea. Most of the patients recovered within a day or two although in some instances the disorder was more severe and persisted for as long as 10 days.

The contamination was encountered at a church dinner where cold roast pork, apple sauce, beans, potatoes, gravy, and coconut cream pie were served. Because of the well known ability of cream mixtures to act as culture beds, the pie was investigated first of all and of the 102 persons who had partaken of this dish, 96 were affected. Six additional diners who did not take dessert escaped.

The pies in question had been secured from a delicatessen specializing in such items. Other persons who bought the same food at the same time were affected in like proportion. The filling was made of milk, flour, cornstarch, butter, egg yolk, salt, and vanilla flavoring; while the meringue was composed of egg white, sugar, salt, and cream of tartar. The milk was first boiled and the other ingredients added. When ready, the batter was ladled into shells which had been made previously. The meringue was then laid on and exposed for about two minutes in a hot oven to attain an attractive brown.

The whole process was completed in the late afternoon when the pies were placed on racks and, later, in paper boxes for delivery. Many were still warm when handed to the drivers. Those served at the church festival were eaten approximately 24 hours after manufacture.

Here again staphylococci were unearthed in generous quantities altho only one employé was found to be playing host to this particular organism. Apparently his contact with the edibles was sufficiently intimate to transmit the invaders.

While epidemics of this character can occur during the summer, nevertheless nasal infections are more common during the winter months. Coughing, sneezing, or unclean fingers may imbed disease germs in foods that are not sterilized by heat before serving. Had the pies been rebaked at a high oven temperature for 30 minutes or more there probably would have been no difficulty.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

M. E. H. writes: Please explain the cause and effects of low blood pressure.

REPLY.

In most instances no abnormal symptoms are noticed other than persistent fatigue or lack of energy. A letdown feeling and dizziness [particularly after stooping or on arising too quickly from a prone position] may be observed as well as a general lowering of tone. The cause probably lies with the glandular system. Increasing one's activity [exercise] is of value.

IDEAL ROOM TEMPERATURE.

B. E. P. writes: Is 68 to 72 the correct winter temperature for indoors? Some insist 75 degrees is better.

REPLY.

This depends upon the moisture and one's own reactions. Some desire it warmer than others. If the air can be maintained at a humidity of 40, a temperature of 70 degrees will be adequate. Whenever the water content drops a reading of 72 degrees or higher may be necessary for comfort.

STIFF NECK.

W. S. writes: Could the use of a hair dye cause a stiff neck?

REPLY.

MEN OF PEACE.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—I was quite shocked at the articles appearing in The Chicago Tribune on Monday and Tuesday of this past week relative to thirty-three prominent churchmen advocating our participation in the European mixup.

Stick our necks out, for what? What did the last war get us?

With all this fresh in my mind and as a war veteran who was in that last stinking, destructive, murderous mess, I say, for the sake of the future of our country, let us this time heed George Washington's advice and stay out of Europe.

Let us be ever ready to defend our country against aggressors, both internal and external, but let no one manufacture a reason for us to get into that European mess.

Let these churchmen devote their lives to promote peace by preaching impressive sermons along these lines, granting religious solace and guidance to a tired, tried people. This will make the lot of the people and preacher a happier one.

A. Hunziker Jr.

THE SCOTCH-IRISH.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—No more misleading statement ever was given publicity than that of "Scotch-Irish Descendant" in The Tribune of Jan. 20, when he indicates that the people of Eire "would like to get their hands on the wealth the Scotch-Irish have amassed." Such statement is typical of the propaganda which seeks to represent northeast Ulster as the wealthy part of Ireland, and which can truthfully be termed deliberate deception.

The census of 1911—the latest taken by the British government—shows that Leinster, not Ulster, is the wealthiest Irish province. Inspection of the census figures shows that County Down, highest rated Ulster county, is 13th on the list of Irish counties, while County Antrim, in which is situated the industrial city of Belfast, ranks 18th. Income tax returns for the same year show Dublin ranking sixth among United Kingdom cities, and Belfast 26th.

Highly misleading, too, is the statement that "It is the combination of Irish fire and Scotch canniness that gets up steam." This implication that the Northern Irish are the result of a combination of Irish and Scotch blood is entirely unjustified. While the descendants of the Scotch and English planters—the spoilers and the despoiled—have for upwards of three centuries been near neighbors, intermarriage between the Irish and Scotch is entirely unknown. Furthermore the planters' descendants are not known as Scotch-Irish in the North of Ireland. In his 30 years' residence under northern skies this writer never once heard the term. The term "Scotch-Irish," is an American invention designed to deny to the real Irish the credit which is theirs for the major part they played in the establishment, the maintenance, the defense and the development of this their adopted and beloved country.

Bernard MacGillian,
President, Ulster Irish Liberty Legion.

A BILLION FOR INTEREST.

Palos Park, Ill., Jan. 23.—I notice that the interest on the national debt now amounts to over a billion dollars. Those whose memory runs back to the time when Thomas B. Reed was speaker of the house can recall that the Democrats opprobriously referred to the congress as the "billion dollar congress" because its appropriations exceeded that. The country had more than half the population it has now, yet the expenditures have increased 10 times and the interest alone exceeds the total appropriations of "Czar" Reed's congress. That certainly is a new deal.

Evan L. Reed.

STRIPPED TO THE WAX.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—It is about time for the managers of our lovely stores and shops to instruct their window trimmers to cover the windows or drape the nude models instead of leaving them standing unclothed for hours at a time. It is very noticeable that most of these feminine forms are so ill shaped and placed in such awkward positions they are positively a disgrace to women.

H. E. A.

THE ROPE TRICK.

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 23.—I read in your Voice of the People about descending from upper rooms by rope. I have slid down by rope many times. I use a half-inch rope and a thicker one would be better. Wrap the rope once around one leg, hold it between your feet viselike, use mittens or cloth in your hands. Tie the rope with cord to one foot to keep it in place until you slide. Ladies should double the hose on the leg the rope is on.

Try this on a short drop. Such a rope could be used for letting children down by some other person. Please print this, it might save some one from a cruel death or terrible pains.

Mathias Wilhelm.

A PRIVATE'S JUDGMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—If you get them from West Point you're pretty sure of an officer. If you get them somewhere else you may have an officer, but you also may have a big hunk of cheese instead.

Private, A. E. F.

DRAWING UP WILL.

Chicago, Jan. 25 [Legal Friend of the People].—Will you please help in answering the following questions for my sister? She is desirous of having the following points clarified in connection with the making of her will. Her situation is this: She is unmarried, parents deceased; I, a widow, her only sister; no brothers; I have no children, therefore she has no nieces or nephews; her nearest in kin are first cousins, uncles, and aunts. My sister is a woman of limited means, so feels financially unable to give away anything prior to her death, but does want to remember certain of her friends who have meant much to her.

In the event that I, her sister, should predecease her [1] what provision would she have to make for cousins in her will to prevent their breaking it?

If she were to leave, say, approximately three or four thousand dollars in money, plus her personal effects, jewelry, etc., and wishes to leave a portion of this amount to her little charities [2] would she have to stipulate a certain small sum of money to each relative?

[3] Would she have to mention the names of each and every cousin? Where cousins lived in distant parts and there had been no correspondence, etc., [4] would these cousins have to be mentioned in order that no claim be filed against same?

In other words, in order for the friends and little charities to get what my sister feels they should get [5] would she have to leave relatives a small sum, or should they be enumerated with a stipulated amount or "nothing" as the closeness or distance in relationship has existed?

[6] Can second cousins make a claim on an estate?

A. K.

1. The law does not require her to make any provision for them. All that is necessary is that her will be executed with statutory formalities that she had testamentary capacity and that she be free from undue influence.
2. No.
3. No.
4. No.
5. No.
6. Not with success.

While the statute does not require the employment of an attorney we consider such employment advisable. If you try to economize by dispensing with expert help, you are likely to make mistakes which will cost much more than an attorney would have charged to see that the job was done right in the first place. In addition, an attorney might make valuable suggestions as to the wisdom of your testamentary plan.

If, despite the above, you wish to try to handle the matter for yourself, you should obtain a printed form from a stationer and see that it is executed in strict accordance with the attestation clause which precedes the space for signature of witnesses. The services of a notary are not necessary, and it is not safe to assume that a notary will be a competent adviser.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

How Our States Got Their Names

23. MISSOURI.

Missouri was named after the Missouri Indians who once lived near the boundaries of the present state. The exact meaning of the word, however, is debatable. Some authorities say it means "muddy water," others that the word means "wooden canoe" or "town of the large canoes." Missouri became a state on Aug. 10, 1821.

Missouri state seal. Shield, supported by grizzly bears, a crescent, a white bear, and American eagle. Above is helmet surmounted by one large and 23 smaller stars. Below is state motto in scroll and date [MDCCCXX.] of the Missouri Compromise [1820].

The state motto is "Salus Populi Suprema Lex Esto" [Let the Welfare of the People Be the Supreme Law]. The state flower is the hawthorne and the bird the bluebird. Nicknames given to Missouri include the Show Me, Ozark, Bullion, Iron Mountain, and Lead state. The bullion nickname is said to derive from a nickname given a former Missouri senator who favored the use of gold and silver as the only currency. There is an Iron mountain in the state, and the Ozarks also are located there. The famous "Show Me" phrase seems first to have been used by a congressman in a speech.

U. S. JURY INDICTS 25 IN PROBE OF BUILDING TRADES

Charged with Violating Monopoly Laws.

The federal grand jury investigating Chicago's building industry yesterday indicted 25 individuals, unions, and corporations connected with the plywood and cut stone industries. They were charged with conspiracy to establish restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman antitrust law.

Two weeks ago the jury indicted 41 corporations, unions, and individuals in the tile business. Today, according to Leo F. Tierney, special assistant to the attorney general, who is directing the inquiry, the investigation will take up the electrical side of the building industry, which is being subjected to the government's antitrust campaign in eight other large cities.

Silent on Those Involved.

Tierney refused to disclose who might be involved in the electrical investigation.

Among those indicted yesterday are:

PATRICK F. SULLIVAN, president of the Chicago Building Trades council. He is a former business agent of the electrical workers' union.

WILLIAM L. HUTCHESON, first vice president of the American Federation of Labor and president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. He was indicted in a phase of the building industry investigation in St. Louis, Mo., last November.

CHARLES YOUNGBLOOD, a delegate to the building trades council and business agent of local 147 of the painters' union. Last March 16 Youngblood, an ex-convict, and his wife were shot in a gangland ambuscade attributed to strife in the painters' union.

Charged with Conspiracy.

In the cut stone case the defendants were charged with conspiracy to prevent the use in Chicago of fabricated [cut, trimmed, and sized] limestone from Indiana quarries which are said to produce 90 per cent of the limestone for Chicago building.

Last June and July this issue held up construction of the $3,150,000 south side vocational school during a six weeks' undeclared strike. It was charged that the building trades council refused to allow its members to work on projects where the prefabricated limestone was used. In the strike settlement the mason contractor agreed to have half of the fabrication done by union men here.

John Callahan, agent of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' union, and Adolph Berglund, agent of local 109 of the carpenters' brotherhood, were indicted for calling their men off such jobs. This indictment also names Sullivan, Youngblood, Earl J. McMahon, secretary, and Byron Dalton, another delegate to the building trades council.

Other defendants in this case are Max Davidson of Simpson & Davison, Eric E. Skoglund and Eric Peterson of Eric E. Skoglund & Co., Bernard Van Eteen of Galloy & Van Etten, Inc., and Ernest Heldmaier of E. Heldmaier, Inc., all stone cutting firms. The last three companies were indicted as corporations. Unions named as entities are the Building Trades council and the Chicago local of the journeymen stone cutters.

Dispute Between Unions.

In the plywood case the indictment named the national association, district council, and local 58 of the carpenters' brotherhood. Named as individual defendants are five union officers: William L. Hutcheson, M. A. Hutcheson, also of Indianapolis, who is national vice president; Stevenson, and two local business agents, John E. Remhalf and Werner Johnson.

This indictment concerns a jurisdictional dispute between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations at the Hoquiam, Wash., plant of the Harbor Plywood corporation.

The indictment accuses the A. F. of L. unions and the officers named with a conspiracy against the company after a majority of employés, in a Wagner act election, designated local 2521 of the International Woodworkers of America [C. I. O.] as their bargaining agent.

As part of an A. F. of L. conspiracy to prevent the company from selling Douglas fir plywood for shipment from Washington, the indictment charges, strikes were called against purchasers of Harbor plywood. A. F. of L. carpenters, it was charged, were ordered not to work on any Harbor products.

JANITOR ROBBED OF $98.

Indicted

HINES IS GRANTED RIGHT TO APPEAL BY JUDGE LEHMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—Chief Judge Irving Lehman of the Court of Appeals, highest judicial tribunal in the state, today granted permission for an appeal on behalf of Tammany Leader James J. Hines, convicted as the political protector of New York City's policy racket.

Judge Lehman.

Last week the appellate division of the state's Supreme court unanimously affirmed Hines' conviction. Because the decision was unanimous it was necessary to gain permission from the Court of Appeals for further appeal in the case. Chief Justice Lehman is the brother of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman.

Hines, who was the chief dispenser of Roosevelt administration patronage in New York county until District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey investigated his activities, is under sentence of from four to eight years. He was found guilty by a jury before Judge Charles C. Nott Jr. in General Sessions court nearly a year ago. He is at liberty under $35,000 bond.

SEIZE 5 AS BOND FORGERS; CHARGE 60 MILLION PLOT

New York, Feb. 1 (AP).—Five men were accused today by the government of printing bogus bonds with an ostensible value of $3,000,000 to be used as a spurious nest egg in an extraordinary scheme to pyramid enough money to buy corporations worth $60,000,000.

Indictments charging mail fraud and conspiracy were returned against Frederick J. McDermott, described by federal officials as a former special deputy insurance commissioner of New York state; Walter A. Stegman, a certified public accountant; Harold L. Bishop, a former stock broker; Flagle J. Halsted, and Arthur J. Keon.

Keon and Halsted were accused of having posed as officers of the allegedly fictitious companies under whose authority allegedly fictitious securities were issued.

Everything, said United States Attorney John T. Cahill, was done realistically. As a final touch armored trucks were hired to transport bundles of the fraudulent securities.

With some of these bonds, and with financial statements purporting to show that the nonexistent corporations had assets of more than $6,000,000, Cahill added, the accused conspirators were able to obtain pledges of $900,000 from various lending agencies, altho the loans never were actually made.

BAR COMPILES LIST OF LAWYERS FIT TO BE JUDGE

The Chicago Bar association announced yesterday that a permanent list of lawyers considered qualified to hold judicial office is being compiled by a special committee.

In a letter sent to members of the bar association, Tappan Gregory, president, said:

"In the past we have been handicapped because no recommendations could be made until after the nominating petitions had been filed. Frequently we have been unable to recommend enough candidates to fill the offices for which they stand."

A committee, under the chairmanship of Attorney Joseph E. Fitch, has been working on the plan for a year, it was said. The list will supplement the bar's undertaking to improve the method of judicial selection, the letter said.

ROAD BUILDERS STRESS BENEFITS OF 'L' HIGHWAYS

Savings Over Depressed Types Cited.

BY HAL FOUST.

Advantages of an elevated type of superhighway compared with the depressed type are affirmed in a committee report delivered before the American Road Builders association yesterday. The association, with a $5,000,000 exhibit of construction equipment, is meeting in the International amphitheater. Today it will end a week's convention, attended by 40,000 delegates.

V. G. Iden.

"The depressed road," said V. G. Iden of New York, secretary of the American Institute of Steel Construction and chairman of the association's committee on superhighways, "destroys many of the city advantages of proximity by cutting off sections of the city as by a Chinese wall. By spreading out the city, depressed roads increase the cost of water mains, police and all other urban accommodations to its citizens.

Design More Expensive.

"The depressed design is more expensive than the elevated, especially on expensive city real estate. The only economic means of providing express urban motorways is in the form of elevated roadways."

Iden's conclusion is related to an issue now pending before the governing bodies of Cook county and of Chicago. The county board roads and bridges committee yesterday referred to the city council alternate plans for the county to build a $40,000,000 superhighway northwest from the central business district.

One proposal, favored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and by the Chicago Regional Planning association, calls for a depressed design to parallel Clybourn and Elston avenues for most of its distance. The other, favored by the Chicago Motor club, calls for an elevated design to parallel an existing embankment of the Chicago and North Western.

Council Group Meets Thursday.

Ald. George D. Kells [28th], chairman of a special council subcommittee, said last night that his group will meet next Thursday to discuss the county's project and also a $205,000,000 plan for a comprehensive superhighway system to serve all sections of the city.

"Figures developed in Chicago, New York and St. Louis," reads Iden's argument for the elevated design, "prove beyond a doubt that if we are expecting to burden these arterial ways with the added cost of new parks, or with the cost of slum clearance, the taxpayers are likely to revolt against the whole thing."

In another presentation before the road convention yesterday, Charles H. Rex, an illumination engineer, reported that Detroit had reduced its motor toll 36 fatalities a year by investing $145,000 to modernize the lighting on 31 miles of street which had a high night accident record.

2 Robbers Seize Pay Roll of $878 and Flee in Auto

Frank Balkin, 40 years old, 122 Central avenue, Wilmette, was robbed of $878 yesterday by two men who stopped him in front of the Newberry library, Clark and Walton streets. One of the men was armed. The money was the pay roll for the Chicago Film laboratories, 18 East Walton street, of which Balkin is sales manager. The bandits escaped in a car driven by a third man.

BABY, 6 WEEKS OLD, KILLED IN AUTO COLLISION

Lawyer Dies When Car Skids Against Bus.

Ervin Olsen Jr., 6 weeks old, was fatally injured last night in an automobile collision at 87th street and South Park avenue. He died in the Evangelical hospital. The child was in the arms of his mother, Mrs. Nora Olsen, 29 years old, 910 East 62d street, as they were being driven home by friends, Mr. and Mrs. John Unger and their daughter, Mildred, of 443 West 87th street. Their car was struck and overturned by that of Morton Lewis, 35, of 7948 Anthony avenue, a laborer. Police arrested him, saying he ignored a traffic signal. The Ungers and Mrs. Olsen were slightly injured.

Attorney Is Killed.

Attorney Frank J. Brading, 6545 South Union avenue, was killed yesterday when his automobile skidded into the rear of a Chicago Surface Lines bus at Evergreen and Ogden avenues. Brading was 31 years old and unmarried.

William C. Sievert, 75, of 2533 Mont Clare avenue, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile at Harlem and Wrightwood avenues, Elmwood Park. He died in the Oak Park hospital. The driver was Wayne Weld, 21, of 127 Clyde avenue, Evanston.

Martin Parrilla, 52, of 2850 Polk street, a coal passer, died early today in the Robert Burns hospital of injuries suffered early yesterday when he was knocked down by an automobile at Harrison street and Kilbourn avenue. The driver was Robert McKeever, 24, of 1624 South 18th avenue, Maywood.

John Bednarz, 54 years old, 3610 South Seeley avenue, died in County hospital of injuries incurred Jan. 28 when he was struck by an automobile at 37th and South Wood streets. Mike Pietrucha, 24, of 3657 South Paulina street, was the driver.

Dies After Car Hits Viaduct.

Joseph Svestka, 50 years old, 2730 North Clark street, died in County hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when an automobile in which he was riding skidded into a viaduct at Halsted and Wayman streets.

Miss Goldie Scott, 38, colored, was killed when she was struck in front of her home at 2901 South State street by the auto of a hit-run driver.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 85 persons had been killed in auto accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of this number 64 were killed in Chicago, where 1,941 have been injured during the same period.

Oregon, Ill., Feb. 1 (AP).—Two persons were killed and two were injured today in a headon automobile collision west of here on route 64. The dead were Mrs. Clarence K. Norris, 21 years old, and William M. Hawn, 38, both of Sioux Falls, S. D.

172 AUTO OWNERS SEIZED FOR LACK OF CITY STICKERS

A police campaign to force motorists to purchase their 1940 city license stickers was started yesterday. Up to 4 p. m. 172 had been given summonses which require the payment of a $2 "cafeteria court" fine. It was indicated that a much larger number would be summoned today.

Police Commissioner Allman had set Jan. 31 as the deadline for purchase of the stickers. State and county highway police forces have been instructed by the state license division to issue tickets to car owners who are still running with 1939 plates.

CHICAGO'S POLICE MOBILIZE IN WAR AGAINST GOONISM

Trail of Violence Marks Sluggers' Activities.

Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan declared yesterday that there are goons in Chicago; that a trail of violence and murder marks their activities in the labor movement and that the police department is taking steps to end their activities.

Attention was drawn to Chicago's goon problem when investigators recently found in the files of the National Labor Relations Board evidence that the board had been told by its own investigators of the existence and activities of goons but had done nothing about it on the ground that it lacked jurisdiction.

A goon, always a slugger and sometimes a murderer, subscribes to the theory that a blow from a baseball bat is the most effective answer to a labor opponent.

What is Chicago doing about these muscle men whose function is to quell protest by terrorism? In the first place, Chief Sullivan said, the Chicago police department is cognizant of the existence of goons. It has already taken steps to combat them. It plans still more.

Goon Squad Organized.

Recently, on orders of Commissioner Allman, a special police detail was created to investigate all labor strife, Chief Sullivan explained. It is composed of four detectives, George Barnes, Ray Ford, John O'Brien, and Frank McDermott. It works under direct orders of Supervising Captain John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed division.

Essentially, this detail will act as a goon squad, according to the detective chief. Its purpose will be to trace goons, arrest them, and bring them to justice.

The move was first suggested by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney. The appointment of the squad followed a meeting of Courtney and Mayor Kelly with prominent business men who were aroused by the goon murder of Marinus Hvid, garage owner who was fatally beaten on Dec. 27.

The police department has no list of goons who can be kept under the watchful eye of the force. That is because goons slink thru shadows to do their noisome work, Chief Sullivan says; because they are often in hiding, and because it cannot be forecast when they will strike.

Calls Them Cowards At Heart.

"Goons usually don't carry guns," the chief says. "They are like all swaggering bullies and toughs—cowards at heart.

"The favorite weapons of goons are clubs, planks, and baseball bats. It's hard to trace such a weapon when one is picked up at the scene of a crime. The goon is under orders not to kill, because those who use these gorillas don't want to stand the cost of defending a murder case."

Goons are not the instigators of terror, Chief Sullivan states. They are only the instruments of those who decree terror in labor relations. It is hard, the chief admits, to get both at the goon and the man behind him who sends him out on his errand.

"When a union sees a lot of red ink on its books representing the pay of pickets," Chief Sullivan says, "it will—if it is a racketeering organization—resort to goons.

Goons Take the Risks.

"Labor violence is organized crime, well planned, brutally carried out. Then men who do the planning don't take the risks. The goon is permitted to take them.

"But the higher brain plots just where the victim will be at a given time. Goon terrorism is usually planned in a poorly lighted place, where there will be few passersby. The goons then gang the victim and beat him."

These factors—poor light, lack of witnesses, violence carried out by outsiders unknown to the victim—add to the difficulties of the police in catching goons. If they are caught, they are usually represented by able legal counsel provided by their masters. And the primary rule of the goon is not to talk.

Hopes to Solve Hvid Murder.

The new police detail may achieve more success in that than has so far been the case. And a department of more than 6,000 policemen, aware of the existence of goons and the danger they represent to the community, will be on watch constantly for goons, with no special order needed.

Chief Sullivan hopes the new squad may solve the murder of Marinus Hvid, and may save the lives of other men, like Lloyd Rourke, independent laundry driver, who was beaten to death with a ball bat Feb. 10, 1938, after defying union pickets; like James Lawrence, Wiebold store truck guard, shot to death last April 12 after a jurisdictional fight between two unions, and Paul Peters, shot to death Oct. 31 because, police said, he belonged to an insurgent group in local No. 4 of the International Pressmen and Assistants' union.

Out of Prison

CAPT. IVAN PODERJAY.

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 1 (AP).—Capt. Ivan Poderjay, shackled and wearing a smart tweed coat, emerged today from Auburn prison, where he served five years for bigamous marriage to a bride who disappeared on her honeymoon.

He was taken to the Cayuga county jail, where he will remain for three days to await deportation to Jugoslavia.

The captain, who lost his right eye in a fight with another prisoner two years ago, refused to answer questions concerning his missing bride, Agnes Colonia Tufverson, a New York corporation lawyer. Miss Tufverson, then 43 years old, resigned her job in 1933 to marry Capt. Poderjay, an international bon vivant, then disappeared. No trace of her was found, but the search revealed Poderjay's marriage to a French girl, Mlle. Suzanne Ferrund, in whose company he was arrested in Vienna.

JUDGE BRAUDE REASSIGNED TO SAFETY COURT

Municipal Judge J. M. Braude was reassigned to the Safety court in an order issued yesterday by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby changing the assignments of several judges. Judge Braude was transferred from that court two years ago.

Judge Frank E. Donoghue, who has been sitting in the Safety court, will go to the Bond court, and Judge Charles S. Dougherty, who has been hearing cases in the latter court, will go to the civil branch.

Judge Mason S. Sullivan will go to South State Street court, and Judge John V. McCormick, who has been in that court, will go to the Jury court where Judge Braude has been sitting. The order will become effective Monday.

STATE APPROVES $1,155,000 IN ROAD JOBS FOR COUNTY

The Illinois highway department yesterday approved two Cook county gas tax projects calling for expenditure of $1,155,000 of the county's share of the motor fuel excise.

The larger of the two jobs provides for three miles of pavement, four grade separations and two bridges in Willow road west of Winnetka, between Skokie road and Shermer road, making a connection between Milwaukee road and Skokie. The cost is estimated at $825,000.

The other project provides $330,000 to replace three miles of pavement in Union avenue between Garfield boulevard and 31st street.

33 Nurses Start Training in Stewardess' School

Opportunities for women in aviation are increasing, American Airline officials said yesterday as they started 33 registered nurses thru the airline's stewardess training school. N. K. Wilson, supervisor of passenger service, said that by spring the airline will need 80 more stewardesses.

JURORS ACQUIT 3 UNIONISTS IN STRIKE BRAWL

Freed of Attack Charges in Revere Dispute.

Three men charged with violence during the strike last summer at the Revere Copper and Brass company plant, 2200 North Natchez avenue, were found not guilty yesterday by a Criminal court jury before Judge Joseph A. Graber.

After the verdict was returned Assistant State's Attorney Leslie V. Curtis nol prossed a pending charge of assault with intent to kill. He said the state's evidence was identical in many instances with that offered in the case concluded yesterday.

Mizialko. Zaker. Keglovitz.

Members of A. F. of L. Unit.

The defendants, Steve Mizialko, Walter Zaker, and Michael Keglovitz, members of the American Federation of Labor division of the United Automobile Workers of America, were accused as participants in an attack on Aug. 22, during which six persons were stabbed, beaten, and burned with acid.

All were charged with conspiracy to commit assault and malicious mischief.

"The state's case was not strong," Curtis said. "The fight in which the six persons were injured was attended by confusion, and as a result testimony conflicted and left room for possible doubt. Moreover, there was no evidence of organized hoodlumism. There were no hired sluggers, or goons. The defendants no doubt scored a point with the jury by showing they are still employed by the company."

Alibi Is Offered.

Before the case was given to the jury an alibi was offered for Keglovitz. It was testified that he was in a north side tavern at the time of the attack.

Testimony that Zaker had slashed Paul R. Stoddard, director of the Landis Award Employer's association, during the melee was ordered stricken because the state did not allege this in the bill of particulars furnished the defense before the trial.

William Scott Stewart, counsel for the defense, contended that no conspiracy existed and that the defendants had not been connected with any of the acts mentioned in the indictment.

UPHOLDS ACTION OF COURTNEY IN JURY FIX TRIAL

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court dismissed yesterday a petition in which Attorney Joseph T. Harrington sought appointment of a special prosecutor to investigate the conduct of State's Attorney Courtney and his staff. The petition accused Courtney's staff of illegal conduct in dealing with the foreman of a "fixed" jury which recently acquitted two 11th ward vote fraud defendants.

Judge Prystalski said that both Courtney and his first assistant, Wilbert F. Crowley, had denied any attempt to coerce the jury foreman, Oliver Thoner, into submitting to a lie detector test. He said the court was satisfied that no wrong had been done. After the ruling Courtney told the judge that he had conducted his office in a "straight-forward and fearless manner" and would continue to do so.

MOVE TO SEEK INDICTMENT OF SLIPPER BANDITS

Preparations were being made yesterday to present the case of the fur slipped bandits to the grand jury within a few days. Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court denied an application for a writ to free the gang when police promised to file formal charges today. The gang had admitted more than 100 robberies in the last 18 months, but the state will seek to indict them in only three cases.

Guider of the gang destinies was Mrs. Annette Detente, 26 years old, wife of a convict and a relative of criminals. In preparing for most of the robberies, she examined the premises first. She would pose as a neighbor, wearing fur topped house slippers. These slippers furnished the clew which led to the roundup of the bandits Tuesday and Wednesday.

The others in custody are her brothers-in-law, Ralph Detente, 24, and his brother, John, 29, ex-convicts; William Ott, 25, former inmate of the Bridewell, and Chris Datallo, 31, an ex-convict. Datallo is near death in the Bridewell hospital from a bullet wound received Tuesday in a gun battle with police.

ASSESSOR DROPS 164 EMPLOYES FROM PAY ROLL

Assessor John S. Clark announced yesterday 164 employés had been dropped from his pay roll with the completion of the 1939 quadrennial assessment of real estate. Fifty of the number were considered regular employés, tho not in civil service. Clark said the reduction in the appropriation for his office made necessary the dismissal of this group. Two hundred and six civil service employés were not affected.

BLISS, 18 HOURS OF IT, REUNITES THE BARRYMORES

John, Elaine Reconciled "Indefinitely."

New York, Feb. 1 (AP).—After 18 hours of their promised "24 hours of bliss" together, John Barrymore and Elaine Barrie decided to extend their reconciliation indefinitely.

"Indefinite" was the word for it, altho they sounded tonight as if all, once more, was nothing but love and kisses in their hectic romance-marriage. They vowed their reconciliation would be permanent, but in the next breath Barrymore would add a "we think" or an "if."

Decides She's "Great."

"Great little girl, Elaine," he said before he left a hotel for the second night's Broadway showing of his current play, "My Dear Children."

"We've had our ups and downs," he declared. "Hell, everybody has. But she's swell. Permanent reconciliation? I don't know. How can anybody look into the future? But hope springs eternal in the human heart."

Said Elaine at this point:

"We've had our quarrels, and maybe we'll have more. But right now we're definitely friends."

'Twas Ever Thus.

They have been first friends and then foes since before their first marriage more than three years ago. Once they were divorced and later they reconciled and remarried. A year ago they started to play together on the stage. Then came another estrangement, with Elaine instituting divorce proceedings once more.

Nothing was said tonight about the divorce action but Barrymore disclosed that Elaine might resume her original part in the play. It depended, he said, on Doris Dudley, who took Elaine's place last April. "Doris thinks she has a part in another show," said John.

Plays to a Full House.

Another full house enjoyed the Barrymore technique tonight, altho he again played his leading rôle "straight," as he did last night in returning to Broadway for the first time in 17 years.

He was not feeling too chipper, so his male nurse stood in the wings to give him a bit of "medicine" and a cigaret each time he left the stage.

The new "reconciliation" followed last night's performance, Barrymore yielding, despite the protests of some of his "Dear Children," to Elaine's entreaty for "24 hours of bliss."

Elaine confronted Barrymore in a night club, where he was seated with his daughter, Diana Barrymore Blythe, and Miss Dudley. Breathed Elaine: "I cannot go on without you. I do not want you back for keeps. All I want is 24 hours of bliss."

Quoth Barrymore: "You are like the breath of spring," and he kissed her.

Presently Barrymore and Elaine departed, too, he saying: "My wife and I will take our leave. Pleasant dreams."

BOY FACES MURDER CHARGE IN DEATH OF YOUNG RAPE VICTIM

South Haven, Mich., Feb. 1 [Special].—County Prosecutor Sheldon Rupert said today he probably would place a charge of first degree murder against Clyde Clark Jr., 15 years old, in the rape-death of a young South Haven mother.

Clyde Clark Jr.

The boy confessed, following his arrest yesterday, that he raped Mrs. Faye Edwards, 20 years old, mother of two children, after seizing her on Monday night as she walked near her home. Mrs. Edwards died at noon yesterday.

Police disclosed today that Clyde told them he had tried to induce other boys his age to attempt the rape of their high school teachers. He confessed he was the youth who attempted to rape another South Haven housewife an hour before Mrs. Edwards was attacked.

Clyde was arraigned at Paw Paw today before Probate Judge Merle H. Young, who presides in juvenile cases. Upon the motion of Prosecutor Rupert, the judge waived juvenile authorities' interest in the case and remanded the boy to the Circuit court for trial.

HUNT CAR AGENCY LINKS IN GOON TERROR ATTACKS

The new racket squad of the police department was seeking yesterday to learn if there was any link between terroristic attacks on two automobile sales agencies, owned by two brothers, A. J. and George Lavery.

Local 701 of the Auto Mechanics' union called a strike at 7 a. m. Tuesday in the Lavery Motor Sales agency at 6127 Cottage Grove avenue, owned by A. J. Lavery. Picketing began at 8 a. m. Two hours later terrorists fired a revolver shot thru the window of the agency's salesroom at 6529 Cottage Grove avenue. Don Burrows, business agent of the union, denied that his group was responsible for the attack.

Sergt. George Barnes, head of the racket squad, learned yesterday that Automobile Auction, Inc., 2435 Calumet avenue, operated by Lavery's brother, had a mysterious fire on Jan. 7 in which five used cars were destroyed. Early on Jan. 22 pop bottles were hurled thru four windows in the used car auction rooms.

Sergt. Barnes said there has been no labor trouble at Automobile Auction, Inc. The company does not employ mechanics, as does the Lavery Motor Sales agency.

Enjoy the SCOTCH WITH A STORY

Laughter was once a life-saver for Captain White. Traveling among the tribes of Abyssinia, his safety depended on winning their good will. These warriors usually greet strangers with spears rather than cheers. They are among the fiercest-looking people in the world because they consider laughing a sign of weakness. Captain White had with him an old Victrola and a record which was nothing more than a continuous stream of laughter. One day a group of these tribesmen visited Captain White's tent. It looked like trouble. Suddenly the sounds of this record were heard. The Abyssinians tried to discover a little man whom they supposed was inside the Victrola. On their puzzled faces, smiles began to appear and before long they were rolling on the ground with mirth. That day Captain White proved good fellowship swiftly follows good cheer! White Horse has proved this over and over again. When folks gather to enjoy a round of White Horse and soda, good cheer is always near. For the quality and flavor of this famous Scotch keep winning friends forever. Your favorite bar or package store can introduce you to the pleasure and enjoyment of White Horse. So try it today and match White Horse if you can!

Capt. Harold A. White's next adventure story is entitled, "An elephant that did not forgive or forget." Watch for it.

WHAT TO DO STILL BAFFLES VICTIMS OF VENEREAL ILLS

Hygiene Experts Tell Fault of Control Program.

The national syphilis control campaign has enabled competent physicians to make great gains in uncovering and treating the disease, but to achieve complete success the campaign must now turn its attack on medical quacks.

This was the consensus of a number of speakers yesterday at the American Social Hygiene association's regional conference on social hygiene, in the Palmer House. The conference closes today.

The speakers produced evidence to show that, while the antisyphilis drive in the last four years has made the public conscious of syphilis, it has failed to educate the public on what to do about the disease. In fact, it was asserted, more people are resorting to quack treatment and remedies than six years ago.

Gen. Pershing Honored.

A highlight of the conference last night was the award of the William Freeman Snow medal for distinguished service to mankind to Gen. John J. Pershing in recognition of his former chairmanship of the national antisyphilis committee. The medal, named for Dr. Snow, founder of the association, was presented at the association's annual dinner by Maj. Gen. Merritte W. Ireland.

In an acceptance address by telephone from his home in Tucson, Ariz., Gen. Pershing said that youths should carry on the campaign in the interests of keeping themselves physically fit.

The nation's public clinics last year discharged 100,000 patients whose syphilis was cured or safely arrested, said Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the United States public health service, in one of two after-dinner speeches. At the same time, he said, an equal or greater number of patients were discharged with clean bills of health by private physicians.

60 Per Cent More Seek Treatment.

"Last year 60 per cent more persons than in 1938 sought treatment for syphilis," the surgeon general said. "The number of treatments in clinics increased from 5 million to 8 million."

Dr. Parran, in discussing the peril of quackery to the control of syphilis, said:

"Every popular movement attracts parasites. In this case the manufacturers of quack remedies and the charlatan healers have been quick to profit by the public concern about the disease. Self-treatment by the uninformed boy or girl with remedies bought over the drug store counter is unfortunately prevalent. The ethical druggist does all he can to prevent this dangerous practice. Others, less conscientious, do a thriving business because of it. Quite as unscrupulous are the hangers on to the fringes of the medical profession who subject patients to useless or dangerous treatments until their last cent is gone."

New A. M. A. Leader Speaks.

Dr. Nathan B. Van Etten, president-elect of the American Medical association, warned that the "crusade against syphilis will be obstructed by quacks inside and outside of the medical profession," as well as by civic indifference and by organized vice.

He said it was the obligation of medical schools to give every graduate sufficient technical education to treat venereal disease, referring to the shortage of doctors both willing and competent to treat syphilis.

The problem of quackery occupied speakers at a luncheon session yesterday. Maj. Bascom Johnson, associate director of the hygiene body, said an estimated 700,000 persons who believe they have syphilis and 4,200,000 who suspect gonorrhea go to drug stores each year for counter prescriptions and self-treatment. At the drug store, he said, they may be offered any one of 30 advertised remedies for venereal disease—remedies worthless or dangerous when not administered by a competent physician.

Drug Store Trade Increases.

Comparison of a 1939 survey of what kind of treatment men seek for venereal disease with one made in 1933 showed the percentage of those who thought a drug store remedy or self-treatment was the best recourse had increased from 57 to 65, Maj. Johnson said.

While advertising by medical charlatans has been reduced by reputable newspapers and magazines, the quacks with pretentious offices full of electrical devices and dignified staffs still flourish, he said.

A survey by the hygiene association showed a plentiful listing of so-called men's specialists, herbalists, and other medical quacks in the classified section of telephone directories in many cities, as well as occasional placards and stickers in public places which, with handbills, form a standard advertising method for the quack.

"How much can you pay?"—not a diagnosis of the patient's ailment—was quoted as the first question asked of a social hygiene investigator who visited the offices of quacks.

Director Discusses Problem.

Dr. Walter Clarke, executive director of the association, asserted:

"The situation seems worse than in 1933 so far as improper treatment is concerned. Perhaps there will always be some gullible people who are buying magic cures."

"The popular educational material issued by health departments to date very often fails to explain precisely how to go about finding a doctor or a clinic," he continued. "Many health departments have no established mechanism to aid people in finding a physician.

"Why be surprised, then, if a public, conscious of the problem of syphilis, but ignorant of the proper methods of diagnosis and treatment and how to find a physician, turns to the most conspicuous but least reliable source of attention—the advertising quack and the advertising self-treatment remedies."

The number of patients being treated thru quackery comprises the venereal disease group which must be brought under control to prevent the continued spread of syphilis, said Dr. R. A. Vonderlehr, assistant surgeon general of the United States public health service.

EARTHQUAKES SHAKE MT. OLYMPUS REGION WITH LOSS OF LIFE

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP).—A Reuters [British news agency] dispatch from Saloniki, Greece, today reported "some loss of life" in an earthquake which shook the Mount Olympus region. Several houses collapsed. An Exchange Telegraph agency report earlier had said there were earth shocks today at Katerina, Greece, and Siena and Florence, Italy. No casualties were reported.

Map locates Mount Olympus earthquake region.

Mount Olympus, which the ancient Greeks called the home of the gods, is 50 miles southwest of Saloniki. There are no large cities in the region, but villages dot the area.

Three Cities Report Shocks.

ROME, Feb. 1 (AP).—Dispatches from Faenza, Florence and Siena today reported earth shocks yesterday. Siena reported two tremors which caused light damages but no casualties.

POSTAGE IS STILL DUE ON BUREAU'S GREETING CARDS

One month ago Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen announced that the Illinois State Employment service would have to pay regular rates on New Year's greeting cards mailed in postage free government envelopes. The postmaster said he would present a bill for the postage as soon as he learned how many cards were sent out.

Inquiry disclosed yesterday that [1] the employment service has not yet given the postoffice any information on the number of cards mailed in franked envelopes; [2] the bill has not been drawn up; and [3] the postmaster has not collected the postage.

"We're appealing to the post office department in Washington," explained officials of the ISES. "We contend that the cards were official business because they promote good will."

"We are awaiting further instructions from the third assistant postmaster general," said Kruetgen.

NEW SERUM AIDS MRS. VALENTINE IN QUICK RECOVERY

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, 209 Lake Shore drive, who was stricken with lobar pneumonia a week ago, was reported last night to be recovering satisfactorily. She is in the Passavant hospital.

Mrs. Valentine became ill last Friday night. The next day she was treated with a new improved type of antipneumonia serum obtained from rabbits. This brought about an early crisis, and less than 48 hours after she had been stricken she was pronounced out of danger.

ONCE MORE MIKE TAKES OATH, AND NOW IT'S OFFICIAL

Since he was brought to Chicago from Ireland in 1856, Michael [Honest Mike the Newsboy] Monahan, 7149 South Fairfield avenue, has sworn allegiance to the United States "at least 50 times." He is a former member of the Illinois National Guard. Consequently it was with considerable surprise that Monahan, now 84 years old, found when he applied for an old age pension recently that he was not a citizen. This was remedied yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes, who also granted first or second citizenship papers to 94 other persons, more than 70 of whom were in circumstances similar to Monahan's.

SOAPSUDS BATH WILL KEEP YOUR KETTLE SHINING

Daily Care Needed to Have Gay Pots and Pans.

When you first unpack a set of beautiful new pots and pans and hank them up all bright and shiny you feel in your pride that their beauty can never be dulled. Time and use will try to prove you wrong.

It takes daily care to keep most cooking utensils looking spic and span. A bath in hot soapsuds immediately after use will keep the kettle shining. Stains require special treatment. Many a stain, however, would be easier to remove and might even be prevented if food had not been allowed to remain in the kettle after cooking.

Mild Soap Should Be Used.

Use mild soap when cleaning aluminum kitchenware. Strong, alkaline soaps tend to increase rather than lessen the dark stains on aluminum. You needn't be afraid to scour your aluminum if you use a mild abrasive. Scouring removes the stain and also removes all vestiges of salt and food particles that will pit even the best of aluminum if allowed to remain.

Even stubborn dark stains can be removed from aluminum by the simple procedure of cooking some acid food [such as rhubarb, tomatoes, or pickling sirups] in the vessel.

Enamelware, glass, porcelain, and earthenware are easily cleaned. As a rule hot soapsuds are the only cleanser needed. A mild abrasive may be used when food has stuck to the pan. Be careful in using woven wire cloths on enamel, and always use a wooden spoon, not a metal one, when stirring foods in an enamel pan. Metal spoons mar the finish.

Iron Pots Need Scouring.

Only soap and water is needed to keep stainless steel looking bright. Iron pots and skillets require a little more care. A new iron pot or pan should be scoured and washed in soapy water, rinsed and dried, and then covered with tallow or cooking oil and allowed to stand in a warm oven for several hours.

Iron vessels should be dried thoroly before they are put away. Soaking and scouring does not injure them, and they improve with use. Rubbing the surface with tallow or oil helps prevent rusting when an iron utensil is to be stored for some time.

Apples May Be Made Into Grand Meat Garnishes

Apples may be made into delicious and attractive meat garnishes, such as glazed apple rings with pork or ham, mint flavored apple jelly with lamb, or apple stuffing with duck or goose.

Carving of Lamb

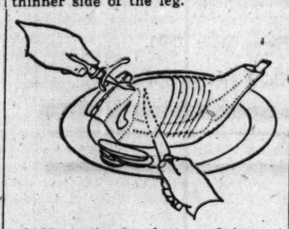
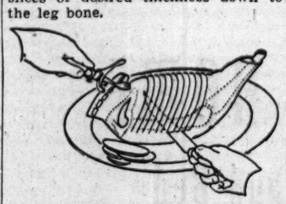
1. Leg of lamb is carved similarly to ham. The first step is to remove a few slices lengthwise from the thinner side of the leg.



2. Next, the leg is turned to rest on this cut surface and the thicker, meatier side, now up, is sliced. Cut slices of desired thickness down to the leg bone.



3. In the final step all slices are loosened by sliding the knife along the bone.

THERE'S A RIGHT WAY TO CARVE A LEG OF LAMB

It's Not Much Different Than Slicing Ham.

Steps in carving a leg of lamb are not much different than in carving a ham. Perhaps the most difficult step in the whole procedure is getting the roast onto the platter in the most convenient position for the carver.

The narrow shank end of the lamb leg must always point to the carver's right and the thicker, cushion side of the meat must be away from the carver. It is from this cushion section that the most desirable slices of meat are obtained.

Sometimes the roast will rest on the inside, sometimes on the outside, of the leg depending on whether it is a right or left leg. But the cushion section must always be away from the carver.

The carver's first step is to insert the fork firmly in the large end of the leg and cut two or three lengthwise slices from the thin side which is nearest him.

He then turns the leg of lamb so that it rests on the cut surface from which he has just carved. The thick cushion is now on the top and he is ready to begin carving in earnest.

With the fork inserted in the left end of the roast, the carver makes his first slice from the top down to the leg bone, beginning on the narrow shank end. He continues slicing, each slice parallel to the first, until he reaches the aitch bone in the thick end of the leg.

The carver's last step is to run the knife along the leg bone, freeing all the slices at one time.

PEANUT BUTTER CRUST DRESSES UP ECONOMY CUTS OF SMOKED PORK

The low price of smoked pork cuts this season would bring a gleam to the eye of any budget wise homemaker. Besides the festive hams there are smoked picnics, smoked butt, and cottage rolls.

All of these cuts can be prepared by baking. Place the meat fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan and bake in a slow [300 degrees] oven until done. Baste occasionally with drippings in the pan. Smoked butt and cottage roll may be cooked in water at simmering temperature if preferred.

Smoked picnic is pork shoulder and cottage roll is made from boned Boston butt from the shoulder. Ham butt is the butt end of ham which is left when the center slices are removed for broiling or baking.

Any of these economy ham cuts will put on company airs when wrapped in a crispy peanut butter crust. This is how the crust is made:

PEANUT BUTTER CRUST.
[For baked smoked pork cuts.]

½ cup brown sugar
½ cup peanut butter
½ teaspoon dry mustard

Combine ingredients and mix to smooth paste. Spread over fat side of smoked pork cut before baking. Bake in slow oven until meat is done. Allow 25 minutes per pound.

OFFER FEBRUARY HOSTESS CHOICE OF CHERRY PIES

For the hostess who wants to serve cherry pie at her February patriotic party, two recipes are suggested this week. The first, glazed cherry pie, is quite easy to make and not expensive. The second, cherry pineapple chiffon pie, is more complicated, but not difficult if directions are followed. The second also will provide more eye appeal to guests.

Glazed Cherry Pie.

2½ cups canned red cherries, drained
½ cup sugar
1 package cherry-flavored gelatin
2¼ cups hot cherry juice and water
¼ teaspoon salt
1 backed 9 inch pie shell

Combine cherries and sugar. Dissolve gelatin in hot cherry juice and water. Add salt and pour over cherries. Chill. When slightly thickened, turn into pie shell. Chill until firm. Serve with whipped cream.

CHERRY PINEAPPLE CHIFFON PIE.

1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
2 tablespoons cherry juice
½ cup boiling pineapple juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup seeded red cherries
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
1 baked pie shell

Soften gelatin in the cherry juice and dissolve in boiling pineapple juice. Add lemon juice, rind, and sugar. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in cherries and stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into baked pie shell and chill until firm. Serve with whipped cream garnished with maraschino cherries.

PEANUT BRITTLE TASTY ADDITION TO PIE FILLING

There seems to be no end to the mouth watering combinations that go into a pie crust these days. Newest of the "chiffon" pie fillings is this crunchy peanut brittle one with a delicious butterscotch flavor.

BUTTERSCOTCH CRUNCH PIE.
[Filling for 9 inch pie.]

1 envelope plain, unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 eggs, separated
1 cup milk, scalded
2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons white sugar
1 cup crushed peanut brittle, loosely packed
½ cup heavy cream, whipped

Soften gelatin in cold water. Beat egg yolks, adding brown sugar gradually. When well blended, add scalded milk gradually, stirring constantly. Add salt and butter. Cook until of custard consistency, stirring constantly. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Ad vanilla. Cool. Fold granulated sugar into the stiffly beaten egg whites and fold into cooked mixture when it begins to thicken. Fold in whipped cream and crushed peanut brittle. Pour into baked pie shell and chill. Serve with whipped cream garnished with additional crushed peanut brittle.

HER Beautiful Hands WON FIRST PRIZE
In Contest of American Cosmeticians National Association

Loretta Rammel's beautiful hands are not flabby or pampered looking, but strong, smooth and suntanned!

She doesn't worry about washing dishes or clothes..."Because," she says, "I can always depend on the new American Family Speed Flakes to help keep my hands soft and smooth. They suds up so quickly and get my dishes sparkling clean in a hurry."

Get Dishes Sparkling In A Jiffy With Sensational New Speed Flakes!

DISHWASHING'S no trick at all now! Really easy and wonderfully fast—with safe new American Family Speed Flakes! For these new improved flakes seem to leap into billowing suds the instant water hits them. Thicker, richer suds that cut grease and float dirt away amazingly fast! Save time and drudgery in getting dishes sparkling clean. Yet, for all their amazing speed, they are Really Safe For Loveliest Hands.

No "mysterious" new chemicals have been added to these new improved American Family Flakes. Not loaded with a lot of harsh alkalis that can make hands rough and red. They owe their amazing speed to a scientific new process that produces a new kind of flake! Tissue-thin flakes! Safe as ever—yet instantaneous in their sudsing speed.

Our own laboratory tests against 10 of the largest selling package washday soaps—prove that new improved American Family Speed Flakes burst into suds faster than any of the other brands tested—more than twice as fast as the average for the other 10 soaps tested. What's more, they give Thicker, Richer Suds.

Up to 33% more suds, ounce for ounce, than many modern granulated soaps. And up to 70% more suds than cheap chips. Suds that stand up amazingly long. You use less soap!

That's why new American Family Speed Flakes get stacks of dirty dishes sparkling clean so quickly. Leave even greasy china gleaming, glistening. And with just a few whisks of the towel leave glassware brilliant and sparkling with highlights!

Also, these new flakes work such washday wonders in getting clothes dazzling white with thrilling ease and safety—they are the largest selling package soap in Chicago today!

Why let your hands tell the world you wash dishes three times a day? Use these safe, new improved American Family Speed Flakes. Like thousands of other women you'll thrill at the way they help keep your hands soft and smooth—and save you dishwashing drudgery, too.

Prices on all fresh produce from the southern states are still high, but there are many bargains available.

Meats—often the most expensive item on the menu—are all reduced in cost. Pork is extremely cheap. And cold weather appetites are pork eating appetites. Canned goods, too, are inexpensive. Fresh produce from California is reasonable in price, and there are ready to cook quick frozen fruits and vegetables to take the place of damaged southern produce.

Cauliflower is on the bargain counter, along with potatoes, carrots, and lettuce. Cabbage prices are still high, but slightly lower than last week. It still is among the cheapest salad making ingredients now available.

Spinach, parsley and bunch beet prices have slipped a little from last week's high level, but all of them are still high.

If you've a hankering for fresh green beans, indulge yourself now. By next week there may be no more. It takes about six weeks before a new planting is ready for market. Both beans and broccoli carry high price tags and come in a wide range of quality. Brussels sprouts, greens of all kinds, celery [even that coming from California], peas, green peppers, and radishes are all high. Tomatoes and cucumbers are in the luxury class, and even dry onions are a bit higher.

Oranges, which failed to spurt up in price along with grapefruit last week, are higher this week. There is a little advance on Florida oranges, while those from California have advanced more rapidly. Only a small portion of the total orange supply comes from Texas at this time of year. Grapefruit is still costly. Most of the fruit has been coming from Texas, with smaller shipments from Florida. Texas is still shipping, altho marketing experts feel that the quality may be under par. Frozen and frost-bitten citrus fruit lacks juiciness. All fruits are a little higher than a few weeks ago. Avocados are reasonable for the season, but are higher than a few weeks ago. The season is about over for cranberries and grapes.

Fresh loin roasts aren't the only reasonable pork cuts. Smoked ham and smoked picnics, fresh pork sausage, and slab bacon are also temptingly priced. Leg of lamb, lamb shoulder, and loin chops are good buys. Among beef cuts, rib roasts are featured. Indications are that veal will be cheaper soon. Capons for roasting are being featured by one chain.

Canned goods sales are still on, and don't overlook the good buys in baking supplies that include everything from sugar to baking powder.

Or better yet, mama bake him in the oven. The part of the rhyme about little Johnny eating him like a man is sure to hold true. But papa won't have to catch the fish. Modern fish markets carry a variety and many meat markets handle the commonly consumed kinds of fish.

The main consideration in buying fish is freshness. The fish should be elastic but firm and free from slime. Scales adhere, eyes are bright and bulging, and gills are red on a fresh fish. The odor should be a fresh, fishy one.

Whole fish may be frozen solid and fillets are frequently quick frozen. The frozen fish should be thawed before beginning cooking. The fish should be permitted to thaw slowly if possible.

Fat and medium fat fish are best for baking, altho lean fish can be baked, if first wrapped in fat salt pork or bacon or if larded. Buy one-half pound of fish for each person.

A three to five pound fish may be baked whole. A whole fish is usually stuffed. Fillets and steaks should be from one-half to three-fourths of an inch thick for baking. Fish may be purchased already cleaned at the market.

BAKED STUFFED FISH.

Remove scales, scraping from tail to head, with a short heavy knife. Head and tail may be removed or left on, according to individual preference. Split fish under gills, cutting half way down the body cavity, and remove entrails. Wash in running water and wipe dry. Rub inside with salt and fill cavity with bread stuffing. Sew or skewer edges together and place seam side down on a greased rack in a shallow pan. Rub outside with salt and melted butter. If fish is lean, cover with strips of fat salt pork or bacon. Bake in a moderately hot [375 degrees] oven for half to three-quarters of an hour, basting occasionally with melted butter.

BREAD STUFFING FOR FISH.
[For 5 pound fish.]

2½ cups soft bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon thyme or marjoram
1 tablespoon minced onion
⅓ cup finely chopped celery
⅓ cup butter

BAKED FISH STEAKS OR FILLETS.

Cut fillets in serving pieces; leave steaks whole. Dip in salted milk or beaten egg and roll in fine bread crumbs or white cornmeal. Place in greased shallow pan. Pour melted butter over fish and bake in a moderately hot [375 degrees] oven for half an hour. Baste occasionally with melted butter.

THESE RICE AND BACON MUFFINS, WILL WHET ANY DULL APPETITES

Here's a real breakfast brightener. Rice and bacon muffins served with tart jelly will bring the late risers down in a hurry and they'll not take too much of the cook's valuable early morning time.

RICE AND BACON MUFFINS.
[Serves 6 to 8.]

1½ cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked rice
1 cup milk
1 egg
12 slices bacon

Sift flour, measure, and resift with baking powder and salt. Add rice and milk to beaten egg. Add dry ingredients, stirring only until well blended. Line bottom and sides of 12 oiled muffin pans with bacon. Fill three-fourths full with batter and bake in a hot [425 degrees] oven for 30 to 40 minutes, or until done. Serve with tart jelly.

SIMPLE PROOF
Ordinary "Sluggish" Cleansers Don't Dissolve Grease Like BAB-O!

1. Scour part of bathtub with ordinary "lazy" cleanser. Notice how hard you work, yet how slowly dirt disappears.
2. Now try Bab-O. See how it dissolves grease, so dirt gently wipes off, leaving bathtub sparkling white with less work.
It's Grease That Makes Dirt Stick To Pots, Pans, Stoves, Sinks, Bathtubs. Your Own Eyes Can Verify (Above) How Grease-Dissolving Bab-O Acts Faster—Saves Time, Work!
● You may think it's dirt that causes so much needless cleaning, so much hard work. But this is no longer so. Today's big cleaning problem is the grease that makes dirt stick—not only to pots and pans but stoves, sinks, bathtubs, refrigerators—thus causing 90% of the scouring and scrubbing you do.
With ordinary, "sluggish" cleansers you have to scour and scrub needlessly to get rid of this greasy binder. But Bab-O, perfected especially to meet this problem, works on an entirely different principle. Bab-O contains an active special ingredient that quickly dissolves grease so dirt easily wipes off. And because Bab-O works so much faster and more effectively, a little does more cleaning. So you can use less of it—you save not only time and work but money too. Get Bab-O today.
NOTE: Bab-O is white—stays white even when wet—because it contains only pure cleaning ingredients.

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage, Cynthia Brentiford is sentenced to prison. An innocent scapegoat of the crook, Rory Clarke, she hides her plight from her fiancé, Michael Alloway. At Honebyker, Cynthia's childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, is a prison wardress. Bessie manages to change places with Cynthia and let Cynthia have her two weeks' leave of absence to marry Michael. Then Cynthia persuades Michael to go back to his job in Malta alone. She goes back to prison. There she discovers she is going to have a baby and manages to break prison. Explaining her silence as a lapse of memory, she goes to stay with Michael's mother and sister Marion at Cloutleigh. Rory Clarke trails her there and blackmails her. Thru a phone call, Scotland Yard connects Cynthia with Rory Clarke. Detective Stevens comes down to Cloutleigh. Marion, pretending to be young Mrs. Alloway to the detective, learns enough to arouse her suspicions. Planning to fly to Malta with Gen. Sir William Merrowbridge, Cynthia is arrested at the airport and taken to Scotland Yard for questioning. Her marriage on a date when she was supposed to be in prison clears her. Cynthia learns Bessie has lost her job thru Clarke's blackmailing and gives her a note of recommendation to Marion. Cynthia arrives safely at Malta, but Detective Stevens is still investigating at Cloutleigh. Bessie asks Marion for a job.

INSTALMENT XXIII.

A PRISON RECOMMENDATION.

"The only thing that occurs to me," said Marion, "is that my mother might be able to use you as a personal attendant, and, in some degree, as a companion. She suffers badly from rheumatism and recently said that she would consider some one to help her dress, run her errands, and so on. But I imagine she had only a very small salary in mind."

"I would not object to that, madam, as I'm sure I should be getting a good home," returned Bessie. "When would you wish me to start?"

Again Marion reflected. The front door bell pealed and Jessie was heard on her way to answer it.

"If Mrs. Alloway agrees—and of course, it all depends on her—you could come next Monday. I will send you word tomorrow as to what she decides, if you will leave your address. You are staying in the village, you said?"

Murmuring her thanks, Bessie took the pencil and pad offered her and wrote down the name of the cottage in which she had taken a room. She had barely completed it when she heard the door open and Jessie entered.

"I'm sorry, ma'am, it's the detective again!"

Bessie looked up, the pencil slack between her fingers. She saw Miss Alloway's frown deepen and her color recede a little. Behind a stalwart young man with keen eyes, Jessie was hastily retreating to her own quarters.

"I'm afraid I'm to blame," said Stevens pleasantly. "I misunderstood the girl and followed her in. I can wait outside until it's convenient for you to see me."

"I shall be at liberty in a moment," Marion told him stiffly. She turned to Bessie and the girl sensed in her an apprehension equal to that which she herself was feeling. "I don't think we have anything more to discuss before you move it. That is your address? . . . Thank you. You're with Mrs. Bodge, I see—she's a good soul. . . . I, yes, there is one thing. You mentioned that Sir John helped you choose an occupation, but you didn't say what it was. My mother will certainly like to know."

Bessie opened her mouth to reply—and shut it again. To say that she had been a Honebyker wardess, in front of a detective who might well be on Miss Cynthia's track, would obviously be dangerous. But a lying answer and false references—wouldn't they be more dangerous still?

Miss Alloway was waiting for an answer. Bessie thought quickly.

"Perhaps I'd better write it down for you, madam," she said. "The spelling is unusual—" and before Marion could object, she took from her hand the pad on which she had given her address in Cloutleigh village and wrote underneath it—"Private. Wardress at Honebyker and Aylesbury prisons until Clara Brown escaped. Then resigned."

She tore off the sheet, folded it and handed it to Marion, who immediately read it. Bessie held her breath. A lot depended on Miss Alloway's reaction. . . . The young lady was refolding the paper and putting it in her bag.

"That will be quite satisfactory," she said evenly. "We need not take up that reference since we have Mrs. Michael's, but you are right to give it. . . . Monday, then, unless you hear to the contrary."

Bessie murmured her thanks and retired, nearly as precipitately as Jessie had done. She would dearly have liked to eavesdrop on the conversation about to take place but she saw no chance of doing so. She therefore let herself quietly out of the house and returned to the village.

Detective-Inspector Stevens was quite as interested in the nature of Bessie's business at the Manor as she was in his. His final instructions had been to keep an eye on new arrivals and see what he could get out of the servants; and here actually was a new servant being engaged—one moreover who had made an odd mystery of herself in front of him. For he had not missed the girl's hesitation on being asked a very ordinary question, nor the sudden tense attention on Miss Alloway's part as she read the answer. He would have given something for a glimpse of that folded paper now safely in her bag. However—

"When I called last, Miss Alloway," he began, "you were kind enough to help me clear up a little matter of a telephone call. I duly reported our interview but I made one careless slip—I put you down as Mrs. Michael Alloway, your sister-in-law. In fact, I thought you were she, thruout our chat."

"Probably my fault," returned Marion easily. "My sister-in-law came down here for complete quiet and rest, and naturally I saw all business callers for her."

"Er—yes." Stevens cleared his throat. She was a cool one, he thought. He would jerk her out of her self-possession, at any rate. "You've heard, no doubt, about Mrs. Michael Alloway being detained as she was leaving the country?"

Marion stood motionless, looking at him. The room swam round her and very nearly, tho Stevens would never know it, all the information he and his superiors most needed could have been his for a few sharp questions. But Marion was an Alloway and the Alloways stood together until they dropped. Besides—as her brain cleared she remembered Bessie. Surely Bessie would have told her if Cynthia were under arrest!

"Is this a joke?" she asked stiffly.

"O, no." Stevens was forced to elucidate. "Mrs. Michael Alloway was detained, but on a false charge. The whole thing was proved a mistake and she was released."

A long shuddering sigh was torn from Marion She walked to the mantel shelf, moved the clock an inch to the right and sat down by the hearth.

"No doubt I shall get the full story from Sir William Merrowbridge who was traveling with her," she said with dignity. "All I can say now is that it seems a monstrous thing to have happened and I hope she suffered no ill effects. And now perhaps you will state your business."

"You made it quite clear, Miss Alloway, that you did not make a trunk call to London from the village on the afternoon of the 2d. But there is the possibility that Mrs. Michael Alloway may have done so. Did you know that she was also in the village that afternoon—at about the same time?"

Marion knew it, of course, but instinct now warned her to admit nothing that need not be admitted.

"I don't remember," she answered. "Mrs. Alloway may have mentioned it, but if she did I've forgotten."

"I understand that she came into the village in order to see a Mr. Stainham who had actually left by the afternoon train. By the way, who is Mr. Stainham?"

"I don't know. We met him by chance on the moor and my sister-in-law introduced him."

"O! Did Mrs. Michael seem to know Stainham well?"

The Alloways stick together. Marion, more than half relieved of her own dim suspicions of Cynthia, still felt a reluctance to continue a discussion about her. So—

"I really don't remember," she said. "The meeting was of no interest to me."

HEART WARMING RED IS FEBRUARY MOTIF FOR MENUS

Get Set for Merry Round of Colorful Parties.

If party month February had a color it would be red—red for hearts, cherries, and the red, white, and blue of the flag. So menus, particularly party ones, will wear the heart-warming patriotic hue this month.

And it's no trick to get red into the menu when there are so many naturally red foods and so many other foods that take well to a little red food coloring. Or, if you do get stumped, you can always consult Mary Meade's handy little holiday menu and recipe book. It's full of menu suggestions and recipes for gay Valentine and patriotic parties. Ask for "Holidays and Holiday Meals". [20 cents; 23 cents, by mail]. For additionally heart-y suggestions, see "Heart Shaped Parties for Valentine's Day" [2 cents; by mail, 3 cents].

Puddings All Dressed Up

Individual holiday puddings look pretty gay for themselves all dressed up with a piping of sherry hard sauce. To make the puddings, cream ¾ cup shortening with 1 cup sugar until light. Combine ⅓ cup sour milk and 2 beaten eggs and sift together 2¼ cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¾ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, and ½ teaspoon allspice; then add two mixtures alternately to the creamed sugar and shortening. Fold in 1 cup chopped prunes and ½ cup candied orange peel which have been soaked overnight in ½ cup sherry. Bake in a moderate oven for about half an hour and store in a tin box in a sherry-saturated cloth. Substitute sherry for other liquids in your favorite hard sauce recipe to make the garnish.

PINEAPPLE CRISP A WELCOME DISH FOR EVERY DAY

Here's an every day dessert that's so good it would be welcomed every day. For variety it can be made with canned fruits other than pineapple.

PINEAPPLE CRISP.

[Serves 6]

4 tablespoons butter
⅔ cup light brown sugar
6 slices bread
1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple, or other fruit

Cream butter with ½ cup sugar and spread on bread. Cut bread in wedge shapes, cutting trimmings into ½ inch cubes. Cover bottom of 9-inch pie plate with cubes; pour in pineapple and sprinkle with remaining sugar. Cover with wedges of bread, points meeting in center. Bake in a moderately hot [375 degrees] oven for 40 minutes. Serve hot with cream or whipped cream.

WAIT TILL YOU TRY MUSHROOMS ADDED TO AN OYSTER STEW

You may think you like your oyster stew as is, but it's something about which you shouldn't make up your mind until you've tried oyster stew with mushrooms. The mushrooms get into the stew via a soup can.

OYSTER STEW WITH MUSHROOMS.

3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 pint oysters
1 16 ounce can cream of mushroom soup
2 cups milk
Few drops Worcestershire sauce

Melt butter in sauce pan and add salt and oysters which have been examined for bits of shell. Simmer until edges of oysters curl, about 5 minutes. Combine milk and soup and add. Heat to scalding point. Add Worcestershire sauce and serve.

HUMANE SOCIETY FURNISHES AID TO 198,000 ANIMALS

Cats marooned on telephone poles, two stranded owls, horses, and a varied assortment of dogs, birds, and fish, to a total of 198,000 animals, were extricated by the Illinois Humane society last year from difficulties into which personal temperament or circumstances had involved them.

This figure was presented to directors of the society at the 71st annual meeting yesterday, held in the home at 1145 South Wabash avenue, by George A. H. Scott, secretary.

Not since the days of the coach and four had horses figured so prominently in the society's service. A revival of horseback riding accounted for this, Scott said. Investigators made 409 calls at 100 riding academies to assure the well being of 16,247 horses.

Glencoe Opens Its Badminton Tourney Feb. 8

BY JUDITH CASS.

BADMINTON enthusiasts from all around Chicagoland will be found at the Central school in Glencoe on the nights of Feb. 8 and 9, when the championships of the North Shore Badminton association are played. Many of the ranking badminton players in the central states area belong to one of the clubs that will be competing for the sixth time for the Glencoe trophy.

The Skokie Badminton club currently is the possessor of the trophy. Miss Betty Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Anderson, Mrs. George Fargo, Jack Taylor, and Bud Fraser are on the Skokie team.

Mr. Fargo, Mrs. Melvin Cassidy, Scott Green, Bud Main, Edward Hardy, and Philip Barber are assisting William S. Lord, chairman, with arrangements for the tournament. The games will be played in the school's new gymnasium. Mrs. S. Pirie Carson is in charge of entertainment for the players, assisted by several Glencoe neighbors. W. Hamilton Walter, president of the American Badminton association, will be the referee.

District Tournament Will Be Benefit.

The Oak Park and River Forest auxiliary of the Chicago Commons Settlement house again will sponsor the Chicago district badminton championships as a benefit. The championships will be played on Feb. 22, 23, and 24 at the Concordia Teachers' college in River Forest.

Miss Dorothy Pillinger is general chairman of the benefit. Among those assisting her are Mrs. Lucius Cole, president of the auxiliary; Miss Miriam Bullock, Mrs. V. Ross Stiger, Mrs. John Doering, and Mrs. Frederick J. Spring.

Opera Committee to Meet Today.

Many of the members of the women's committee of the Opera Foundation Fund are away, but the campaign is being continued. For every one who leaves, an early season vacationer returns, so quite a number are working all the time to help raise the $200,000 fund. Mrs. Walter J. Cummings of 1500 Lake Shore drive is opening her home this afternoon at 4 o'clock for a meeting of the committee.

Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, a vice chairman, will preside. Mrs. John A. Carpenter, chairman, is in the west, and Mrs. James G. McMillan, the co-chairman, leaves the middle of this month with Mr. McMillan for a vacation in Phoenix, Ariz. Mrs. Jacob Baur, a vice chairman, leaves today with Mrs. Townsend McKeever for a visit with Mrs. Mather-Smith at Orlando, Fla. Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, the third vice chairman, has returned from a vacation in Arizona.

After two weeks in Orlando Mrs. McKeever will go to Palm Beach and Mrs. Baur will start north, stopping in Washington.

Mrs. Kirk does not plan to go south until the last of this month. She and her husband will have with them for the next two or three weeks their attractive young niece, Miss Gladys Kirk, who arrived yesterday from New York.

Interesting Teas to Follow Concert

Concertgoers have a number of tea parties from which to choose following the Chicago Symphony Orchestra's program this afternoon. A tea the Arts club will open three exhibitions: the works of Camille Bombois, Abraham Rattner, and Yves Tanguy. Mr. Tanguy, whose home is in Paris but who is in New York this winter, was to have been here for the party, but was unable to come west.

If members of the College club are willing to leave the concert a bit early they will be in time to see Miss Chong, a resident member of International house at the University of Chicago, dance the Hawaiian Hula

New Sailors of Smooth Straw Have Arrived

BY REA SEEGER.

In come the spring sailors and bretons, the first spring charmers in straw, felt, and fabric. The sailors have that perennial crisp outline, that inimitable swank that no other hat can manage. They perch atop the headlines in a dashing slant, straight of brim, shallow but fitted in small crown and trimmed with airy whiffs of colored veiling, with sharp accents of feather wings or go feminine with gay flowers and bow knots.

Snowy white affairs are vastly becoming with navy blue veil and ribbon trim, or spiked with vivid red or emerald green, or the all white as dramatics to top any dark costume.

You can find tiny sailors not much over the width of a pie pan, or the rakish hats with big brims in stunning, expensive looking Milans and similar weaves. Very rough straws are not shown. Everything is smooth and ladylike, with lots of navy blues the color favorite.

Red straw as cheerful as cherries is used for small hats, the kind you need for suits and slim waisted early spring coats of navy blue. Some of the scarlet finds are trimmed with navy blue braid, some with patent leather, and many more with perky bows of grosgrain ribbon.

The 1940 bretons are a knockout. Very dramatic models feature exceedingly wide brims and a folded high crown like a fedora. Many of these large models are worn over skull caps of contrasting colored jersey or silk crêpe, the cap ending at the side in long bands that go over the shoulder.

The salad bowl bretons come in stunning shiny blacks, as well as the dull tone navy blues, bright colors, and the eye catching sugar whites. Bretons seldom are excessively trimmed, usually it's a neat bow and band, the upturned swoop of the brim assuring the right face and hairline flattery.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

If there's a drop of athletic blood in your veins, you couldn't possibly stifle the urge to go out to skate, ski or enjoy other winter sports in the face of the generous amount of winter left at our doorstep.

When you do go there's a point to remember, and that is that the reflection of the sun on the snow can burn just as much as the sun on the beach. So before you start out consider a little preliminary preparation that will help to keep your skin soft and smooth.

To protect and pamper every inch of the skin exposed to the wind and sun there's a twosome package containing two preparations for the before-and-after care of the skin. The "before" or protective one is a creamy lotion, delicately scented and thin enough to spread easily over the surface.

This is said to contain ingredients that filter out the burning rays reflected from the snow and ice, and thus ward off any painful burn. It isn't sticky, which makes it suitable for a powder base. Apply it generously and, if your skin is unusually sensitive, repeat the application if you are going to be out of doors for any length of time.

You complete the "after" or pampering step by using the second preparation, which is a tube of a smooth, light weight cream. It serves as a lubricant and tends to wipe away that tight, drawn feeling that the skin has after bucking the wind and cold for a couple of hours or more.

It's a soothing remedy for the skin that is chapped and rough, and can be used as a night cream, too.

FLORENCE MURDOCH.

Good Morning!

Mirth and murder are becoming as much of a twosome as ham and eggs, Scotch and soda, and Bergen and McCarthy. And Little Audrey [Hello, honey, where you been?] should laff and laff over the Apollo's new whodunnit.

This is going to be a VERY short review because I have no intention of presenting you with any inklings whatsoever. This, by way of keeping faith with writer, director and players who keep you completely fooled until the last reel, when it suits their purposes to present to your flabbergasted optics—THE KILLER.

Pat O'Brien, who's getting to be a regular rolypoly, bless his heart, is seen as an attorney with a carefree, jovial partner [Broderick Crawford] and an extremely fresh secretary who comes to an untimely end thru—ssh-ssh!—that would be telling! Edward Arnold is a wealthy and prominent crook. . . . Alan Dinehart is a scoundrelly state official. . . . Claire Dodd is a girl whom Pat had loved 'way back when and she—ah, ah, ah!—she—well—this movie is sure hard on blondes. . . .

Ruth Terry is a just too, too naive café dancer who falls for Pat and clings to him like a barnacle with the result that she's ALWAYS on hand when something happens, and something happens pretty regularly. . . . Add to this imposing list assorted policemen, a furious ex-husband, a jealous wife, a frantic daughter, etc., etc., and you have plenty present who could have done—with reason—what IS done. . . .

The action skitters along to the tune of pat dialog. It is suspenseful and unexpected. The able players all give their best to their rôles, and the piece is just long enough.

I think you'll enjoy it.

See you tomorrow.

Drama Round Table.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

O'Brien.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 1.—For 10 years in Hollywood Milwaukee's Pat O'Brien has played second fiddle to Milwaukee's Spencer Tracy. . . . If Tracy wasn't available for a rôle, or couldn't be borrowed from Metro, it would drop into O'Brien's lap. . . . And after the picture was completed every one would comment on how much better the part would have been if Tracy had played it.

O'Brien's characterization of Father Duffy in "The Fighting 69th" finally has won Pat distinction of his own. . . . Most pleased about it is Spencer Tracy, because he and Pat were pals in school and have been pals ever since. . . . O'Brien's closest friends out here, besides Tracy, are Jimmy Cagney, Frank McHugh, Bing Crosby, and Allen Jenkins. . . . Like Cagney, O'Brien served in Broadway musicals as a chorus boy. He was in "Adrianne." . . . The singing comedian of the piece was George Bancroft.

Pat was born in Milwaukee, Wis., on Nov. 11, 1899. His real name is William Patrick O'Brien. He played his first stage rôle at the age of 9. He was attending a parochial school and they staged a Christmas show. Pat played an angel. They put him in a long white nightgown with a pair of wings attached, and his acting consisted of flapping the wings by moving his elbows up and down.

Pat's parents wanted him to be a lawyer; they didn't think much of acting. . . . In the excitement of world war days Pat and Spencer Tracy ran away from school to join the navy. They had to falsify their ages because they were under 18.

After the war Pat returned to school. He went to Marquette university with the intention of studying law. But while there he appeared in the leading rôle of a campus production called "Foul Ball Kelly." Jimmy Gleason, who was visiting the university, saw the play and invited Pat to look him up if he ever came to New York. A few years later Pat did look up Gleason and was given a part in the road troupe of "Way Down East."

It was while touring with the troupe that Pat met his wife, Eloise. She got her start in theatricals when Rudolph Valentino picked her as the most beautiful girl in Iowa. . . . Both Pat and Eloise roamed the country with different touring theatrical companies, and Pat had to conduct his courtship via telegraph.

Pat's best known rôle on the screen and the one with which he is always associated is that of Hildy Johnson in "Front Page." He still gets mail addressed to "Front Page" O'Brien. . . . He got the rôle of Hildy Johnson in the screen version of "Front Page" thru a mixup. In the stage play Pat didn't play the reporter—he was Walter Burns, the managing editor.

When Howard Hughes decided to film the play he engaged Lewis Milestone as the director. Milestone mistakenly believed that O'Brien had played the reporter, and he sent an agent to New York to get Pat for that rôle at any cost. . . . His rôle in "Oil for the Lamps of China" won raves.

Pat makes no attempt to conceal his origin. His favorite color is green. His cigars, which are made up especially for him, are wrapped in cellophane on which his name is printed in bold green letters. The design on his book plate is a big green shamrock, and he has named his two children Shawn and Mavourneen.

Pat is 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 175 pounds. He has brown hair and blue eyes. . . . About his own screen success he is extremely modest. He is always saying, "I'm the luckiest guy who ever lived." . . . He prefers the screen to the stage. He says, "You can eat more regularly." . . . His big ambition is to portray Gen. U. S. Grant on the screen. He has read nearly every book ever printed about Grant.

He is the president of the alumni association of Marquette university, his alma mater. . . . He's also vice president of the Del Mar race track, and he loves to tell race track stories. His favorite is about the fellow who put a wad of money on a "sure thing," and when the horse got to the starting line it turned to the nag next to it and said, "Say, I'm a stranger here. I'll follow you around!"

Pat hasn't smoked a half dozen cigarets in his life. He's an inveterate cigar smoker and is invariably chewing on the end of an unlighted cigar. . . . He never uses grease paint when acting before the camera. . . . He's an expert handball player.

At Marquette university he was on the varsity football team, and in his senior year he ran 67 yards thru the Notre Dame team for a winning touchdown. He's a rabid boxing enthusiast and attends every fight held in Hollywood.

Chicagoans to Usher at Louisville Wedding of Young Roosevelt

Gordon Palmer, S. Sewell Gardner, and Charles Symington will usher at the marriage of Miss Anne Babcock and Theodore Roosevelt III. tomorrow afternoon in Louisville, Ky. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock at the Second Presbyterian church. Miss Peggy Kimberly of Neenah, Wis., will be among the out of town guests.

Young Mr. Roosevelt shared bachelor quarters with Mr. Gardner and some other young men when he was working in Chicago. Col. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt of Oyster Bay, N. Y., parents of young Mr. Roosevelt, and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth of Washington, D. C., are others expected from away for the wedding. The reception will be held at the Upper River road home of the bride's father, George W. Babcock, and Mrs. Babcock. The bridegroom's brother, Cornelius Roosevelt of Mexico City, will be best man.

Young Mr. Roosevelt and his bride will live in Louisville.

Chicago Hears Bruckner Piece for First Time

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A major symphonic work three-quarters of a century old received its first Chicago performance only last evening. The work is Anton Bruckner's first symphony. The performers were Frederick Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the place Orchestra hall.

Splendor of orchestral dress and wealth of idea are the symphony's outstanding characteristics. As in his more familiar works, Bruckner here does wonders with the brass choir, achieving a mystical religious quality by the simple grandeur with which he makes these instruments speak.

Yet the themes themselves, so far as we can consider them independent of their beautiful vesture, are provocative enough to free Bruckner from the suspicion that he was using an extraordinary knowledge of instrumentation to conceal poverty of melodic invention. There is a soaring, ecstatic quality in the adagio's first subject and a bucolic vigor in the theme of the scherzo.

Yet what is it about these themes which fail of complete satisfaction and make Bruckner a composer who has to be sold to the public rather than a composer whom the public demands? Is it a lack of a final emotional ping, a sense that the composer missed by a hair's breadth the effect he was groping for and therefore failed to externalize perfectly the quality of feeling with which he was dealing? Or did the quality of feeling itself fall somewhat short of that universality and significance which are the hallmarks of the supremely great in art?

Later in the evening Edward Burlingame Hill's "Lilacs" received its first Chicago Symphony orchestra performance. It is an impressionistic little piece full of the thoughtful, nostalgic beauty of New England dooryards drowned in bloom, and is the result of the composer's liking for Amy Lowell's poem of the same name.

in native costume. Miss Chong will appear at 3:45 o'clock, preceding tea. Mrs. Harley MacNair will tell of her recent trip to the orient at a luncheon at the College club at 1 o'clock today.

Films of Finland to Boost Relief Fund.

Movies of Finland as the country was a year ago, and as it is today, will be shown at 8:15 o'clock tonight in Orchestra hall as a benefit for the Finnish Relief Fund. The women's division of the money raising campaign is sponsoring the show, which will be given by Maj. James Sawders. Mrs. Joseph F. Govan and Mrs. Edward R. Fifield are co-chairmen of the division.

Because the first Wednesday in February is Ash Wednesday, Rear Admiral and Mrs. William Carleton Watts will be at home at their quarters at the Naval Training station, Great Lakes, from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon. Their usual Wednesdays at home will be resumed in March.

Beautifully Tailored Dress

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This delightfully tailored one-piece frock is so simple to make that even if you've never sewed a stitch in your life before now you should have very little trouble. In woolen, tailored silks and linens or cottons, this trim little dress will so please you that you'll be sorry when it is worn out. Stripes lend themselves effectively to the straight-up-and-down styling of this model, which may have a casually opened or a buttoned-high neckline. Pockets are optional, but certainly have their style recommendations this season.

Style No. 3146 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material for short-sleeved model; 4½ yards for long-sleeved version.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Fisticuffs Do the Trick and Girl's in Love

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I am the daughter of fairly well-to-do parents and generally have done as I pleased," confides Lenora. "When I graduated from high school I decided against college and started running around with a wild crowd of boys and girls who, like myself, preferred a good time to working or going to school.

"Then I met Bob. About a month after meeting him one of the girls in the crowd I was running around with got into some serious trouble. Then my father put his foot down, insisting that I keep away from them all. I had no intention of obeying him, but every move of mine was watched so carefully that it was impossible to do as I pleased.

"Finally, in desperation, I decided to accept Bob's proposal, feeling if I were engaged my parents wouldn't watch me so closely. Bob, I felt sure, loved me too much not to let me have my way. However, I soon found out I underestimated his strength of character. I started sneaking out with the old gang on the sly and when Bob heard about it there was a terrible fight. I saw red and threw something at him. He grabbed me and gave me a terrific whack, and at that moment my dad walked in and ordered him out of the house, and me never to see him again.

"Well, now I know I am in love with Bob, from whom I didn't hear since his ordered ejection from my home, until last week. We each apologized and discovered that it was love between us. My parents feel now that he's a monster. I couldn't tell the cause of our quarrel as I was disobeying them. They won't let him within miles of the house. I do want to win them over. What can I do? LENORA.

Lenora, we think a clean breast of everything to your parents would straighten things out. Your dad would surely appreciate that his girl is in hands that will make her behave. Being a willful young woman, that's the kind of man you need. While we can't openly sanction fisticuffs from a fiancé, we have a sneaking admiration for one who can master a girl whose own way is the wrong way.

By Evelyn Holmes

Feb. 2, 1940.

Probably too full of minor irritations to be put down as a pleasant day. This may prove a rather upsetting year for those born on today's date, for the 2s are not at home in a high tensioned atmosphere. Their emotions are likely to be overwhelming and disconcerting. Remember that this year you must give freely, both of yourself and your worldly goods.

New Crocheted Pot Holders

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

With all the beautiful shades of carpet warp available, there is no excuse for not having the gayest and most cheerful of crocheted kitchen accessories. The first little pot holder has a floral motif which puts it in a class by itself. The clever, octagonal pot holder is done in two beautiful shades of blue, each one designed to add color, yet offer a maximum of durability in concealing spots or burns. Both are easy crochet jobs and ideal gift selections.

For instructions in crocheting the floral pot holder and the two-color octagonal pot holder, No. X-369, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 320 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

In the play of many more or less legitimate contracts, it becomes obvious that mere technique, however flawless, cannot avail. In such cases too many players surrender without a struggle. They overlook the fact that the defenders can hardly be certain of the situation actually existing. They naively proceed on the theory that their dilemma is apparent. The declarer in today's hand was made of sterner stuff.

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 club [1] | Pass | 1 diamond [2] | Pass |
| 1 no trump | Pass | 3 no trump | Pass |
| 3 no trump | Pass | Pass | Pass |

West made the normal opening of the spade jack. Dummy played low [as part of the plan that had formed in declarer's mind] and South won with the queen, attempting to create in West's mind the impression that East had the ace. A diamond to the ace was the first play of declarer, and now the low club was boldly played from dummy. East ducked, South played the ten and West won with the queen. Holding the 10-8 of spades under dummy's K-9, West decided that another spade lead was unpropitious. His shift to a small heart cannot be severely criticized. Declarer's ace smothered East's jack, and next a low diamond was led, which West won with the queen. Had West been able to count declarer's potential tricks at this stage, he would, of course, have shifted to clubs as the only hope. But, from his angle, there was quite a different hope, that on the lead of a second spade declarer would "guess wrong" and go up with dummy's king on the assumption that the opening lead was from A-J-10-8. So he led a spade, declarer gobbled up the trick, cashed his two good diamonds and finessed against the queen of hearts. When the ten held the trick, the king of hearts and the third spade completed the nine tricks necessary.

Children's Tiff May Be Caused in Many Ways

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Can quarreling among children be entirely avoided? Or, once started, can it be completely stamped out? Why do children quarrel? How seriously should a mother take quarreling?

There is no definite single answer possible for each of these questions because there are so many kinds and degrees of quarreling and so many causes of it. Briefly, occasional conflicts may be accepted as part of the growth and experiment we call living, but habitual quarreling is unnecessary and undesirable.

Looking beneath the surface as well as on it, children quarrel because of:

Hurt by the first born when the advent of a brother or sister is unwisely handled.

Constant discord or bickering among the grownups.

Not having enough outdoors play and normal contacts with other children outside the family and so getting on each other's nerves.

Being too much confined by close living quarters, which restricts individual freedom and throws children too much upon each other.

Children being so badly managed that they lack balance, obedience and consideration.

Film Luminary Gives Tips on Wearing Gowns

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It's hard keeping up with the newcomers of screen and stage. You're hardly aware of their existence until suddenly they've blossomed as a big box office draw; if not now, then very soon. We're told that among this group is one with potential big star stuff in her, Lucille Ball, who started out as a mannequin and advertising model.

We met here recently and found her an unusually interesting type and person. A redhead, with freckles and all the trimmings, as she puts it. A coppery gold redhead, she is, with eyes of green, blue or violet according to colors worn. She's tall and slight, of course, with a flair for clothes wearing.

Her new coiffure, designed for her especially, was interesting. The side hair was combed up straight and then into a forward sweep of two large dropped curls above the forehead to emphasize the effect of a middle part. The Restoration coiffure, it is called. The back hair is combed straight down from a V-shaped part on the crown which breaks into a mass of soft curls.

The coiffure represents the 1940 trend to height. Altho tall, Miss Ball doesn't try to minimize her height. She tells, in improving her posture for mannequin work she had first to conquer the head droop many tall girls adopt thru a height consciousness, which she now sees as wrong. Keep the abdomen in and the head up, especially the head up, is her suggestion for better dress wearing.

Also, when trying on a new frock, she advises sitting in it before buying, since one is seen most in sitting posture; also raising arms if it is a dance frock to see that the belt and back and hipline of the frock don't "ride."

But above all, the waistline, she thinks, is the supreme test of a frock's smartness, too many girls and women wearing the too high waistline, which cheapens the gown. And hemlines must be studied for individual treatment. "

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

Description of Diego Rivera's house in Mexico City as related by Carleton Smith, just arrived in town after a tour of South America, where he talked with the presidents of Brazil, Chile, and Peru, also of Ecuador and Mexico, had an interview with Trotzky, and collected folk songs of Inca descendants:

"His (Rivera's) studio is three stories high, with outside staircases, and is surrounded by a fence of straight cacti. Dozens of monkeys play in the yard, and inside the walls are lined with gigantic papier-mache Judases loaded with firecrackers, which will go off when they are burned as effigies the day before Easter."

Rivera, who has a wonderful collection of early Mayan discoveries, is painting Maudelle, the Negress who dances in Hollywood.

* * *

In Mexico Musicologist Smith heard a new instrument with 97 tones to the octave—that makes 16 tones between C and D on the piano, he points out.

"This is indeed the music of the future," said Mr. Smith. "All that is needed is a Beethoven or a Bach to write such music."

Correction.

Clifton Webb's story: A patron in a downtown restaurant, handing the waitress a tip, commented, "I'm on a diet." The waitress, seeing the size of the tip, retorted: "You mean on a budget, don't you?"

Cuff Notes.

Larry Adler will record one of the Bach Brandenburg concertos next, using his harmonica, for the solo flute parts. During his recent world tour he twice appeared as soloist in the concerto with the Sydney Symphony orchestra. . . . Those two men seated at an inconspicuous table in the Panther room last night were Song Writers Hoagy Carmichael and Johnny Mercer. They are in town to see how the public likes their music for Three After Three. That was Gloria Jean, 11 year old starlet, you might have seen shopping in a State street five and ten cent store.

* * *

You might try the chicken, lobster, and mushroom dish that is a Key club specialty. . . . Patrons who go to Hoe Kow's for egg rolls and various shrimp dishes like to play a game, "That's right, you're wrong," with Roy Wong, No. 1 boy. . . . A new college news magazine on the stands is Varsity, published by two Chicagoans, Harvey S. Olson, Purdue '29, captain of the '28 Boilermakers' grid squad, and Frank B. Carney, Wisconsin '32. . . . Orson Welles, still wearing his beard, was lunching at the Pump room yesterday with the Roger Hills. . . . When firemen were called to the Ambassador yesterday because of a fire in the incinerator, Paul Draper, coming into the hotel and seeing the lobby filled with firemen, commented coolly: "I knew those flaming swords would be too much for the hotel one day."

Another Brain Teaser.

Each blank in the following, written by Donald H. Dickey, represents a six letter word, and the same letters spell each of the seven words. No two words are alike:

A —— sat in his —— gray
And watched the moonbeam's
—— play,
And thus to himself did say:
"Thou, who —— the poor;
Thou, who —— the rich;
The —— of the battle to thee belongs."
And the —— of the leaves
Carried the song along.

Claims Poverty Kills Churches at Vital Spots

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

All dictators now harrying the world with Nazism, communism and fascism came from the underprivileged sections of great cities. Based on this assertion, the Rev. Dr. Aubrey S. Moore, superintendent of the Methodist Home Mission and Church Extension society of Chicago, last night pleaded for reconstruction and development of church life in needy areas.

Dr. Moore spoke at the La Salle hotel before 250 Methodist pastors and laymen.

He said the movement of the well-to-do to the suburbs had resulted in the closing of 36 Chicago Methodist churches in 30 years. Others, he added, were left impoverished in spots where, due to retrograde population shifts, the churches were badly needed for Americanization programs, social service and other activities.

"There are 1,526,783 persons in the Chicago metropolitan area who are not members of any church," said Dr. Moore. "During the decade of 1930-'40 40 per cent of our city churches lost members. This was often due to failing support."

❶ FOULDS' REAL ITALIAN SPAGHETTI DINNER

COMPLETE MEAL FOR 6—COSTS LESS THAN 7¢ PER SERVING

Cook 8-oz. pkg. FOULDS' Spaghetti as directed on package; drain and heap on hot serving platter. Serve with Meat or Meatless Sauce, shown below; both are old Italian recipes. Sprinkle grated Parmesan cheese on top.

MEATLESS SAUCE (4 to 6 servings)—Heat ½ cup olive oil in frying pan slowly; add 2 medium sized sliced onions, or 2 garlic buds—peeled and chopped; fry until light yellow and soft. Add ½ cup chopped parsley, ⅔ cup chopped green pepper, 1 cup chopped celery, and 1 small bay leaf; continue to fry slowly until ingredients are tender. Add 6-oz. can Italian tomato paste, 3 cups canned tomatoes, and blend. Rinse tomato paste can with 1 cup hot water and add to sauce mixture. Let simmer until sauce is thick and glossy. (1½ to 2 hrs.) Season. Serve bubbling-hot.

SAUCE WITH MEAT—Brown ½ lb. well-seasoned ground lean beef (made into ½ inch balls if desired) in hot fat or olive oil; add to the plain Meatless Sauce and cook slowly for ½ hour or longer.

3 ways to a Man's Heart!

❷ FOULDS' QUICK SUPPER PLATE

SERVES 6 GENEROUSLY—READY IN 40 MINUTES

COMPLETE DISH COSTS ONLY 29¢

8-oz. pkg. FOULDS' ELBO SPAGHETTI
¼ cup melted butter
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
12 link sausages or 6 cooked frankfurters.

cooked vegetable, or broiled fruit optional.

★

Cook spaghetti as directed on the Foulds' package; drain thoroughly; arrange on serving platter; pour melted butter over spaghetti: arrange cooked sausages or frankfurters on spaghetti; garnish with cooked carrot slices, broiled pineapple rings, etc.

❸ MACARONI CUSTARD LOAF

A SATISFYING MEAL FOR 6—COSTS ONLY 35¢

8-oz. pkg. FOULDS' MACARONI
1 cup grated soft cheese
3 eggs, beaten
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon chopped onion
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

In well-buttered baking dish, place alternate layers of cooked macaroni and cheese, ⅔ full. Combine beaten eggs, milk, seasonings; pour into dish, loosening macaroni with fork to allow liquid to spread. Place dish in pan of hot water. Bake in 350° F. like custard, until firm, top delicately browned (time: 1 hour). Let stand before unmoulding. Garnish with vegetables; serve with Tomato or Mushroom Sauce. *Without garnishes

THIS SIMPLE TEST SHOWS WHY FOULDS' HAS THE FLAVOR

CLEAR—Never cloudy—Hold a few sticks side by side against a strong light. Foulds' macaroni or spaghetti ...because it's made of No. 1 Durum Wheat Semolina...is perfectly clear —free from cloudiness.

PLUMP AND FIRM—Never mushy—When cooked properly, Foulds' macaroni or spaghetti is never soggy or mushy. 100% No. 1 Durum Wheat Semolina gives Foulds' the firm body that everyone prefers.

Referee—Bill Stewart. Linesman—Bill Chadwick.

New York, Feb. 1 (AP).—The New York Americans went on a four goal scoring splurge in the third period tonight, with Eddie Shore the spearhead of their attack and defense, to beat the Chicago Blackhawks, 5 to 2, and strengthen their sixth place position in the National Hockey league.

Eddie Shore.

The Americans came out for the third period leading, 1 to 0, on Johnny Gagnon's early goal and with Jack Portland finishing a late second period penalty. Before Portland returned, Shore, playing his second game for the Americans after 13 seasons with Boston, engineered plays for two rapid goals.

Shore gave Charley Conacher the pass for a 40 foot scoring shot, then roared down right wing almost on the next play and set up Lorne Carr with a perfect pass to the goal mouth. The crowd of 6,500, which had been cheering his great defensive work, gave him a wild demonstration of approval.

Penalty Helps Hawks.

The 3 to 0 lead would have been enough for the Americans' second victory with Shore in their lineup, but Art Chapman and Tommy Anderson got one each to offset the Hawk tallies by Bill Carse and Bill Thoms, which came late in the game.

One of the Hawk goals, too, was scored with one of the opposition in the penalty box. While Hooley Smith was off, Carse rammed the puck home after George Allen and Mush March set the play by the Americans' goal.

WINGS BEAT RANGERS

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 1 (AP).—The New York Rangers suffered their fifth loss of the National Hockey league season tonight, bowing to the Detroit Red Wings, 2 to 0, in a battle in which tempers boiled over into fisticuffs on frequent occasions.

The Rangers had won 15 of their last 16 starts, but tonight they were checked by the goal tending of Cecil Thompson and by the fast skating of the Detroiters.

The Wings scored early in the second period, Don Grosso, rookie forward, smashing home a rebound of a shot fired by Ebbie Goodfellow. The second goal came at the start of the final period, in which Referee Teddy Graham assessed three minor penalties, two majors, and a ten minute misconduct penalty.

Midway of the last period Jimmy Orlando, Detroit defense man, and Dutch Hiller of the Rangers became involved in a battle and other members of both teams joined in. The lineups:

GOLDEN GLOVES NOVICES AWAIT CALL TO BATTLE

West Side Tournament to Open Monday.

The Battle Front

Evansville [Ind.] Courier second round.
Peoria Journal-Transcript preliminaries.
Nashville [Tenn.] Tennessean third round.
Burlington [Ia.] Hawkeye-Gazette second round.
Richmond [Ind.] Palladium [Ia.] finals.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Preparations have been completed for the three Chicago Golden Gloves novice tournaments, the first of which opens in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street, Monday evening. The west side show, which will continue three nights, will be held in one ring. Starting time Monday evening will be 7 o'clock. There are no reserved seats and admission is 75 cents. Doors will open a half hour before the first bout.

The south side tournament, which starts Tuesday evening and runs thru Thursday in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, probably will be the largest of the three meets. Two rings will be required Tuesday night, but quite likely only one ring will be used on Wednesday and Thursday. The last tournament in this group will be held in the Loyola university gymnasium Feb. 12, 13, and 14. The program of contestants has not been prepared as yet, but procedure will duplicate that on the south side, with two rings in operation on the opening night.

Veterans Start Feb. 10.

The open division tournament enrollment for the three nights of the Chicago championship bouts in the Coliseum Feb. 20, 21, and 22 promises to total nearly 200 experienced boxers. The complete list will not be available until after the final examination for the experienced boxers next Friday evening in Trafton's gymnasium.

Eighty-two boxers affiliated with the Catholic Youth organization will receive orders by mail to report next Friday in addition to those who reported last Monday at the C. Y. O. for physical examination. The list of the C. Y. O. boys eligible for Chicago championships was compiled by officials of the organization who are interested in having their boys gain the majority of the city titles and preserve the C. Y. O. record in team competition in Chicago.

Officials Are Responsible.

Tournaments as large as those held in Chicago, which include the Tournament of Champions [Feb. 26, 27, and 28], the largest amateur tournament in the world, are made possible by the cooperation of the experienced group of officials affiliated with the Tribune A. A. and the boxing committee of the Central association of the A. A. U.

Capt. Roy E. Davis, chairman of the Central A. A. U. boxing committee, also is chairman of the national committee and the Olympic committee. Capt. Davis will miss the Golden Gloves tournament this year for the first time, since ill health has compelled him to spend the winter in Tucson, Ariz., but the major portion of the details, as far as the A. A. U. is concerned, is in the hands of Edwin B. Parkes, secretary of the Central A. A. U. Inspectors assigned to Golden Gloves examinations are Maurice Wolff, Ed Blohm, Paul Staff, and Douglas V. Warnes. Pictures on page 25.

All Boxers Register.

All Golden Gloves boxers are registered by the A. A. U. Those competing in the open division receive membership cards which are valid for a year. The inexperienced boxers receive registration cards which are valid for the Golden Gloves only.

Paging Miss Airlines.

[With apologies, in part, to H. W. Longfellow.]

Came December '38, Arch,
Came the twelfth month of the year,
Came a calendar from the airlines,
Smiled a charming stewardess dear.

By the shores of Lake St. Mary's,
'Neath the shining Golden Dome,
In my room I hung the picture—
This, the setting of my poem.

Came the new year, smiling, hopeful,
Still her face there on the wall,
How I longed to woo that stewardess,
But, in vain, my efforts all.

Passed the second and the third moon,
Trying hard to learn her name;
She went fleeting 'round the airlines,
Studied ... at Notre Dame.

October brought the football thousands
From each far and distant place,
Surely one might tell me of her,
Of my Dreamy, Laughing Face.

Came a friend from ol' Northwestern
On that bleak November date;
Said he knew the smiling stewardess
Was born down in the Lone Star state

Yes, but Arch, that state's a large one,
Covering many a rolling mile,
Tell me how to meet that stewardess,
Meet my dream girl, Laughing Smile

TOURIST J. DYKES RUSHES SEASON; PICKS A LINEUP

Sox Manager Drops In on Way to Pasadena.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Mr. James J. Dykes, the real gadabout of big league managers, is in the city for a brief stay. Chased out of Florida by the cold wave, he went home to Oakmont, Upper Darby, Pa., long enough to pick up his famous minstrel coat with the white pearl buttons and headed westward. He'll resume his travels today, the destination being Pasadena, Cal., where on Feb. 28 he'll open his White Sox spring training school.

Altho he has been gadding almost steadily since closing the last campaign with the customary city series victory over the Cubs, the Sox leader hasn't neglected his duties. He put across those various December trades at Cincinnati. He had time to get in on the bidding for Benny McCoy. While in Florida he brought old Mule Haas back into the fold in the guise of a coach. And he has already figured out what his 1940 starting lineup is going to be. At least the way he hopes it will be.

Always Willing to Talk.

Mr. Dykes, who usually will speak on any subject if there are listeners, didn't seem to care about expressing his thoughts on the $45,000 bonus and $20,000 salary for two years given McCoy by the Athletics.

"I wired him as soon as the commissioner made him a free agent," declared Dykes. "You know what came back in the answer? Well, he said the bidding was already up to $35,000 and I didn't send him any more telegrams."

"All I am sorry about," continued Dykes," is that Larry MacPhail didn't get him for Brooklyn. I'd had a lot of fun needling Larry about financial carelessness. Now that my old teacher, Connie, has him I have had to abandon all the wisecracks I had in store for MacPhail."

Expects Moses Deal.

The above seems to indicate that Dykes, while he would have welcomed McCoy at a nominal price, doesn't think the youth worth anything like the amount shelled out by Connie Mack. He suspects Mack is going to get some of the money back by selling Outfielder Wally Moses to the Tigers.

Haas, who has been away two years, was brought back to fill the coaching job made vacant when Billy Webb was booted upstairs to the office of supervisor of the Sox farm clubs. Dykes didn't want to handle the traffic at the third base coaching box, formerly Webb's workbench, so he had to find somebody. Dykes shunned the place because it would bring him in too close contact with umpires. He doesn't get along peaceably with those fellows.

The Outfield Is Changed.

As for the starting lineup next April, Dykes has in mind an infield about which there is nothing new but an outfield vastly different because of his winter swaps by which he got Taft Wright from the Senators for Gerry Walker and Julius Solters from the Browns. Wright will be the right fielder and Solters the left, with roving Mike Kreevich between the pair.

The infield, as Dykes now views it, will be Joe Kuhel at first, Jack Hayes at second, Luke Appling at short and Eric McNair at third. There is a doubtful item in this quartet. Nobody knows what Hayes will be able to do. He was of little value last season, failing to recover from a knee operation the year before. If Hayes can't get around well enough to suit the boss, McNair will be moved to second, where he played early last season, and Jimmy Webb, ex-Indian, recently purchased from St. Paul, will be given a whack at third base.

Vice President Harry Grabiner announced that signed contracts had been received from Pitcher Johnny Rigney, Tom Turner, who is reputed to possess big league catching talents, and Webb. Turner was drafted from the Cardinals farm at Houston, Tex.

More Fuel for the Hot Stove League

Frick Would Rewrite Rules for Operation of Baseball

New York, Feb. 1 (AP).—The time has come, Ford Frick said tonight, to rewrite the rules governing the operation of professional baseball.

"For my own information," the National league president said, "I'm trying to compute some statistics I can quote to settle arguments and refute broad statements not founded on fact.

"For instance," he pulled out from a sea of scratch paper and reference books several yellow sheets bearing long lists of figures, "I'm working now on figures that will show how long the average major leaguer stayed in the minors. It figures three and one-quarter years for other players, and four and one-quarter years for pitchers.

Many Never Out on Option.

"I'm also listing the number of times the players were out on option. You'd be surprised at the number that never were optioned. A few were optioned three times, but that's unusual. A player can be optioned six times—three times in the minors and three in the majors—but I haven't run across any with that record yet.

"That fact, and the comparatively brief apprenticeship in the minors, would seem to refute any idea that the players were being held down. In fact, Jim Turner spent 12 years in the minors, but not with farm clubs. It seems that those who were in the minors longest weren't on farm clubs."

About the rules, Frick said:

"The present rules governing the operation of the game are like a patchwork quilt. They were originally drawn up about 30 years ago. Since then baseball has grown into big business, become streamlined.

All Is Confusion.

"During this progress, as some situation came up not covered by the rules a rule would be passed to take care of it. As a result, the rules today are a confusing muddle.

"I think the time will come soon, and I think other baseball officials will agree with me, when the governing rules must be rewritten so some class D clubowner out in Podunk can understand them and won't have to be calling Judge Landis, or Mr. Harridge, or me to find out what he can do.

"When we have our meetings and any questions come up we can just look in the book. It's there in black and white."

BENSWANGER AGREES.

Morgantown, W. Va., Feb. 1 (AP).—William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, said tonight he was in "full agreement with Ford Frick that some modern program should be adopted governing operation of professional baseball.

"Altho I do not necessarily believe the rules should be rewritten," said the Pirates' head, "I believe a thoro study should be made of existing rules and that some should be modified or even rewritten if found necessary. Some rules are outmoded."

CITES PERILOUS OUTLOOK OF 15 SMALL LEAGUES

Brooklyn President Fears Dictatorship.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 1 (AP).—Larry MacPhail, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, reviewing Commissioner K. M. Landis' recent farm system edict, tonight rated John Brown, the great abolitionist, a bush leaguer in comparison to the commissioner of baseball.

Asserting Brown had to raid Harper's Ferry to free a few slaves, MacPhail told the annual baseball writers' dinner that Landis struck the shackles off 90-odd baseball serfs with a stroke of his pen and followed up with a seven point manifesto that wiped out nine farm systems and about 100 working agreements.

"I have telegrams from the presidents of 15 minor leagues that indicate there is grave doubt whether they can operate unless the commissioner's recent bulletin is modified," MacPhail said in a prepared address.

Fears Loss of Interest.

"Unfortunately, the present situation is one of seemingly hopeless confusion. And if something isn't done about it in a hurry, the minors may be injured and years required to repair the damage.

"If baseball is to be dominated and controled by any selfish group," MacPhail said, "it won't be long before professional football or some other sport will succeed as the great national game, and that none of us want.

"In the matter of Landis versus the farm system, he sits as prosecutor, judge and jury, and there is no appeal. Either he is dealing out justice or he is engaging in 'witch hunts' in which the innocent will burn along with the guilty.

"The commissioner has submitted a plan to subsidize the minors and preserve fair competition by preventing the control of players at the source of supply.

Would Abolish Farm Systems.

"In a nutshell, it would abolish all farm systems, working agreements and options, set up a universal draft and prevent all clubs from acquiring players beyond their immediate needs, thereby making the supply as easily available to the Browns as to the Yankees."

Asserting every operator in baseball from Connie Mack down has been unknowingly guilty at some time or other of violations of baseball rules or interpretations, MacPhail added:

"But I firmly believe that they and the great majority in baseball have the same respect for the tradition of the game and its preservation as have the executive officials who have safeguarded the sport for many years.

"I am going to continue to believe that executive officials should enforce rules as they are written, that interpretations should not change the intent of the rules passed by the proper legislative bodies. The clubs in baseball cannot operate successfully when the owners do not know what the rules are or what they are going to be."

Other speakers at the dinner were Joe Cronin, manager of the Red Sox; Eddie Collins, general manager of the Red Sox; Frankie Frisch of the Pirates, Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, and Rabbit Maranville, former Boston baseball idol.

MacPhail said Landis could not be accused of inconsistency.

CRANE SENIORS DEAL WELLS 1ST DEFEAT, 37 TO 25

Result Creates 3 Way Tie in West Section.

The west section senior race in the Chicago Public High school basketball league, was thrown into a three way tie yesterday.

Crane turned back Wells, 37 to 25, at Wells before a capacity crowd, and Austin routed Washburne, 51 to 22. Each team now has won five and lost one, while Tuley is still in the running with four victories in five starts.

Crane Takes Lead.

Crane moved into an early lead, tallying 4 points in the first quarter while holding Wells scoreless, and added 13 more in the second period as the home club was getting 5. Each team scored 20 points during the second half, but in the closing stages four Wells regulars fouled out.

Wells scored a 32 to 29 victory over Crane in the junior game to hand the latter its first setback in six starts. As the result they are tied for second place with five games and one lost, while Marshall heads the section with six straight.

Lindblom Is Beaten.

In the central section senior battle, Lindblom which lost two of its regular guards by graduation, felt the effect of mid-semester replacements by losing to Tilden, 32 to 27. It was the first loss in five encounters for the Lindblom quintet, and gave Phillips undisputed possession of first place.

NO SCHOLARSHIP FAVORS SHOWN ILLINI ATHLETES

Other Students Receive Same Consideration.

The methods in vogue at the University of Illinois in granting financial aid to students, particularly athletes, were outlined yesterday by Western conference headquarters in further amplifying its report, made public Tuesday, of the total amount of financial aid given athletes by member schools. The Illinois report follows:

Scholarships are held by athletes at the University of Illinois in almost identical proportion as they occur among the body of undergraduate men.

Illinois has an enrollment of 10,880 men, of whom 1,000, or 9.19 per cent, hold scholarships. Illinois lists as athletes 404, of whom 44, or 10.9 per cent, hold scholarships.

Scholarships at Illinois are administered by faculty committees, headed by Registrar G. P. Tuttle, and any needy student with proper academic requirements is eligible for the scholarships. Practically all scholarships at Illinois cover only the cost of tuition and matriculation fees.

Loans for Needy Students.

One of the scholarships held by an athlete was for $200 to $300, from a memorial fund, while the remainder were for amounts of $70 to $80 or $70 to $90, the cost of the tuition and incidental fees. Thirteen of the 44 scholarships held by athletes were awarded on the basis of competitive examination; the remainder were by appointment, with all students equally considered for the scholarships.

Loans are available to any needy student with an acceptable record and upon the approval of the council and recommendations from relatives and staff members. They are administered by the dean of men, controler, dean of women, and dean of the college in which the applicant is enrolled. A total of 32 athletes received loans amounting to $3,362.50 last year.

Helps Athletes Find Jobs.

All campus employment is centralized thru a university employment office, of which Gerald Peck is director. One man is paid jointly by the athletic department and alumni association and he assists athletes in finding employment.

A total of 320 campus jobs was held by 148 boys last year at Illinois, and they earned $10,746.89. The jobs included NYA assignments at 35 cents an hour and 23 commission salesmen. Other work was found in stadium and skating rink maintenance and in policing at athletic contests.

Leo Freisinger Is Favored in Eastern Meet

Schenectady, N. Y., Feb. 1 (AP).—Leo Freisinger of Chicago and Madeline Horn of Beaver Dam, Wis., assumed the rôles of favorites tonight for the North American outdoor championship races.

Approximately 200 skaters have assembled for the three day meet opening tomorrow on Central park's ice. Weather conditions were termed ideal as officials closed the six lap track to preserve its excellent surface, forcing early arrivals to work out at nearby rinks.

Strong Opposition.

Freisinger, new national champion, will find his strongest opposition in defending North American Champion Charles Leighton of Minneapolis; Eddie Schroeder, Al Kucera and Robert Heckenback, all of Chicago; Del Lamb of Milwaukee and George Shimek of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Johnny Quigg, Canadian champion, will provide an international flavor to the classic.

Miss Horn Arrives.

Miss Horn, who announced her retirement from competition after winning the national women's crown for the fourth consecutive time at La Crosse, arrived today, dispelling fears of officials she would not participate in the North American.

Tomorrow's opening card lists ten final races in the seven divisions—men and women's senior; boy's and girl's intermediate and junior, and boy's junior. All classes will compete in the 220 yard dash, with senior men and intermediate boy's skating, in addition, the one mile final and senior women the three-quarter mile.

PROMOTER CALLS OFF BOXING CARD SET FOR FEB. 23

Promoter Irving Schoenwald yesterday decided against offering a boxing show in the Coliseum on Feb. 23. The card, originally scheduled for next Thursday, included three bouts of 10 rounds between Milt Aron, Chicago welterweight challenger, and Bep Van Klaveren; Fritzie Zivic, Pittsburgh 147 pounder, and Johnny Barbara, and Roscoe Toles, Detroit heavyweight, and Lem Franklin. The original show was canceled after word was received that Van Klaveren and Barbara would be unable to fight because of illness.

If the boxers are available the promoter will offer the same program on March 15.

Franklin Keeps Busy.

Franklin will box before then, however, being matched against Buddy Millard of Houston, Tex., in Marigold gardens Monday. It is an eight round encounter. An eight round co-feature brings together Johnny Brown, Catholic Youth organization featherweight, and Henry Huerta of Peoria. Dick Kist, Danville, Ill., boxer who was undefeated in 21 bouts before losing a decision in 10 rounds to Milo Theodorescu in the Coliseum last May 3, will make his second appearance as a middleweight in a five round engagement against Danny Buckley, also of Peoria, on the Marigold card.

The match has been arranged in place of a proposed event between Booker Beckwith of Gary and Harold Dettman of Detroit. Dettman refused to have anything to do with Beckwith, Golden Gloves sectional winner, who has won his three professional fights by knockouts.

Amateur boxing shows will be held tonight in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street, and Chicago Towers club, 505 North Michigan avenue. Bill Jordan, south side featherweight, is paired with Francis Smith of Aurora in a five round contest. A five round secondary feature will match Pat Maloney, west side welterweight, against George Hodges of the south side. Joe Jawgiel, Northwest gymnasium light heavyweight, will encounter Paul Lodecka in a five round headliner in the Towers club.

Louis Thesz, St. Louis heavyweight wrestler, and Jim McMillen have been matched to meet in a supporting encounter to an engagement between Bronko Nagurski and Joe Savoldi in the Coliseum Feb. 9. An additional clash involves Everett Marshall and Danno O'Mahoney.

BUDWEISERS WIN THREE; INCREASE RANDOLPH LEAD

The Budweisers extended their lead in the Randolph Bowling league to three games last night by winning three games on a 3,055 total from the Wagner and Hanson team, while the second place Joseph L. Gills were dropping one out of three to the Live Stock Press. The None Better five moved into third place by sweeping a series with the Jolly Jacks while the Joseph J. Butlers were dropping three to the Whitecaps. The Budweisers now have won 44 games and lost 13. Standings of the other leaders follow: Gills, 41-16; None Betters, 35-22; Butlers, 34-23; Mineralites, 32-25. Adolph Carlson of the Gills leads the individuals with a 216 average. ## Chicago's Fighting Men

Phil Collins Answers a Few Questions in the Tenth and Final Round

[Chicagoland's greatest fighters? This is the tenth and last of a series recounting the city's boxing history, famous fights and fighters. Phil Collins, veteran Chicago referee, brings it to a close with some pertinent observations.]

BY PHIL COLLINS.

In the last few years professional boxing has slumped in Chicago, while the amateurs, given terrific impetus by the Golden Gloves and Catholic Youth organization, have come to the fore. Often I am asked: "What is wrong with professional boxing in Chicago? Has it been injured by amateur boxing?"

To the first question my answer is that professional boxing, if properly handled, again will thrive, and that lovers of the sport are the ones who can save it from the fakers who try to ruin it. To the other I point out that no more than 10 per cent of the professional "regulars" attend amateur ring programs in Chicago.

In Los Angeles, a city of 1,250,000, there are several amateur shows each week, but there also are two major weekly professional attractions, one the Olympic and the other Hollywood Legion stadium. The Hollywood club has earned a profit on every show held for 13 consecutive years.

Sport for Sport's Sake Is Theme of Amateur Boxing.

The Golden Gloves, C. Y. O., and the conscientious work of Capt. Roy E. Davis, national boxing chairman of the Amateur Athletic union, have raised the standard of amateur boxing here. These tournaments appeal to the boy who likes boxing for the sport of it and for the handsome prizes awarded the winners and runners-up. They also have an opportunity to visit various parts of the country and to meet the best that other nations have to offer as competition.

Much of the credit for the success of Chicago amateurs is due Johnny Behr, Golden Gloves coach, who has twice been selected to coach the American Olympic team. Annually hundreds of lads box under the guidance of the C. Y. O. Only a small percentage of them wish to be fighters, the majority boxing for the benefits derived from this exercise under the able direction of Thomas O'Connell, boxing director, and Paddy Kane, boxing instructor.

I have had a chance to study fan psychology since I first started as a referee 27 years ago. The fan of today is cold to the art of boxing and delights in watching slugging contests. This goes back to the days of illegal boxing in the small clubs where neighborhood rivalries between unschooled boxers were settled. Prior to this period great boxers flourished, such as Packey McFarland, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Freddy Welsh, Jack O'Keefe, and others. They were accomplished artists, and the spectators applauded their sheer skill. Along with this skill many of the old timers had a punch, too. Today a lot of those greats of yesteryear would be booed out of the ring because of their fancy boxing.

Conn Is Today's Closest Approach to Old Masters.

Of the present day headliners, Billy Conn, in ring skill, is the nearest approach to the old timers, but he can't punch as hard as could most of the oldsters.

As an amateur Joe Louis employed more cleverness than he now does as heavyweight champion of the world. Jack Blackburn, his trainer, concentrated more on punching, realizing that fans of today want punchers, and also that a Negro fighter, to reach the top, must be sensational. So Louis dropped cleverness for punching power. Blackburn guessed right.

Louis and Al Hostak, middleweight champion, are the heaviest punchers among the current champions. Henry Armstrong, welterweight champion, is the busiest, but he is not a puncher. He is a glorified club fighter whose foes drop from sheer exhaustion brought on by a flurry of punches. Lou Ambers is of the same type.

Oftentimes the fans are unfair in booing a contestant when he is knocked out by what seemingly was a light punch. That same boy could be hit on another night by what appeared to be the same punch and suffer no ill effects. But it is entirely possible that the second punch would be an inch or less from the vital point or that the boxer's condition was better. A fan may think he knows exactly where a boxer is hit, but it is difficult sometimes for even a referee to know this, because of the speed with which a punch is delivered.

The Fans Can Be Wrong—The Neal Case Is Example.

Just to give a concrete example, Harry Peppers, a clever light heavyweight, fought Dutch Neal more than 40 years ago in the Adelphia theater, Wabash avenue and 19th street. In the fifth round Neal collapsed without being hit. The crowd jeered, and an announcement was made from the ring that Neal had quit and that his end of the purse would be given to charity. He did not get up, and upon investigation it was found he was dead. He had collapsed from apoplexy.

Physical examination of boxers in those days was a haphazard affair, a far cry from the strict supervision now in effect. Yes, the fans sometimes can be wrong on fighters—and referees.

If you will pardon a personal reminiscence, I still look back at those stirring fights which were held on the old training boat Commodore on the lake front near Randolph street in the early 1920s. These bouts were promoted by the Naval post of the American Legion. Phil Collins, a south side insurance man and member of the post, was the matchmaker. At first the only money taken in was secured by passing the hat, but as the popularity of the place increased better boxers were signed and business men bought blocks of tickets at $5 per ticket. Tickets for the public were $3 each.

It was there that Sammy Mandell had his hardest fight. He had given Frankie Garcia an artistic beating up to the sixth round, when a hard right dropped the Rockford lad. Mandell got up and won, but he did not know what had happened until the next morning.

BROWNS SIGN PITCHER.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 1 (AP).—Pitcher Roy Hanning, young right hander who was with the Springfield, Ill., club of the Three Eye league last season, signed his 1940 contract with the St. Louis Browns today.

Miss Jameson and Patty Berg Play for Title

Coral Gables, Fla., Feb. 1 (AP).—Strictly on schedule, Betty Jameson of San Antonio and Patty Berg of Minneapolis today won their way to the finals of the annual Miami Biltmore Women's Golf tournament.

Miss Jameson, the National women's champion, was never behind as she defeated Shirley Ann Johnson of Winnetka, Ill., 3 and 2.

Tomorrow's 36 hole final will mark the third meeting of the two girls who generally are regarded as the best in the country. Each holds a decision.

In the fourth division, Mrs. Grace Lerow of Chicago lost to Mrs. Grace Church of Miami, 2 and 1; and in the fifth class Mrs. H. G. Robinson of Chicago conquered Mrs. Marie Nelson, also of Chicago, 5 and 4.

7 WESTERN OPEN ICE TITLES TO BE DECIDED SUNDAY

The final ice racing Derby of the season, sponsored by the George Barrett Athletic club, will find more than 100 skaters seeking seven Western Open titles in Douglas park Sunday afternoon. These events, along with 11 others make up the program which ends outdoor competition for Illinois.

A checkup last night showed that 97 skaters already have filed entries for the seven titles. Because post entries will be accepted, an additional number are assured.

Last night's checkup by Frank M. Kalteux, director of events, indicated that nearly 500 racers will appear in the 18 race program. The championships are men's Class A 220 yard dash, three-quarters, and two miles. Two events for senior women will be the 440 yard dash and three-quarter mile and the intermediates will go 220 yards and three-quarters.

WAR MANEUVERS BY SECOND ARMY SET FOR AUGUST

65,000 Troops Will Take Field in Wisconsin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring today announced the largest and most extensive war maneuvers in the history of Chicagoland will be held in the vicinity of Sparta, Wis., from Aug. 11 to Aug. 31.

The maneuvers will mass 65,000 regulars and National Guardsmen. The newly organized streamlined 5th division and the 7th cavalry brigade, the mechanized unit stationed at Fort Knox, will participate in the war games.

Since 1935 each of the four field armies has conducted field operations within its geographical area. The last large scale maneuvers for the 2d army were held in 1936.

All in One Area.

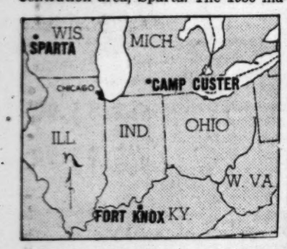
The 1940 2d army maneuvers will differ from the 1936 exercises in that they will be held in one main concentration area, Sparta. The 1936 maneuvers had two concentrations, one at Fort Knox, Ky., and the other at Camp Custer, Mich.



States from which troops will be drawn for maneuvers.

The mock war games will be under the command of Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the 2d army. They will embrace the regular army and National Guard units of the 5th and 6th corps areas.

The concentration at Sparta will include regulars and guardsmen from Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, and West Virginia. The militiamen will come from the 22d, 33d, 37th, and 38th guard divisions.

Two Opposing Armies.

Air corps units in the area will stage maneuvers in conjunction with ground troops. The maneuvers against a mythical enemy force, involving all the units, and division of the 65,000 troops into opposing armies.

In calling for three weeks of exercises, Secretary Woodring was acting on lessons learned from past maneuvers. The army has found that it is desirable to extend the time of maneuvers when each of the four armies meets in war games but once in four years.

In the past exercises lasted two weeks. It was found that the period is insufficient to effect proper coordination and to simulate warfare. This year the army has added another week.

13 FLYING CADETS TRANSFERRED TO RANDOLPH FIELD

Thirteen army air corps cadets were transferred yesterday from the Chicago School of Aeronautics training center at Glenview, Ill., to the air corps school at Randolph field, Texas. The transfer was announced by Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the 6th corps area.

The cadets have completed 65 hours of dual and solo flying in primary training planes with a cruising speed of 90 to 95 miles an hour. They will begin flying basic training ships with a cruising speed of 140 miles an hour at Randolph field.

Gen. Ford issued another call yesterday for enlistment of new cadets. Those interested, he said, should apply to the commanding general, 6th corps area, postoffice building, Chicago. Applicants may enter the March, May, or June classes.

ESTATE OF $30,000 LEFT BY WINNER OF SWEEP PRIZE

Royal E. Spurlark, Pullman porter who won $75,000 on an Irish sweepstakes ticket in 1938, had $30,000 left when he died at the age of 60 on Jan. 19. Attorney William H. Temple, who filed Spurlark's will for probate yesterday, made the estimate. He said the porter paid a tax of $19,000 on his winnings, and purchased several annuities. He continued working until his death. His home was at 4259 South Park way. The bulk of his estate was left to his second wife, Albertine, whom he married last Dec. 8.

Second Victim of 136 Foot Fall in Tunnel Shaft Dies

John Pender, 29 years old, 4954 South Bell avenue, died last night in the Jackson Park hospital of injuries suffered Wednesday in a 136 foot fall in a tunnel shaft at 75th street and the lake. Arthur Anderson, 33, of 5942 Rice street, hurt in the same accident, which occurred when a scaffold broke, died Wednesday evening. The shaft leads to a water tunnel connecting the new 79th street filtration plant with a main on 75th street.

Linck Is Named State Head of Crippled Children Bureau

Lawrence J. Linck, former director of the Chicago syphilis control project and 1939 winner of the Junior Association of Commerce distinguished service award, has been appointed executive secretary of the Illinois Commission for Physically Handicapped Children, it was announced yesterday.

Today's Features

ON W-G-N.
[Central Standard Time.]

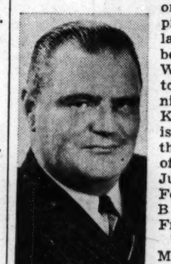
The Camera Cavalcade, W-G-N's new series of dramatic shows based on unusual news pictures of the last decade, will be broadcast over W-G-N from 8:45 to 9 p. m. Tonight's drama, "A King Is Killed," is the story of the assassination of Alexander of Jugo-Slavia, and Foreign Minister Barthou of France.



Col. Stoopnagle.

W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system's Quixie Doodle Contest and Musico, two entertaining quiz shows, will be offered at 7 and 8 p. m., respectively. The first, a program of tricky questions, features Col. Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle as the quizzer. Musico, the song title quiz, is presented by the W-G-N Dance orchestra directed by Harold Stokes, with Bob Elson and Bill Anson as masters of ceremonies.

WOMAN MARKS 109TH BIRTHDAY; OPEN HOUSE HELD

Mrs. Sarah Jane Swanson, who has seen most of this nation's history in the making, celebrated her 109th birthday anniversary yesterday. Relatives and guests attended an open house in the home she shares with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Schlossman, at 9855 Exchange avenue.

As a child Mrs. Swanson listened to her grandfather's stories of Gen. Washington and the revolt of the colonies against England, in which he helped fight for independence.

Alert and ready of wit, Mrs. Swanson said she never has touched alcoholic beverages, but that coffee has been a favorite drink since childhood. She has been twice widowed and reared 11 children, six of whom are living.

JUGGLE RESERVE BOARD TO KEEP ECCLES AS HEAD

Roosevelt Gives Him Post Until 1944.

BY JOHN FISHER.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—President Roosevelt today did some fancy juggling with federal reserve board appointments to enable Marriner S. Eccles to accept reappointment as a member and chairman.

Mr. Roosevelt requested and accepted the resignation of Chester C. Davis as a member of the reserve board of governors, and then appointed Eccles for the remainder of the Davis term, which runs to Feb. 1, 1944. Davis, former head of the Agricultural Adjustment administration,

Both nominations were sent to the senate and prompt confirmation is expected, altho there may be some verbal fireworks over Eccles' reappointment from the Republicans and conservative Democrats who have an utter distaste for Eccles' spending-to-prosperity philosophy, which they have never been able to swallow.

Expect Hard Senate Fight.

He can expect some hard blows, particularly since Mr. Roosevelt adopted this spending policy, hook, line, and sinker. But Mr. Roosevelt's esteem for the Utah spender is expected to prevail with the senate.

The President informed Eccles that when he wishes to retire, he will recommend to congress that it waive the provision of the federal reserve act which bars a governor of the board from entering the service of any member bank for two years if he resigns before the completion of his term.

Eccles had preferred to remain in office on a temporary basis until a successor was chosen, as the law allows, but the President persuaded him to accept the formal reappointment.

Third Term Angle Raised.

The appointment held political significance and caused renewed consternation among political dopesters over Mr. Roosevelt's third term intentions. The political fortunes of the President and Eccles are so intertwined that Eccles has indicated that he will resign if there is a change in administrations in the November elections.

Accordingly, when Eccles confided to associates that he would not accept reappointment but merely serve temporarily, it was interpreted as a sign that Mr. Roosevelt did not intend to run again or that the Democratic prospects were dim. In event of a change Eccles wants to return promptly to his private banking interests in Utah, which the law would prevent.

The President hedged on the situation by persuading Eccles to take a four year term and at the same time promising his henchman relief from the law. Mr. Roosevelt granted himself a "breathing spell" on the third term decision, which he is urged from all quarters to make soon.

In a letter to Eccles, dated yesterday and released by the White House today, the President detailed the new procedure.

CITY'S BUILDING DECLINE IS MORE THAN SEASONAL

Building construction in Chicago during January showed more than a seasonal decline compared with the same month last year. According to Building Commissioner Schmidt, 146 permits were issued for structures costing $868,399 last month. During January of last year 157 permits were taken out for buildings valued at $1,171,350. There were 206 permits issued in December, 1939, for buildings costing $1,610,105.

Home building continued the most active of all types of construction last month, but the volume was slightly less than a year ago and for the preceding month. Permits were taken out for 119 single family dwellings last month. This compared with 128 in January, 1939, and 152 in December, 1939.

TREASURY BARES 550 MILLION DROP IN U. S. REVENUES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1 (AP).—The treasury reported today revenue collections from all sources in the calendar year 1939 totaled $4,957,046,038. This was $550,567,312 less than the $5,507,613,350 yield for the 1938 calendar year.

Illinois, $464,872,497 and $399,934,504; Indiana, $113,440,074 and $114,006,527; Iowa, $24,851,430 and $22,637,157; Kansas, $22,149,027 and $21,059,391; Kentucky, $126,325,107 and $136,272,138; Michigan, $282,232,023 and $244,979,013; Minnesota, $71,444,523 and $63,329,615; Missouri, $137,649,568 and $128,715,253; New Jersey, $208,567,057 and $194,623,177; Pennsylvania, $471,892,546 and $421,534,500; Wisconsin, $91,606,980 and $81,128,927.

Suit Asks Lake Shore Club Be Sold for Taxes

The state's attorney's office filed suit yesterday in Superior court to sell the Lake Shore Athletic club, 850 Lake Shore drive, at auction in order to satisfy $456,000 which is owing in delinquent taxes since 1928.

This is the largest suit yet filed in the county's campaign to collect back taxes, according to Assistant State's Attorney Marshall Kearney, head of the tax division. A month ago a similar foreclosure suit was filed to collect taxes of $311,711 on the Southmoor hotel.

Other Charges Waived.

The $456,000 does not include penalties, interest, or other charges against the property. These have been waived so that the county may collect as much of the delinquency as possible thru an arrangement with the Cleveland Trust company, trustees of the property, who have just completed a reorganization plan in the federal court.

"The trustees have guaranteed a minimum bid of $395,000 on the delinquent taxes," said Kearney. "Any one who wants to can outbid that price. Before we file such a large suit we must be sure of a bid that will give the county a substantial return on the principal of the taxes and that there is no other way in which to collect so large a sum."

Trustees Make Bid.

The minimum bid, Kearney said, was received in a letter from Tim G. Lowry, attorney for the trustees. Lowry explained that the amount offered was the most that could be raised. It will be obtained by a $550,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation which, Lowry said, has been assured.

In addition to paying the back taxes the trustees, in complying with RFC requirements, will place $57,000 on deposit to take care of the 1939 taxes, which will not be in collection until this spring. The trustees also will deposit $14,250 toward payment of the 1940 taxes, and will pay a $4,500 personal property tax bill.

County Assured $470,750.

This assures the county an eventual collection of $470,750 in delinquent, current, and future taxes. So that no other parties could come in later and obstruct the deal, the trustees applied for an injunction in the federal court to prevent foreclosure. This was denied by Judge Charles E. Woodward, who has jurisdiction over the property, which has been alternately in receivership and reorganization for eight years.

"We are confident," Lowry said yesterday, "that after the arrearage is paid the property will be able to pay its taxes as they accrue. Under the reorganization plan the bondholders will receive stock. All earnings for the next ten years will go toward operating expenses, taxes, and repaying the RFC loan."

ICC OPPOSES SENATE BILL TO CODIFY ACT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce commission recomended to congress today that transportation legislation for the present be confined to "matters of principal importance."

The commission, thru its legislative committee headed by Chairman Joseph B. Eastman, suggested that congress approve "the form" of a house bill amending present laws and adding a new section to the interstate commerce act for the regulation of water carriers, rather than approve a senate proposal for codification of the interstate commerce act. The two bills, acted upon by house and senate last session, are pending before a conference committee.

The report recommended elimination from the house bill of a provision making railroad consolidation impossible in any case where employés would be adversly affected.

STANDARD OIL BUYS U. S. RIGHTS TO BUNA SYNTHETIC RUBBER

New York, Feb. 1 (AP).—An official of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey said today his company had acquired the American rights for the production of Buna synthetic rubber from I. G. Farbenindustrie of Germany.

Standard Oil, by a new catalytic oil refining process perfected by itself, it was said, will manufacture the organic chemical called Butadiene to use as the basis for both Buna-N and Buna-S, described as two grades of synthetic rubber promising commercial success.

Buna-N was described as the highest grade type, more resistant to oil and gasoline decay than natural rubber and, consequently, suitable for mechanical and scientific rubber uses. Buna-S, it was said, is regarded as suitable for automobile tires and it was suggested that its cost, on a mass production basis, would compare favorably with natural rubber.

It was understood that Standard Oil might license the rubber making process to American manufacturers, limiting itself mainly to the production of Butadiene.

DIRECTORS GIVEN FOUR MONTHS TO QUIT BANK POSTS

'Final' Delay Granted in Limiting Jobs.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1 (AP).—The federal reserve board today granted a "final" extension of four months to persons who are directors of more than one federal reserve member bank to resign from all but one of their banking connections.

The extension, the third since congress decreed a prohibition on interlocking bank directorates in 1935, was granted at the request of President Roosevelt and Senators Wagner [D., N. Y.] and Glass [D., Va.].

Action Is Surprise.

The prohibition would have gone into effect at midnight tonight if the board, at a special meeting today, had not acted.

The new extension came as a surprise to banking circles because, as late as yesterday, federal reserve officials, altho recognizing their authority to grant another extension, were saying that the matter was "out of our hands."

They meant by that that congress and the President had determined the policy against interlocking bank directorates and President Roosevelt last year vetoed new legislation to delay enforcement of it.

President Offers No Objection.

In announcing the new extension, however, the board made public a letter from Mr. Roosevelt saying:

"In view of my veto last year of the bill extending the time for ending interlocking bank directorships and in view of the apparent hope on the part of some of these directors that some method could be devised for a slight extension of the final date, I am writing to you [M. S. Eccles, chairman] and the board to tell you that I have no objection to a short extension—say three months but no longer than four months."

It is estimated that around 400 directors will be affected by the law The ban applies only to competing banks in the same locality.

Lower Staple Prices Urged by Economist

A progressive reduction of commodity prices was suggested as a primary factor in spreading a higher standard of living by Dr. Harold G. Moulton of Washington, D. C., president of Brookings institute, in an address yesterday before the annual convention of the Illinois Agricultural association in the Stevens hotel.

Earl C. Smith reëlected I. A. A. president.

"If the economic system can be so operated as to produce and sell ever increasing quantities of commodities consumed by American families, employment would be provided for the entire population for generations to come," he asserted.

In a resolution passed at the closing session of the convention, the delegates asked that the Agricultural Adjustment administration be maintained at all costs and that its administration be kept free from politics. Earl C. Smith, president of the I. A. A., had said in his annual address to the convention that the billions of dollars spent so far by the AAA had not even approached a permanent farm problem solution.

Other resolutions called for extension of the reciprocal trade agreements for another three years and the coördination of all types of transportation thru private ownership and operation.

WALLACE RAPPED IN HOUSE FOR FARM CUT BLAST

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1 [Special].—Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, was sharply assailed in the house today for remarks yesterday that political consequences might follow the cutting by congress of the 1941 agriculture supply bill by $155,000,000 and the failure to include $212,000,000 in parity payments for farmers.

Criticism of the secretary came after the farm bloc had restored a cut of $126,828 made by the house appropriations committee to an item for investigation of dry land farming. All other attempts to restore cuts, however, were defeated by the house as it moved toward a possible final vote tomorrow on the bill.

Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [D., Va.] said that if the farm program were a failure, it was not because congress had failed to appropriate for it. He cited figures showing the appropriations for the department in past years had exceeded a billion dollars.

Representative Massingale [D., Okla.] had this to say: "I have heard it said that Mr. Wallace has more college degrees than any man in Washington, and I have heard it said that he has less practical, common, farming sense per college degree than any man in Washington."

TOWNSEND RAPS MORGENTHAU IN GOLD SQUABBLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—Senator John G. Townsend Jr. [R., Del.], ranking minority member of the senate banking committee, today ridiculed Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's professed inability to get accurate figures on Russian gold production.

Townsend's speech to the senate was in the form of a rebuttal to Morgenthau's comments on charges by the senate that the administration is aiding Russia by purchasing her gold, and thereby aiding Russia more than Finland, despite pretenses of aiding the latter country.

Morgenthau said on Monday that Townsend's charges were "ridiculous" and that as long as he had been in office he had been unable to get accurate figures on soviet gold output. Moreover, he indicated that the treasury would continue buying gold at $35 an ounce from any and all countries.

Denies Russian Imports.

The next day Morgenthau said that the treasury had no imports of gold from Russia in 1939, altho the assay office in New York received two deposits of gold bars worth 10½ million dollars, bearing a Russian stamp.

"Now I am very much afraid the able secretary of the treasury is trying to take our eye off the ball when he tells us that in 1939 the assay office received only two deposits of gold bars bearing a Russian stamp," Townsend told the senate.

He quoted official British figures showing that the United Kingdom received from Russia gold valued at £40,367,787 [about $161,067,000] in 1937 and £23,236,365 [about $90,513,000] in 1938.

"Since the United Kingdom in turn sent us very much more gold than it imported from the U. S. S. R., does it take the secret service to discover what became of the Russian gold?" Townsend asked. "If the treasury's secret service wants any further information on this matter, I can tell them, confidentially, of course, that it is published each month in the federal reserve bulletin."

Presents Mint Figures.

Townsend also said Morgenthau apparently does not know that the United States mint, a division of the treasury, publishes figures on the soviet's gold production.

He produced a book which he said was the annual report of the director of the mint, listing Russia's gold production in 1938.

These figures showed, Townsend said, that Russia produced 5,235,909 ounces of gold, valued at $186,256,815, at the rate of $35 an ounce. Townsend quoted from dispatches to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and other newspaper articles in addressing the senate.

"I am glad the secretary has had his attention called to the gold and silver problem of this country by the reporters who cover the treasury," the senator said.

"When the United States holds the largest stocks of gold and silver ever accumulated by any government in history, and keeps on buying them at high and artificial prices, then that is ridiculous.

Criticizes Claim to Profit.

"When the secretary of the treasury as manager of the stabilization fund sells silver to himself as manager of the general fund, marks up the price in the process, and then announces that the stabilization fund has made a 'profit,' that is ridiculous.

"When we have more than $5,500,000,000 of excess reserves and the federal reserve system is powerless, as it tells us, to prevent a wild inflation, and yet we keep on adding to those excess reserves by purchasing unwanted foreign gold and silver at fancy prices, then that is ridiculous."

A treasury official tonight called in reporters to tell them that the figures mentioned by Townsend were "unofficial estimates." He said that Russia keeps its gold production figures an official secret.

Operating Net of Railways Up 215 Millions

Net operating income of the class one railroads in 1939 totaled $588,800,892, compared with $373,510,639 in 1938 and with $868,719,483 in 1930, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. The gain over 1938 was 215 millions.

[Class 1 railroads are those having gross revenues of $1,000,000 or more a year. Net operating income is income before bond interest and other fixed charges.]

The 1939 income represented a return of 2.26 per cent on the railroads' property investment, the association said. In 1938 the return was 1.43 per cent and in 1930 it was 3.36 per cent.

Gross Nearly 4 Billions.

Gross operating revenues for 1939 totaled $3,995,070,943, compared with $3,564,829,551 in 1938. Operating expenses totaled $2,918,215,991, against $2,721,494,485 in 1938.

The association said that 14 railroads in 1939 failed to earn enough to pay expenses of operation and to provide for taxes.

The class one roads in December had a total net operating income of $60,953,114, against $49,418,855 in December, 1938. Gross operating revenues in December totaled $345,246,952, against $318,281,036 in December, 1938. Operating expenses aggregated $249,012,819, against $232,619,459.

Union Pacific Net Income Gains.

The Union Pacific reported yesterday that its 1939 net operating income totaled $20,233,187, against $19,867,391 in 1938. Gross revenues for the year totaled $164,253,371, against $150,213,214. December net operating income was $3,164,996, compared with $2,646,369 in December, 1938, and the December gross was $13,513,771, against $13,950,972.

The preliminary report of the St. Louis Southwestern Lines for 1939 disclosed a net loss of $2,018,321, against a net loss of $926,877 in 1938.

CHICAGO TRANSIT LINES ALL SHOW JANUARY GAINS

The Chicago Surface Lines carried 59,475,219 passengers last month, the company announced yesterday, or 4.94 per cent more than the 56,672,164 transported in January, 1939. During the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, according to the report, 679,137,852 persons rode the street cars. This, compared to 676,258,744 in the comparable period a year earlier, represents an increase of 0.42 per cent.

The Chicago Motor Coach company reported that its buses transported 5,007,724 persons last month, an increase of 9.5 per cent over the 4,571,960 total of a year earlier. Inclement weather a year ago, the company said, hindered transportation facilities, while the subzero weather of last month did not affect them.

While the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] released no figures, it reported that January traffic was 5.23 per cent over the corresponding month a year ago.

Customs Collections Show No War Gains in Chicago

Collections in the Chicago customs district totaled $701,155 last month, Joseph A. Ziemba, customs collector, reported yesterday, against $700,714 in the comparable period a year earlier. The slight increase, he reported, indicated that the European war has had little effect on Chicago imports.

FOREIGN TRADE BOARD IS URGED BY VANDENBERG

Aim May Be Discard of Hull Program.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1 (AP).—A plan to set up a foreign trade board to deal with all phases of foreign trade promotion was offered congress today by Senator Vandenberg [R., Mich.] in a move interpreted as a substitute for the program of Secretary of State Hull.

Senator Vandenberg.

The board would replace the tariff commission and would have power to control imports, to encourage exports thru barter agreements and otherwise, to raise or lower tariffs under explicit congressional authority, to take direct action "in connection with the troublesome problem of blocked exchange," and to coördinate foreign trade and finance statistics.

"Such an agency is necessary," Vandenberg said, "if we shall realistically meet world trade conditions. It will be doubly necessary in post-war periods of readjustment."

Offers Middle Ground.

While Vandenberg disclaimed any intention of offering his plan as a direct replacement for the Hull program, he said: "This method of handling the problem suggests an answer to those who insist there is no middle ground between 'congressional log-rolling' and the 'Hull trade agreements program.'"

The senator contended his plan would deal with the problems of competition and protection that have been raised in connection with operation of the trade program.

"It seeks to provide practical machinery for keeping our tariffs in constant adjustment to competitive American costs of production, without the necessity of general tariff revisions," he declared.

He said his bill would "create authority, now substantially lacking, to record and control international financial transactions, which are just as intimately related to our foreign and domestic economy as are commodity transactions."

Unify Promotion Efforts.

The trade board, he said, would unify foreign trade promotion efforts "now scattered thru 50 different bureaus and departments."

"New and radically different methods" of world trade control, such as quotas, embargoes and exchange control, demand machinery to cope with them, he argued.

Asserting "facts could take precedence over theories" under his plan, Vandenberg concluded:

"The foreign trade board must be composed of men thoroly experienced with all phases of our domestic economy, representing all political parties, all geographical sections, and all national interests and activities so that, as a whole, it may speak authentically for all America."

Meanwhile, the house ways and means committee heard further testimony on proposals to renew the existing trade act, under which Secretary Hull has been negotiating agreements with other nations for reciprocal reduction of tariff barriers.

January Auto Production Called Highest in History

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 1 (AP).—Automotive News in its forthcoming issue will place January production of motor vehicles at 465,217 units, surpassing the industry's previous January record of 422,538 cars and trucks in 1929. The trade publication estimated this week's assemblies at 100,691, compared with 103,219 last week and 78,480 this week a year ago. Graham-Paige, idle for almost a year, is expected to resume final assemblies sometime in March.

New York Stocks.

New York, Feb. 1 (AP).—Efforts of timid buyers to pull the stock market out of the rut met with faint response today and despite scattered firm spots the trend generally was slightly downward. It was the seventh consecutive session in which the list, as a whole, finished unchanged or lower.

Exemplifying the day's indifferent performance was the turnover of 460,535 shares, compared with 610,010 the day before. The news was neither particularly good nor bad, from a speculative standpoint.

A contra-seasonal increase in last week's freight loadings resulted in faint improvement in a few rail shares. A cut in the domestic copper price by producers helped metal shares. Signs of a further drop in next week's steel mill operations found most stocks in this group at a standstill. A boost in some tire prices by Goodrich helped buoy rubber company stocks. A reduction in crude quotations by Standard Oil of California failed to disturb the petroleum stocks.

Aircrafts did relatively well, Glenn Martin, United, and Sperry ending with modest advances. Talk persisted of expanding foreign demand for war planes. Continental Motors and Studebaker again were among the liveliest performers with minor gains.

United States Steel was off ¼ and Bethlehem up ¼. General Motors was down ⅛ and Chrysler up as much.

Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit preferred entered new high ground for 1939-'40, up 1½ as New York's transportation unification plans were pressed.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 1 (AP).—United States government issues, some New York tractions and a few foreign government dollar loans, gaining fairly actively, furnished the bond market a little action today. Most corporates declined slightly, and, in the curb, Standard Gas and Electric bonds slipped around a point.

The federals were buoyant thruout the day, closing as much as 10-32 point higher but the volume of dealing in these issues, as well as in all the others, was comparatively small.

Obligations of Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, Brooklyn Union Elevated, and Interborough Rapid Transit rose around two points on reports of further progress toward unification of New York's transportation facilities.

Bonds of Finland, Norway, and Denmark again led the foreign list higher, with Italian, Cuban, and Uruguyan issues also making small advances.

Chicago Stocks.

Berghoff Brewing shares reached a new high at 11, up ¼ point, on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. The stock closed at the day's best price. Declines outnumbered advances in the list of 104 issues traded, with 47 closing lower and 28 moving up. Sales totaled 23,000 shares.

Up ⅛ were Commonwealth Edison, Middle West, and Bendix Aviation. Edison shares led in volume on a turnover of 1,600. Sales of Chicago corporation shares amounted to 1,550, closing unchanged at 1⅜.

Bank Stocks.

Northern Trust advanced three points to 563 in bank stock trading yesterday, with Harris Trust following with a two-point gain to 297. Chicago Title and Trust was up one at a bid of 119 while Continental Illinois declined half a point to 89½. Other issues were steady.

INDUSTRY SHOWS MODERATE SPURT IN VARIED FIELDS

Carnegie-Illinois Receives British War Order.

Reports of activity in varied lines of enterprises yesterday indicated at least moderate support for industry. Engineering construction awards for the week ended Feb. 1, as reported by the Engineering News-Record, showed a substantial gain over the preceding week and a small increase over the 1939 week.

The total amount involved in the contracts was $62,942,000, compared with $32,678,000 in the preceding week and with $59,036,000 in the 1938 week. Of the total $33,918,000 consisted of private contracts and $29,024,000 public, with the public divided $21,454,000 municipal and $7,570,000 federal.

In the preceding week private contracts totaled $9,142,000 and public $23,536,000 and in the comparable 1939 week the totals were $18,173,000 private and $40,863,000 public.

Get British Steel Order.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, largest operating subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, yesterday received an order for 50,000 tons of semi-finished steel products from England. Delivery is to be taken by the end of this quarter. Whether any of it will be rolled in the Chicago district has not been decided.

The machine tool industry was reported as continuing to operate at a high level, altho incoming business was below that received during the last quarter of 1939 when the volume of new orders received was the largest in recent years. Some companies in the Cleveland area reported that their backlogs are so large that delivery dates on some machines extend into 1941.

The Connecticut Power company will require about $4,000,000 of financing to provide for construction during the year, it was stated.

Textile Pay Raises Voted.

Indicating improved business, managers of a number of textile mills in the Hartford, Conn., district posted notices that they will raise wages 5 per cent, effective Monday.

T. M. Deal, president of the Link-Belt Speeder corporation, subsidiary of the Link-Belt company, Chicago, reported yesterday that a "buying mood" is noticeable among the engineers and road officials attending the convention of the American Road Builders association.

NEW SELMAVILLE WELL PRODUCING 425 BBLS. HOURLY

Centralia, Ill., Feb. 1 [Special].—The Paul Rossi Drilling company's oil well, No. 9 Brooks, brought in from the recently discovered Devonian lime in the rich Lake Centralia-Salem field, was flowing today at a steady rate of 425 barrels an hour for an indicated all-time record for producing wells in Illinois. The flow was measured after an acid treatment of 5,000 gallons this morning.

The well is located two miles southwest of Selmaville in the heart of the Lake Field.

FLORSHEIM.

It seems to me that Florsheim Shoe company should be doing pretty well considering its intrenched position in the quality shoe trade. I wonder if its earnings show the effectiveness of its advertising and manufacturing policies?—T. G.

Answer: Florsheim Shoe company has operated at a profit every fiscal year since its incorporation in 1922, except for 1932. In step with general business conditions, the company experienced its most profitable years from 1923 thru 1930. After 1930 earnings dropped sharply, but rose again in 1936 on business recovery. Profits in 1937 were near the preceding year's high level, but in 1938 receded about 50 per cent.

Improved business conditions in 1939 brought net income of the company to more than double that in 1938. The following table compares gross profits, net income, and earnings per share of class A common stock in recent fiscal years ending Oct. 31:

|---|---|---|---|
| 1935 | $2,229,000 | $ 591,000 | $1.48 |
| 1936 | 2,569,000 | 1,041,000 | 2.60 |
| 1937 | 2,619,000 | 929,000 | 2.32 |
| 1938 | 2,011,000 | 457,000 | 1.14 |
| 1939 | 2,786,000 | 998,000 | 2.50 |

Capitalization of the company consists of 236,293 shares of class A common stock and 327,414 shares of class B common stock, both of no par value. The class B shares are closely held. Each class A share is entitled to twice the dividends paid on each class B share.

Dividends paid on the class A stock in 1935 totaled $1 a share; in 1936 and 1937, $2; in 1938, $1, and in 1939, $2. On Jan. 2 this year 50 cents a share was distributed or the class A stock and 25 cents on the class B stock.

Florsheim manufactures quality shoes for men and women. Its factories are in Chicago. The shoes are sold thru approximately 100 retail outlets operated by subsidiaries and thru 6,000 independent dealers.

OVERINSURED?

I recently purchased an insurance policy on my 6 months old baby. I was told later that this policy was excess insurance because I already had a life insurance policy on the baby from another company and that the second company would not pay any claim if the child were to pass away. The person who told me this said the Illinois laws set a limit on life insurance. Is there such a limit? —M. Mc.

Answer: No. The insurance code of Illinois does not limit the amount of life insurance which may be purchased on a person's life.

WEEK'S CAR LOADINGS 10% LARGER THAN IN SAME PERIOD OF 1939

Revenue freight cars loaded by the nation's railroads during the week ended Jan. 27 totaled 649,488, an increase of 59,029, or 10 per cent, compared with the corresponding week a year ago, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. The latest week's total represented an increase of .5 of 1 per cent, or 3,666 cars, from the level of the preceding week.

A substantial increase in coal loadings during the week more than offset decreases in shipments of miscellaneous freight, live stock, forest products, and ore, according to the association. This contributed to the small contraseasonal rise in total loadings.

BOARD OF TRADE BUILDING RENTAL AGENT CHANGED

Hogan & Farwell Hired to Seek Revenue Boost.

Hogan & Farwell, Inc., has been appointed renting and managing agent for the Board of Trade building, it was announced yesterday. The 44 story structure, one of the middle west's largest office buildings, has been managed by Albert H. Wetten & Co. since its construction was completed in 1930.

Leo L. Hogan.

Hogan & Farwell, of which Leo L. Hogan is president, will take over the management May 1. While the Board of Trade itself made no official announcement of the change, it was understood that members of the exchange have been seeking to increase rental revenues from the building.

Owned by Deposit Company.

The building and land are owned by the Chicago Board of Trade Safe Deposit company, whose capital stock is owned by the Board of Trade. The exchange agrees to make up in additional rent for the 80,000 square feet of the building it occupies, any amount the Safe Deposit company needs to meet its obligations.

Operation of the building has not been profitable for several years, and at present, it is reported, only 71 per cent of its 600,000 square feet of space is rented.

In the latest report of the Safe Deposit company, covering conditions as of Dec. 31, 1938, the value of the land, building, fixtures, and improvements was placed at $23,341,365.

List Outstanding Liens.

At that time the Safe Deposit company had a funded debt of $10,378,400, consisting of $8,800,000 in 4 per cent first mortgage bonds held entirely by the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, and $1,578,400 in 5 per cent junior mortgage bonds, most of which were held by members of the Board of Trade.

The Safe Deposit company also owed $10,490,000 directly to the Board of Trade on a 5 per cent note secured by a purchase money mortgage on land and building, and $308,000 on another note.

In 1937 the principal of the loan made by Northwestern Mutual Life was scaled down $1,218,000 and the interest reduced from 5 to 4 per cent annually. This was accomplished partly thru an additional assessment of $150 a year levied on the 1,500 members of the Board of Trade for four years. The 1940 assessment will be the final one.

Overriding Rent Is High.

The desire of members to increase rental revenues of the Safe Deposit company is explained by the amounts of additional rent the Board of Trade has paid the Safe Deposit company in recent years. The additional rent was on top of primary rent of $525,000 a year, and went to make up amounts the Safe Deposit company needed to meet obligations.

For 1939 the additional rent was estimated at $370,400. In 1938 it totaled $449,819. In 1937 it was estimated at $458,000. In 1936 it totaled $340,354.

Chicago Towel Company Re-elects All Officers

All directors and officers of Chicago Towel company were reelected yesterday at the annual meeting, according to J. E. Lane, secretary and treasurer. A directors' meeting will be held about March 1 to consider payment of a dividend for the first quarter of this year, he said.

COTTON

Trading in cotton yesterday was light but the market showed a firmer undertone in sympathy with Liverpool. Mills and spot interests were fair buyers and more than offset selling of the distant deliveries by Bombay. Closing trades were at gains of .01 to .15 cent a pound.

Spot cotton closed .04 to .10 cent higher with New York, 10.89 cents; New Orleans, 10.56 cents; Galveston, 10.42 cents, and Houston at 10.40 cents per pound. Prices follow:

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Portion of the superstructure of the 10,002 ton British liner Dunbar Castle as it appeared from approaching boat off southeast coast of England after the liner had been torn in half by mine on Jan. 9. All 48 passengers and all but three of the crew members of the liner got away safely in lifeboats and were rescued.

Another view of the sinking of the British liner Dunbar Castle. The deck of the ship is awash, but an artillery piece rises out of the water along with parts of the ship's superstructure. The vessel was sunk by explosion of mine.

Aerial party which is lost in South America shown in front of plane before takeoff in Chicago Jan. 1. Left to right: Mrs. Doris Wallace, S. H. Bowers, Miss June Sprau, Miss Frieda Zylstra, Mrs. S. R. Allen, and Pilot James W. Allen. Mrs. Allen, the pilot's mother, is not mentioned as one of those now lost. [TRIBUNE Photo.] (Story on page 7.)

THE SILVERSHIRT LEGION of AMERICA

OFFICE OF THE NATIONAL COMMANDER

P. O. BOX 1776

(Boston, Mass)
7-22-'38

Dear Dave:

This letter will confirm instruction resulting from conference held at Headquarters during which The Senator--McConnell--True--Hial and others were present.

The conference verified belief that we may safely continue "in the understanding that Dies will not go out of his way to call us or to embarrass us--True--Fr.Coughlin--George or The Legion." However there remains the chance of disagreement between Dies and one of his committee--or even between him and one of those of us entrusted with the responsibility of "keeping us off the fly-paper"----Jealousy in matter of rival organizations might serve to "turn the official heat on us" also---therefore---You will be expected, as liaison officer, to remain constantly informed---Report the first sign of disloyalty or misunderstanding---Do NOT ACT on information--Leave that to me--And for the present do not report on such matters to Mac or in the presence of Hinchliffe.

In short--make the customary calls--Just "drop in" on certain individuals--No questions---Observe and listen.

Unless the matter be urgent do not report by letter or wire here, and in the event of my not returning to Headquarters by August 1 st., I will advise itinerary.

Sincerely yours

Pelley
